BELLARY.

The district of Bellary (Yalahari) lies between latitudes $14^{\circ} 14'$ and $15^{\circ} 57'$ and longitude $75^{\circ} 45'$ and $77^{\circ} 40'$ with an area, including the Sandur State, of 5,714 sq. miles, and a population of 969,436 (according to the 1911 Census). Languages spoken in the district are Canarese, Telugu and Hindustani. It is bounded on the north by H.H. the Nizam's Territory, from which it is divided by the Tungabhadra river; on the south-west and south by the Mysore country; on the east by the districts of Anantapur and Kurnool, and on the west by Mysore and the district of Dharwar in the Bombay Presidency. The height of the plateau averages from 800 to 1,000 feet above the level of the sea. The western taluqs are the highest, as the country there gradually slopes towards the western ghats. In the southern taluq, also, as the table-land of Mysore is reached, the elevation is not inconsiderable. The soil in the eastern taluqs is largely composed of the celebrated regada or black cotton soil. In the western taluqs, there are patches of the same soil, but the red soils predominate, and, in the neighbourhood of hills, good gravel is found.

The general aspect is that of an extensive plateau, elevated on the shoulders of the western and eastern ghats, the plain of which forms a considerable angle with the horizon, inclining towards the east coast of the peninsula. Thus at Belgam, in the South Mahratta country, the height of the plain is 2,568 feet above the level of the sea, at Bellary it is 1,600 feet. The western ghats clearly form the antichlinal line to which the arenaceous and chisteous eastern ranges are more or less conformable. The plain has another and more gentle dip towards the north, to the beds of the Kistna and Tungabhadra rivers. The bed of the Tungabhadra is a little more than 1,000 feet above the level of the sea; the plain rises as we proceed south, and, in the centre of the district, it is 1,500 feet, and on the Mysore frontier in the south, 2,223 feet above the sea. To the centre of the district the surface of the plain presents a monotonous and almost treeless extent, bounded by the horizon, and unbroken, save by a few rocky elevations that stand forth abruptly from the sheet of black soil like rocks from the ocean. Of this tract, Sir T. Munro wrote: "These districts are more destitute of trees than any part of Scotland I ever saw; the traveller scarcely meets with one in twenty miles and nowhere with a clump of fifty." Since this was written large sums of money have been spent in planting trees and some success has been attained. The town of Bellary itself is fairly well wooded, and, along all the roads in the district, avenues have been planted. The Sandur hills are covered with a good growth, though the trees are nowhere very large yet. Almost every variety of tree known in S. India can be found on these hills. In the Kudligi Taluk there are large areas now under reservation, containing a fair growth of small forest.

In the reign of Krishna Rayel of Vijayanagar, a small fort was built at Bellary by Timmappa, a dependant of that king. He and his son Rangappa held it for many years, paying an annual tribute of Rs. 1,000. After the battle of Telikota, Bellary became subject to the Mohammedan sovereigns of Bijapur, but the successors of Rangappa Naick were almost independent, and in 1650, Hanumappa, his grandson, defeated the descendant of the Vijayanagar Rajas, who claimed tribute from him, in a battle which was fought near Kamph. For another century the feud went on between the Rajas of Bellary, as they now styled themselves, and their former masters. After a time, Bellary became part of the possessions of the Nizam and was included in the jaghire of Adoni, which had been given to Basalat Jung, the Nizam's brother. In 1769 Sadar Jung and M. Bussey were sent from Adoni to collect the tribute, which the Poligar had for some years refused to pay. The Poligar rashly called Hyder Ali to his aid, who reached Bellary by forced marches, and engaged and defeated the army of Basalat Jung, in the plain at the foot of the rock. Doddappa Naick, the Poligar, who had watched the contest from the top of the rock, fled by night to Sholapur, and Hyder took possession. He spent much money on the fortifications, and, with the assistance of some French adventurers, who were in his camp, he built the upper and the lower forts much as they now are. Tradition adds, that at the completion of the work these Frenchmen were hanged near the fort gate, because Hyder then for the first time discovered that the other rock was the higher, and that from it his stronghold could be commanded. Bellary was held by Hyder Ali and afterwards by Tipu till 1792, when, by the partition treaty of 1792, it fell to the Nizam. The rock round which Bellary town is built is a huge granitic mass, rising somewhat abruptly from the plain. It is about 450 feet above the level of the plain, and nearly two miles in circumference. To the east and south, the appearance presented is that of a heap of boulders irregularly piled one on the other, but, to the west, it slopes down more gradually and offers an unbroken surface of sheet-rock. To the north is a smaller detached mass of rocks.

The climate of Bellary is characterized by extreme dryness, in consequence of the air passing over such an extent of heated plains. Less rain is supposed to fall at Bellary than at any other place in South India. The quantity of moisture in the air, as indicated by the hydrometer, is exceedingly minute, though the air is remarkable for its transparency. More rain falls in the taluqs bordering on the Tungabhadra. From the situation of the district, almost in the centre of the peninsula, it benefits by both monsoons, and yet does not get the full force of either. From the commencement of November to the end of May rain rarely falls, though sometimes, in April and May, there are violent thunderstorms and much atmospheric disturbance. In the first week in June, the south-west monsoon is looked for, and, with the first few heavy showers the hot weather is at an end. About 5 inches of rain fall in this month and July. Towards the end of September, the wind veers round to the north, and, about the middle of October, the district is visited by the north-east monsoon. The average rainfall in September and October is $9\frac{1}{2}$ inches.

The cool season begins in the month of November, at the close of the north-east monsoon. During this period the wind is steady from the north-east and the weather is extremely pleasant. In the early mornings the thermometer is often as low as 62°, but the usual daily range is from 67° to 88°. The atmosphere is clear and the nights very cool. Towards the end of February the weather begins to get hot and early in March the country presents an altered appearance. As the month advances the hot west winds set in, vegetation disappears, all the grass is burned up, and the country resembles a dreary waste. In the black cotton country the soil, baked as hard as a stone, is split in all directions by cracks and fissures, from one to three feet in depth. In the other taluks dust-storms are of frequent occurrence. The atmosphere glows intensely, and the glare, increased by the white and sparkling nature of the ground, is most distressing. The tanks rapidly dry up and expose beds of slime and decomposing mud. The nights are generally calm, and the atmosphere is stagnant and oppressive to a degree. Towards the end of May the heat is almost insupportable. At midnight even, the thermometer sometimes marks 100° Fahr., and glass and wood crack simply from the heat. In the daytime the house can be cooled by cuscus tatties, but after sunset the hot wind usually fails. At the end of the month, or in the beginning of June, heavy clouds begin to gather in the south-west, and generally after a few days of oppressive stillness, the approach of the monsoon is heralded by two or three violent thunder-storms. These cool and refresh the air, and the hot weather is at an end. The interval between the two monsoons is generally very pleasant. The days are cloudy and the air fresh and agreeable. September is usually close and oppressive and this lasts till the rain falls. For three months of the year the heat is excessive, but the remaining nine months are comparatively cool and pleasant.

CHINGLEPUT.

The District of Chingleput derives its name from the Town Chingleput. The Town in Tamil is made up of two words "Cheungalvam and pattan," Cheungalvam means red lotus, as it was a town full of red lotuses, which also now continue, though not in abundance. The district encloses the city of Madras, and comprises the six taluqs of Chingleput, Conjeeveram, Madurantakam, Ponneri, Saidapet and Tiruvallur, with an area of 3,073 square miles, and population of 1,400,800, the majority of whom are engaged in agriculture. There are 21,225 weavers, a third of whom reside in and about Conjeeveram. The languages of the district are Tamil and Telugu. The Palar is the chief river in the district. Parts of the Chingleput and Madurantakam taluqs are undoubtedly pretty, presenting undulating plains varied by ridged or conical hills. These taluqs are well-known as snipe grounds. Snipe are found from October till the end of March. The South Indian Railway Company has two lines in the district; one short branch, 18½ miles, connects Conjeeveram with Arkonam, another runs from Madras southwards, passing on its way through St. Thomas Mount, Pallavaram, Chingleput and Madurantakam.

Chingleput is the chief town of the district and here are the offices of the District Judge and Sub-Collector, but the Headquarters of the Collectorate are at Saidapet. The Fort, which is Chingleput's chief characteristic, was erected after the fall of the Vijayanagar power about the end of the 16th century. It passed out of the possession of its original constructors, the Hindus, into the hands of the Mahomedans, and, in 1751, it was taken by Chanda Sahib from Mahomed Ali, when, with the aid of the French, he invaded the Carnatic. In 1752, a French force sallied from it and made a fruitless attempt to prevent the capture of Covelong by Capt. Clive, who, after reducing the place, marched on Chingleput and took it. With the advent of peace, a jail was established, and in 1887, the fort was practically handed over to the Educational department for the purpose of a Reformatory School. This school is intended for the juvenile offenders of the Presidency, who are sent there by the Magistracy, usually for petty offences, theft, etc. The staff consists of a Superintendent who is the Medical Officer of the District, a Deputy Superintendent, who is the chief and permanent executive officer, and who is a member of the Provincial Educational Service. The present incumbent is Mr. J. W. Coombes, B.A., L.T., an English-trained expert in weaving and kindred industries. There is also a staff of teachers and trained instructor-maistries. The boys are taught carpenter's, blacksmith's and rattan work, tailoring, weaving, etc. There is also a band and bugle class. Great attention is paid to physical and moral training, and, when the boys leave the institution they are provided with appointments through the help of the District Magistrate. The work of the institution is unique, and it is well worth a visit; it differs from similar institutions in other parts of India, inasmuch as the boys are treated in a manner akin to that of a Boarding School. There are two High Schools in the town, the Native High School and the U. F. C. M. High School with a student population of 800.

The principal places of interest in the District are—

The Seven Pagodas on the coast, which can be approached by road from Chingleput, at a distance of 18 miles. These are monolithic temples, Dravidian in character, and are certainly anterior to the 7th century B.C. No traveller should fail to visit these works of the sculptor's art.

Tirukalikundram, or the hill of the sacred kites, is situated half-way between Chingleput and the sea coast. It is a ridge terminating in a spiked hill, on which stand the remains of a quaint temple of great antiquity, and dedicated to Siva. Every day two birds of the kite species come to the hill to be fed by an attendant Pandaram. They are said to come from Benares.

Conjeeveram lies 22 miles West of Chingleput. The native name of the place is Kanchi or golden city, (or the place where Brahma worshipped Vishnu) and Siva is said to have exclaimed that "of all towns Kanchi is best." There is a large weaving community, and fine country cloths of all kinds are still manufactured there in large quantities. Conjeeveram is the most sacred city in the South of India. There are three important temples, the oldest is dedicated to Siva, the second to Vishnu, and the third to the "loving-eyed" Parvati, the wife of Siva. The town has always been celebrated for its fine wide streets and pleasant appearance; it possesses a good water supply, the water being pumped from a fine well situated in the middle of the Vegavathy, a tributary of the Palar river. It is an important municipal town in the district.

Sriperambudur is situated about 25 miles to the west of Madras. It is noted as the birth-place of the famous Sri Ramanuja Chariar of the Vaishnava sect.

Wallajahbad is situated on the Palar between Conjeeveram and Chingleput. It was a Military Cantonment for many years, but the mortality became so great that the place received the name of "the grave of Europeans."

Pollilore, a village ten miles north-west of Conjeeveram, was twice the scene of battle between the English and Hyder Ali. It was in the first battle in 1780 that the English sustained the most crushing defeat ever inflicted on them in India. In the following year Hyder gave battle at the same place, and was defeated by Sir Eyre Coote. On the field are two tombs of officers who were killed in the second battle.

Madurantakam is situated on the Great Southern Trunk Road, at the 50th milestone from Madras. The Railway passes the town. The majority of the landholders are Vaishnavite Brahmans. The only noteworthy feature of the place is its very fine tank.

Karunguli is two miles from Madurantakam. The most interesting historic monument is the fort, the origin of which appears to be Mohamedan; about 1750 it passed into the hands of the French, when Duplex espoused the cause of Chanda Sahib. In 1759, Sir Eyre Coote marched against it unsuccessfully, but, in the year following, it fell into the hands of Hyder. In 1781, Sir Eyre, who was at Chingleput, sent Capt. Davis with 1,000 men to occupy it, which he did by blowing open the gateways. The Madurantakam tank, one of the largest in the South, which was formed towards the end of the 18th century by damming up the Kiliyar river, commemorates the name of Mr. Place, the Collector, under whose auspices it was constructed. His house at Karunguli is now used as a Travellers' Bungalow.

Saidapet Taluk.—The rivers that flow through this taluk are—

1. The Cortelliar, which falls into the Ennore backwater.
2. The Cooum, after supplying the Chembrambakam tank, flows through the town of Madras into the Sea.

3. The Adyar which flows to the South of Mylapore, a suburb of Madras.

The only two works of importance are the Red Hills and Chembrambakam tanks.

The Red Hills tank depends for its supply on a channel taken off from an ancient across the Cortelliar. The water first flows into the Sholvaram tank, and then through a regulating sluice into a channel for its conveyance to the Northern end of the Red Hills tank. A large and open channel conveys the water to the City of Madras; this is a serious defect in the system. During the hot months water often becomes scarce and has to be pumped.

Saidapet is five miles from Fort St. George and is the head-quarters of the Collector. Of late years, it has become an Educational centre, with the establishment of the Teachers' College.

Guindy is about a mile-and-a-half south of Saidapet. The Governor of Madras has a residence and an extensive Park here. The King Institute, for bacteriological investigations and the manufacture of vaccine, is located in Guindy. Oakes & Co., Ltd., Madras, have a cigar factory here.

Poonamallee is situated on the Western Trunk Road, 13 miles from Madras. It was established as a Cantonment for the purpose of receiving European invalids. It is still used as a sanitarium for British troops.

Tiruvallur.—At the Northern end of this taluk the Nagapuram and Sattiyavedu Hills relieve the flatness of it—Kumbakam Drug, the highest point, is 2,548 feet above the level of the sea. The Cooum has its source principally in the surplus waters of the tank of the same name. Red handkerchiefs and Mussulman cloths are manufactured in the Sattiyavedu Division, and are sent to Bangalore. Tiruvallur is the chief town of the taluk. The temple, at each new moon, attracts crowds of natives from Madras, to whom it would appear the greatest sin, if they were prevented from paying their devotions, and performing their ablutions.

CHITALDRUG—MYSORE.

A District in the North of the Mysore State, between 13° 35' and 15° 2' N. Lat.; and 76° 8' and 77° 2' E. Long. Area 4,022 square miles. Population, 498,795. Languages:—Telugu and Canarese.

Taluka:—CHALLAKERI, CHITALDRUG, DAVENGERE, HIRIYUR, HOIALKERE, JAGALUR, MOLKALMURU AND HOSBURGA. For Staging Bungalows, etc., see separate section.

CHITALDRUG is the chief town of the District of the same name, situated to the North of the Mysore Province; the M. and S. M. Railway traverses the district. Chitaldrug is 24 miles from the Hoialkere railway station and 126 miles North-West of Bangalore, on the Bangalore-Harihara road. The town is surrounded with a line of old fortifications. The Mahal or palace in the inner fort, built by Tippoo Sultan, is used as the Veterinary Hospital. Before it was an enormous trough for watering elephants, which was found on the hill, and was cut from a single stone. To the west, in a rugged and picturesque group of hills, is the Ankli maih. This is a curious series of subterranean chambers, now regularly built round with masonry. In them are shrines, lingams, baths and pedestals; the style of the architecture is about 500 years old, but the caverns no doubt existed long before. About 6 miles south of Chitaldrug is the Jog matte, a hill 4,000 feet above sea-level. It is a convenient resort from the intense heat of the hot months.

COCHIN STATE.

Description and Position.—Cochin (Vernacular-Kochi) is a Native State in subsidiary alliance with the British Government and politically connected with the Presidency of Madras. It is said to be called after the town of that name, formerly its Capital, where in 1502 the Portuguese were allowed to settle and erect a Fort. In 1663 it was captured by the Dutch, and from them the British took possession of it and it is now a British possession. The State lies between $9^{\circ} 48'$ and $10^{\circ} 50'$ N. Lat., and $76^{\circ} 5'$ and $76^{\circ} 58'$ E. Long. It is bounded on the north by British Malabar, on the east by British Malabar, Coimbatore and Travancore, on the south by Travancore, and on the west by British Malabar and the Arabian Sea. The area of the State is 1,417 $\frac{1}{2}$ square miles, according to the recent survey of the State. Population, 918,110.

Divisions.—For administrative purposes Cochin is divided into five taluks, viz., Cochin-Kanayanur, Mukundapuram, Trichur, Palapilli and Chittur. In addition to these, there is also the small principality of Cranganur under a Chieftain paying tribute to Cochin. This principality is financially autonomous, but is in all other respects administered as one of the taluks of the State.

Physical feature.—The Cochin State is naturally divided into three well-defined parts or zones—the hills, the plains, and the seaboard. The hilly or eastern portion, which covers nearly half the extent of the State, is broken by long spurs, extensive ravines, forests and tangled jungles rising, terrace by terrace, to an elevation of 5,000 feet above the sea-level. It is covered with magnificent forests of teak and other valuable trees, and exhibits everywhere a splendid luxuriance of foliage and flowers. Stretching westward, in gentler slopes and gradually widening valleys, but broken here and there by isolated low hills, the plains succeed forest-clad uplands. Intersected by numerous rivers and streams, dotted everywhere with homes and farmsteads, and closely cultivated wherever possible, these plains stretch towards the backwaters, in a succession of gentle undulations. Between the backwaters and the sea is the long and narrow stretch of sandy seaboard, densely covered with luxuriant coconut palms, and, in parts, where there are natural or artificial embankments, large quantities of rice are grown. It is low and generally swampy and, in several parts, liable to be flooded during the monsoon inundations.

Political relation.—The State is governed by the Raja as its hereditary King, with the Dewan appointed by him as his Chief Minister and advised in all important matters by a British Political Officer called the British Resident in Travancore and Cochin and has political relations with the Madras Government. The Raja's powers are limited only by the Regulations passed by himself and by the treaty obligations with the British Government, the powers exercised by his officers being but those delegated by him by legislative enactments or by special rules or orders. The Dewan is the responsible minister of the Raja and the Chief Executive Officer of the State and he is primarily responsible for the official and progressive administration of the State.

History.—The Raja of Cochin traces back his descent from the last of the Cheraman Perumal and possessed extensive territories. The Raja lost a considerable portion of his territories in the struggle between the adjoining States in the middle of the 18th century. The Town of Cochin is historically important as being the first European Settlement in India where the Portuguese were allowed to erect a fort by the Raja of Cochin in 1503. In 1663 the Dutch expelled the Portuguese and became masters of the place. The British in their turn drove away the Dutch and took their possessions in 1793. Ever since it remains with the former. The State of Cochin has a Colony of Jews who migrated there so early as the first century after Christ. Tradition has it that the Apostle St. Thomas landed at Malankara, near Cranganur, about 52 A.D.

Ranges of Hills.—The chief ranges of hills are the Nelliampathies with Parambikulam and the Pothundi in the Chittur taluk, the Machad in the Talapilli taluk, the Paravattam in the Trichur taluk, the Palapilli, Kodasseri, and Adarapilli in the Mukundapuram taluk, and Malsayattur in the Cochin-Kanayanur taluk. Nellikotta or Padagiri on the Nelliampathies, which is 5,000 ft. high, is the loftiest peak in the State.

Rivers.—The chief rivers are the Alwaye or Periyar, the Chulakudi, the Kurumali, the Manali, the Pomani, and the Vamanadi. Besides these there are several minor streams. There is a picturesque waterfall, of nearly 150 feet at Adarapilli.

Backwaters.—One of the most striking physical features of the country is the continuous chain of lagoons or backwaters, running parallel to the sea, and receiving the drainage of the numerous streams descending from the Western Ghats. They are very irregular in form, with a breadth which ranges between four miles and a few dozen yards, branch out into a number of intricate and shallow channels, and contain several low alluvial islands. They communicate with the sea at three points—Cochin, Cranganur and Chetwan. Though these backwaters are shallow in most places, navigation is at all times possible for flat bottomed passenger and cargo boats. In places where they are very deep, navigation during the monsoon season is often dangerous and tedious. There are also two extensive freshwater lakes, which are connected with each other, the Ennammakal and the Manakudi. The other lakes are Cochin, Kathapuzha, and Chathanad, which are salt-water.

Ports.—The ports of Cochin, excluding the port of Cochin which lies entirely in the British district of Malabar, are Malipuram, Narakal and Cranganur. The port of Cochin though it belongs to the British Government is described here, as almost all the whole sea-borne trade of the State passes through this port and its improvement and development are of more importance to Native Cochin than to British Malabar. The port consists of an outer roadstead and an inner harbour with a large expanse of backwater behind it, where vessels of great draught can be conveniently accommodated when the sea is very rough. This can be done only if the bar at the mouth of the harbour is removed and if it is done, Cochin can be made one of the finest harbours in the world. As it is, it is the third largest trading port in Southern India. Maliparam and Narakal are open roadsteads, which are generally resorted to only during the monsoon months, when the shipping from Cochin takes refuge at the mud-bank of Narakal.

Islands.—The chief among the islands are Kumbalangi, Kunbalom, Venduruthy, Bolghatty, Kidamakudi and Panambakad. At the southern extremity of Bolghatty is situated the British Residency, commanding a grand view on its three sides and overlooking the Cochin Harbour.

Soil and Climate.—The prevailing geological formation of the eastern zone is gneiss, which decomposes into a soil, which, in combination with the climate, is eminently suited to promote a luxuriant forest growth. Proceeding westwards, the formation merges into a laterite underlain by gneiss, and becomes sandy on the seaboard. The climate, though damp and enervating, is not particularly unhealthy. It is most moist and enervating in the southern taluks, which are situated by the sea and the backwaters, but less so in the northern taluks. Of all parts of the State, the Chittur taluk, situated within the Palghat gap, has the driest and most bracing climate. The lower hills and parts of Chittur are feverish, especially during the dry months.

Flora and Fauna.—The forests abound in teak, rosewood, blackwood, ebony, white cedar, red cedar, Iru (X. dolabriformis), Aini (A. heratta), Vedankoram (B. xylocarpa), Venga (P. marsupium), Pongu (C. bracteatum), Veombu (E. clycna), Ventek (L. lanceolata), Mallelu (V. altissima), Elavu (B. malabaricum) and other trees and plants of commercial and medicinal value. Coffee and cardamoms are grown on the Nelliampathies. The flora of the laterite plains consist of jack, mango, areca palms, banana, and various species of plantain. The coconut palm is the chief growth of the seaboard. The forests of Cochin contain all the larger animals of South India. Elephant and bison are common in the Pambikulam Range, and, to a smaller extent, in the Kodasseri Range. Ibex are seen occasionally in the higher ranges of the Nelliampathies. The tiger, bear, cheetah, leopard, hyena and sambar, with many varieties of deer, are met with in all the forests. The true hunting leopard and wolf are said to be found in some of the jungles. Monkeys and birds are abundant, both in the hills and the plains, as also are snakes and other reptiles. Fish of various tribes and species abound in the rivers and backwaters.

Arts, Manufactures and Industries.—Cotton weaving is carried on to some extent in Chittur and Talapilli taluks. There are a few fly shuttle looms in Trichur. There, laced and unlaced cloths of fine texture are manufactured. Grass mats, of exquisite colouring and texture, are made in Vadakancherry. They are highly admired and are in great demand. Coir matting, ropes and rugs of good quality are made in Ernakulam and Mattancherry. The most important factory industry is the extraction of coconut oil by steam mills, all in the Cochin-Kanayannore taluk. There are nearly a dozen factories of tile and brick works (Mangalore pattern) in the state. There are also steam saw-mills and a hydraulic press. Agriculture is the chief occupation of the people. Cultivation of coffee, tea and rubber is carried on in the forests.

Education.—The necessity for a system of imparting State education was recognised by Government so far back as the year 1818 by establishing 33 Vernacular Schools in the several Proverthies or villages of the State with the avowed object of training up young men for State Service, as Writers and Accountants, giving instructions in the three I's and Astrology and Sanskrit to advanced pupils. The first attempt to introduce the study of the English language was made by a Missionary, Rev. J. Dawson, by opening a school at Mattancherry in 1818 in aid of which he received a grant from the Sirkar. This school had to be closed within three years for want of pupils. In 1835 another school was opened where children of the Jews were taught English, Hebrew and Malayalam. This School is still in existence. Two years later, an English School was opened at Trichur and another at Tripunithura for the education of the Princes and others. The 'free school' established at Ernakulam in 1845 was afterwards raised to the standard of a High School in 1865 and was placed in charge of an European Head Master, Mr. A. F. Sealy, M.A., with whose name is associated the progress of English education in the State. The liberal policy followed by the Dewan, Mr. Sankunni Menon, C.S.I., contributed not a little towards the education of His Highness' subjects. During his Dewanship the High School was raised to the standard of a Second Grade College in 1874. In 1897 District Schools were opened in all the taluks and a Director of Education in the person of Mr. Sealy was also appointed. Grant-in-aid rules were framed in 1899. A great impetus was given to the education of the masses by the organization of the Department of Vernacular Education in 1890. State Schools were opened for boys and girls in most of the Proverthies and a large number of indigenous schools were brought into the aided lists. In the beginning of 1892 the Vernacular and English Departments were amalgamated and placed under the control of a Superintendent of Education. In 1898 the High Schools, both Sirkar and private, were removed from the control of the Superintendent and placed directly under the Dewan.

The altered conditions under the new educational system rendered the introduction of a variety of reforms in this important branch of the Administration and with this object in view the State obtained the services of a special Educational Officer, Mr. J. Van Someren Pope, M.A., retired British Director of Education in Burma. The main lines of reforms introduced by Government were fully dealt with in the Dewan's Press communique (February 1908) and are, the introduction of free Primary education for girls and backward classes throughout the State, opening of night schools for the labouring classes, institution of free scholarships to backward classes throughout the State, institution of free scholarships in the Secondary Schools, revision of the existing grant-in-aid rules on a liberal scale, opening of a training school for female teachers, adoption of increased scale of pay for Primary and Girls' school teachers and the opening of an Industrial and Technical Institute. The Government grant for education in 1905-06 was 1.2 lakhs of rupees, while the grant for the current year is more than six lakhs of rupees.

Religious and Charitable Institutions.—The Devaswoms or Hindu religious institutions under the State are of two kinds, viz., Incorporated and Unincorporated Devaswoms. The Devaswoms whose revenues and expenditure were completely merged in the general revenues and expenditure of the State are termed 'Incorporated Devaswoms.' The Devaswoms whose properties and receipts were not amalgamated with those of the State but were kept separate and the expenditure met from those receipts are called 'Unincorporated' Devaswoms. In the case of the former set of Devaswoms, since the expenditure exceeded the receipts, there was no balance available and excess expenditure had to be met from the general revenues of the State. In the case of Unincorporated Devaswoms they were self-supporting, while a majority of them had incomes considerably exceeding the expenditure and thus they had a tolerably good sum as balance to their credit. There was thus a great disparity in the financial position of the two classes of Devaswoms. With a view to place this branch of administration on a satisfactory footing and to make it self-supporting as far as possible, His Highness' Government devised a completely new scheme of Devaswom Administration, and brought it into force in September 1909. By this scheme all Devaswoms under Sircar management, incorporated and unincorporated, were amalgamated and constituted into a separate endowment, the several Devaswoms being thus made component and inter-dependent parts of a whole, instead of being the isolated units that they were. This involved the restoration of the properties and monies of such of the institutions as were annexed to the Sircar, nearly a century ago, and the creation of a separate trust fund. For administrative purposes the Devaswoms are divided into four groups. The receipts and expenditure of the Devaswoms were entirely separated from the general revenues but the Devaswoms are allowed to bank with the State Treasuries. The Pathivu or customary scale of expenditure in all Devaswoms was revised and a uniform system of collection of revenue, control of expenditure and maintenance of accounts was introduced. Oottupuras.—These are feeding houses, where gratuitous meals are given to Brahmans. There were 15 of them till 902. In the reorganisation of these institutions 3 of them were abolished and sumptuous meals were arranged to be served to all bona-fide travellers in all the Oottupuras except Tripunthura and Pazhayanur where the residents are also fed in the morning. There are also 3 Oottupuras where coffee is served for a few months in a year. These institutions cost the Sircar nearly half a lakh of rupees per annum. Water Paudals.—The State is everywhere dotted with water paudals where butter-milk flavoured with salt and lime juice, &c., is gratuitously served to the wayworn travellers during the hot season.

Commerce.—The chief exports are coconut-oil, coir yarn, rope fibre and matting, coconut, copra, oil cake, timber, coffee, lemon-grass oil, ginger, pepper, fish and prawns. The chief imports are rice and paddy, cotton piece-goods, raw cotton and twist yarn, metals, cutlery, hardware, sugar, kerosine-oil and salt. Kunnankulam is the centre of trade in ar canuts.

Tramway.—The approximate area of the Cochin forests is nearly six hundred square miles, about half of which are virgin forests, unworked for want of a suitable outlet. From the Parambikulam Range an outlet in the shape of a tramway and timber slide has been constructed by the Government, up to Chalakkudy, a station on the Shoranur-Cochin Railway, a distance of nearly 40 miles. This line is now considered as one of the biggest and best equipped tramway designed for purely forest work in the world, and it possesses many features of special interest to engineers, arboriculturists and railway men generally.

Railway.—A branch line of railway (Metro Gauge) was opened in July 1902, from Shoranur to Ernakulam, the capital of the State. The line, 64·8 miles, cost nearly 70 lakhs of rupees, and is now worked by the South Indian Railway Company. There are 17 stations on the line.

Roads and Communications.—There are in all 489 miles of metalled road maintained by the State, besides the unmetalled. The backwaters, also, afford easy communication with several parts of the State. There are some navigable canals also which afford communication.

Cranganur.—Cranganur, situated near the sea on the right bank of the Periyar river, is the seat of an ancient principality. The Chief is a Kshatriya by caste and gets a fixed allowance from the Cranganur Treasury for his own maintenance and the maintenance of other members of his family. It has an area of 18½ square miles. It is a very densely peopled tract. It is financially autonomous, but in all other respects it is administered as an integral part of the State. The Chief pays a tribute of Rs. 6,867 to Cochin.

Cranganur is a place of great historical interest, though it is now of little importance. It once possessed an excellent harbour and was an important centre of commerce, trading with the West even before the Christian era. In the first century of the Christian era Pliny described it as "the first emporium in India." During this period and for some centuries afterwards it was the seat of the Perumals or the early kings of Kerala before its dismemberment. The Jews and the Christians got their first footing here and founded towns long before the Portuguese discovered a direct route to India. Here the Portuguese built a fort in 1523. The fort was renovated by the Dutch when the Portuguese power fell to their prowess. Ruins of an old fort are now visible. One branch of the Periyar river and the Chalakkudy river empty themselves at the Cranganur bar. The temple at Cranganur is known throughout the West Coast and is dedicated to 'Sri Kurumba Bhagavathy.' At the time of the annual festival known as 'Kodungalure Bhairavi' thousands of pilgrims assemble here. The members of the Chief's family are well versed in Sanskrit. One of them, Raj. Vaha Goda Varma Raja, is the recipient of the title of Mahamahopadhyaya, conferred in recognition of his high attainments in Sanskrit learning.

Revenue.—The gross revenue of the State under all ordinary receipt heads for the year (the official year 1902, M.E.) 1916-1917, excluding the principality of Cranganur was Rs. 46,36,098.

Languages.—Malayalam, the vernacular and the official language of the State, is spoken by the majority of the people, but Tamil, Telugu, Konkani (a dialect of Marathi), Canarese, and Tulu are also spoken.

Towns.—The chief towns in the State are Ernakulam, Trichur, Mattancherry, Chittur, Thattamangalam, Tripunithura, Irinjalakuda, and Kunnamkulam. A Municipal Regulation has recently been introduced by Government and four towns were brought under it. They are Ernakulam, Trichur, Mattancherry, and Chittur—Tattamangalam.

Ernakulam.—Ernakulam is the capital of the State and is the terminus of the State Railway. The principal buildings are the Huzni Secretariat, the Chief Court, the District Court, the District Munsiff's Court, the Magistrate's Court, the offices of the Diwan Feishkar, the Tahsildar, the Excise Superintendent, the Acheer Superintendent, the Chief Medical and Sanitary Officer, the District Registrar, the Ernakulam College, the General Hospital, the Durbar Hall, and the Guest House. Close to the Railway Station is the Travellers' Bungalow. There are in the town two power mills for the extraction of coconut oil and the Burmah Oil Company and the Asiatic Petroleum Company have large petroleum installations near the Railway Station. The town is supplied with good drinking water from the Alwaye river. There are palaces of His Highness the Raja, a Residential Palace for the young Princes, and a temple dedicated to Siva. There are four important churches belonging to several sections of Roman Catholics and also a Protestant Church. Ernakulam is situated on the east side of the backwater, and is $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles off from Cochin. There is a motor launch plying between Ernakulam and Cochin. Six miles to the south-east of Ernakulam is Tripunithura, where His Highness has a palace and the members of the Royal family reside. The most interesting annual function of the place is the Attachamayam in August, which is believed to be the commemoration of a victory gained by Cochin. On the morning of the day His Highness the Raja goes in procession round the town in a palanquin, accompanied by all the State officers and the representatives of the old Chiefs, and with all the paraphernalia of oriental pageantry. When the procession is over, His Highness holds a levee at the Kalkotta place, when all the officers and Chiefs pay their respect to him one by one and receive from him money presents, according to a graduated scale. His Highness the Raja resides generally in the Hill Palace at Perinnumkulam, two miles east of Tripunithura. On the island of Bolghatty, northwest of Ernakulam, is the British Residency in Cochin. There is a very fine old Dutch building with new improvements. The British Residency is located in the most prominent part of the island and commands a view of the harbour and of adjoining islands situated in and around the backwaters.

Mattancherry.—Mattancherry is situated on the western side of the backwater that separates it from Ernakulam. It lies to the south of British Cochin and is a centre of considerable export and import trade, which is almost entirely in the hands of Banias and Kachhi Memons from the Bombay Presidency. The retail trade is mostly in the hands of Konkani Brahmins and Vaisyas (Vaniyans). Mattancherry is said to have been once the capital of the State and contains a spacious old palace of quaint design which was built and presented to the Raja by the Portuguese about the year 1550. It is in this palace that the Rajas of Cochin are installed on the Musnad even now. Within the palace there is a temple dedicated to Pazhavanur Bhagavathy. There is a colony of White Jews in Mattancherry. They hold a charter engraved on copper plates granted to them by Bhaskara Ravi Varma, Emperor of Malabar, in 373 A.D. Near the palace there is a synagogue belonging to the White Jews. Among modern institutions of interest are the large and richly endowed Konkani temple of Trumala Devaswom, and the Women and Children's Hospital. The town also contains a District Munsiff's Court, a Sub-Magistrate's Court, a Police Station, a District Registrar's Office, a Male Dispensary and a High School maintained out of the funds of the Trumala Devaswom. Owing to the mismanagement of this Devaswom, the Government very recently undertook its management. There is a Leper Asylum in the island of Venduruthy, separated from the mainland by an arm of the backwater.

Trichur.—Trichur is a town of great antiquity and sanctity, and is said to have been founded by Parasurama. In the centre of the town and on the summit of a hillock stands the ancient Pagoda of Wadakkunn than to which many thousands of people annually resort on the occasion of the 'Trichur Pooram Festival', in the month of Medam (May). On the four sides of the town there are ruins of an old fort and ditch. There are two mutts of Nambudiri Saamiyars, and there is a Vedic College called the 'Brahmaswam Madhom' where gratuitous boarding and instruction are given to Nambudiri youths. Trichur is the headquarters of several Public Offices, viz., the Chief Engineer, the Conservator of Forests, the Comptroller of Accounts, the Superintendent of Police and Commandant of the Nair Brigade, the District Magistrate, the Superintendent of Registration, the Land Records Superintendent, the Agricultural Superintendent, the Devaswom Superintendent, the Director of Education, the District Court, the Magistrate's Court, the Hospital, the Veterinary Hospital, the Lunatic Asylum and the High Schools for Boys and Girls, the Government Industrial and Technical School and the Havelock Market. The Central Jail is situated at Vyyoor close to Trichur. There is also a State Museum and Zoological Garden. There are four Churches in the town—Rome Syrian, Chaldean, Latin and Protestant, and it is also the chief centre of the Church Mission Society's work in the State. His Highness the Raja has a palace built by the Dutch. This palace is surrounded by a fort and a ditch and has two entrances. The fort and ditch are not in good condition. There is a Travellers' Bungalow. The Kokkalat Canal connects the dock in the Railway Station yard with the backwaters, and provides a means of communication with all the important towns on the West Coast. The Enamakkal Lake is only five miles to the south-west of Trichur. It is an extensive fresh-water lake where during summer weather (February to April), kole cultivation is carried on on an extensive scale. The water is baled out either by Persian wheels or pumps worked by steam. The lake, viewed from the hillocks situated to the east of it, presents a beautiful sight.

THE AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE AND RESEARCH INSTITUTE, LAWLEY ROAD, P. O., COIMBATORE.

The College, a very handsome building in the Hindu Saracenic style, is situated about three miles from Coimbatore to the west, in the Revenue village of Thelungapalayam. Standing in its own grounds of 450 acres, flanked by the various quarters in which the teaching staff, the students and the Research Assistants are housed, it is approached by a handsome avenue named after Sir Arthur Lawley, late Governor of Madras. His Excellency, whose name is thus connected with the College, showed his interest in the progress of Scientific Agriculture in Madras by both laying the foundation stone on the 24th September 1906 and opening the College on the 14th July 1909, an anniversary now celebrated as "College Day". Students at the College stay for two, or three and a half years, during which time they engage in all field operations and cultivate their own plots of dry and wet land; besides going through a course of theoretical and practical science, and receiving tuition in Veterinary Science, Dairying, Live Stock and Agriculture. Only forty students can be admitted each year, and no one who is not prepared to take his fair share of field work should apply. The object of the Research Institute is the investigation of the Chemical and Biological problems presented by Indian Agriculture. The Sugarcane-breeding station under the supervision of the Sugarcane Expert is about 2 miles from the College and a Paddy-breeding station has been newly opened at a distance of about a mile from the farm lands.

THE ANDHA RAKSHANA SABHA, MANDASA, GANJAM DIST.—The above Sabha was started at Mandasa, in June 1912, at the instigation of some of its respectable citizens, purely on charitable grounds, for the protection and maintenance of the deserving blind.

Objects.—As far as funds permit to take bona fide blind persons under its protection, to give them free quarters, feed and clothe them and, what is more important, to give adequate work to the capable among them. An Industrial School was started, on the 1st of August 1914, and an Instructor has been appointed to train the blind in mat-weaving. Other industries, such as rope making, chair caning, will be gradually introduced. The want of an adequate building stands in the way of the Sabha giving suitable work to all the blind. Special thanks are due to the President, who in addition to the financial support he has been rendering the Sabha, granted it a site free, for the Industrial school. The building work is now proceeding rapidly and is estimated to cost about Rs. 1,400. It is earnestly hoped that the public would contribute largely towards the building fund.

The Sabha at present consists of over 350 members and with the increase of funds the Sabha hopes to complete the construction of the building already undertaken. It is being built in a conspicuous spot in the palace street. Any contribution from the public will be thankfully received by the Treasurer or the Secretary.

Staff:—Patrons.—His Highness Sree Ranganatha Thattaraj Deo, H. H. The Permanent Fund.—It has been resolved to keep on foot a fund to give permanency to the work of this infant charitable organisation. Any balance left at the end of the year is added on to this fund. This amounts to Rs. 830 for the present and is invested in best securities. Needless to say that subscriptions and donations form the mainstay of the Sabha.

HYDERABAD (DECCAN).

H. H. THE NIZAM'S DOMINIONS.

The Dominions of His Highness the Nizam lie between 15° 10' and 21° 40' North latitude and between 74° 40' and 81° 35' East longitude.

They occupy a tract, 82,698 square miles in area, in the central portion of the tableland of the Dekhan, which, in the generally accepted sense of the term, refers to that portion of Southern India which is bounded on the north and south by the Nerbudda and the Kistna, and laterally by the Eastern and Western Ghâts. The Dominions are bounded on the north by the district of Khandesh and the river Tapi, which separates them from the district of Burhanpur in the Bombay Presidency, and the south by the rivers Tungabhadra and Kistna, forming the northern boundary of the district of Bellary, Kurnool and Guntur, and by the district of Kistna, all in the Madras Presidency; on the east by the rivers Wardha and Godavari, which flow along the western limits of the districts of Chanda and Sironcha, in the Central Provinces, and on the west by the districts of Dharwar, Kaladgi, Sholapur and Ahmednagar, all in the Bombay Presidency. A portion of the river Sina also forms the western boundary of the Nizam's Dominions, but the taluks of Jamker, Barsi and a part of Kalgam, all in British territory, are to the east of that river. Similarly, a part of the river Godavari separates the Nizam's Dominions on the west from British territory; but a few of the Nizam's villages are beyond that river. The languages spoken in the Dominions are Hindustani, Telugu, Canarese and Mahrathi. Population (1911) 13,874,676.

Physical Features.—The Dominions are a vast plateau of an average elevation of 1,250 feet, though some summits reach 2,500 feet above sea-level. The country is geologically and ethnologically divided into two large and almost equal divisions. The Godavari and the Manjira rivers span these. The first of these divisions consists of regions of trappean rocks to the north and west, and the other to the south-east is composed of granite and limestone. The former is inhabited by the Maharratta and Kanarese people, whose staple food is wheat and jowari, and the latter is peopled by the Telugus, who subsist chiefly on rice. In this granitic and calcareous region, hills nude of vegetation, brushwood of every description scattered in profusion, detached perpendicular rocks and collection or masses of boulders, which seem to be piled by giant hands, are not scarce. The soil, when formed from the decomposition of these rocks, is generally sandy and hence generally sterile. The rivers in this region, too, flow only in the rainy season. The trappean region generally presents a pleasing aspect with its luxuriant vegetation and its crags, cliffs and hills. The soil derived from the decomposition of this formation—the ordinary black cotton soil and regur—is productive, fertile and impervious. Thus, while the granitic region is suggestive of sterility, the trappean region is synonymous with fertility. Thick jungles and forests are met with, mostly in the valleys of rivers, especially those of the Warilha, the Godavari and the Kistna. There is carboniferous sandstone along the right bank of the Godavari.

Political Divisions.—Land may be divided into distinct heads with regard to administration and collection of revenue:—

(1) Sarfi-i-Khas lands, assigned to the Sovereign in lieu of cash payments from the public treasury, comprising an area of 7,113 square miles, with a population of 1,170,172. They consist of an entire district surrounding Hyderabad City (Atrai-Baldai), two taluk in Aurangabad District, one each in Bhair, Parbhani and Bidar Districts, three in Osmania District, three in Gulbarga District, and a few scattered villages. The revenue from these exceeds 11 lakhs of rupees.

(2) Pargah lands, assigned by the Nizam Ali Khan Asaf Jah to Shams-ul-Uma Amra-Kabir for the maintenance of a body of horse, called "His Highness' Household Troops," comprising about 4,134 square miles, with a population of about 5,046,275.

(3) Khasia lands, or Divani territory, divided, for administrative purposes, into four Subas, or divisions, which are further sub-divided into districts.

Jagirs.—As far back as the time of Tamerlane, it had been the custom to bestow jagirs as royal presents upon those who had in any way distinguished themselves by their services to the State. The Jagirs were granted either free of rent, for perpetuity, for life or on condition of rendering military service when required, &c. The jagirdars do not pay any fixed annual tribute to the Government. But those who used to pay Chauth (or a fourth part of their revenue) to the late Maharratta Peshwas, continue to pay the amount to the Nizam's Government from the time they came under it. The jagirs extend over 11,000 square miles, and many jagir villages are scattered over the Government territory. The total population of the jagirs is about 1,696,401.

Tributary Chiefs.—The principal tributary chiefs are the Rajahs of Gudwal, Wimparti, Annagundi, Gopalpet, Amarchinta, and Javalgi. They hold small tracts of country and pay tribute to the Nizam's Government, ranging from Rs. 25,000 to Rs. 1,00,000 per annum.

Commerce.—The principal imports are: sugar, salt, glass, Englishware, piece-goods, spirits, hardware and cutlery, coffee, tea, saltpetre, mercury, opium, camphor and musk. The exports are carpets, muslins, coal, grain, oil-seeds, cotton, honey, wax, coarse woollen cloth and timber.

Industries.—The bulk of the people are engaged in agriculture. The principal manufactures in the country are steel, manufactured out of iron ores, and once used for making swords and spear heads, carpets and rugs made at Warangal, kinkhab, or gold and silver cloth, plain and embroidered muslins, brocades of coloured silk with gold and silver thread, tassa silk, saltpetre, Persian paper and pottery, and bidriware, which is made of an alloy of copper, lead, and tin, or zinc, and inlaid with floral and other decorations in gold or silver.

The Cave Temples of Ellora.—These cave temples are the largest and most varied of the rock temples in India, and contain some of the finest specimens of Buddhist, Brahmanic and Jaina temples. The village of Ellora is situated about 14 miles to the north-west of Aurangabad, and about 6 miles from Daulatabad, a station on the Nizam's Guaranteed Railway line. There is no bungalow at Ellora, close by, at Roza, there is a luxuriously furnished Guest House, maintained by His Highness the Nizam's Government. The caves are excavated in the scarp of a large plateau and run nearly north and south for a mile and a quarter. At each end, the scarp throws out a horn to the west. The oldest caves, the Buddhist, are situated at the south end, at the point where the scarp begins to turn to the west. At the other extremity and in the north horn are the Jaina-caves, while the Brahmanic group is between the two. Taking the Kulasa as the centre, 16 caves lie to the south of it, 11 of which are Buddhist—and nearly as many to the north of it are Brahmanic and Jaina. The Buddhist caves of Ellora are all of the Mahayana group, and range in time from 350 to 550 A.D.

Ajunta Caves.—The celebrated Buddhist caves at Ajunta in the Aurangabad District are situated in the Indravati hills, 4 miles to the north-west of the village. The paintings in the caves comprise scenes of every-day life, such as preparing food, carrying water, buying and selling provisions, hunting scenes, elephant fights, men and women engaged in singing, dancing and playing on musical instruments most vigorously painted upon the walls. Some of the earlier paintings are probably as old as the second century of the Christian era, the majority belonging to the sixth and seventh centuries.

The hill fort of Golconda was formerly the seat of Government, and in the fort as well as near it, are the far-famed tombs of Golconda, a series of splendid mausoleums built in oriental style over the departed Sovereigns and Princes of the Golconda dynasty. The tombs are greatly admired for their extent and beauty.

Climate, &c.—The climate may be said to be good, for it is pleasant and agreeable during the greater part of the year, being between extreme heat and cold. As the country is usually hilly the hot winds are not felt so keenly as in places where there are great sandy and plains. It is only the south-west monsoon which sets in, in June, and continues till October, that is of any importance whatever to the country, the average rainfall during this monsoon being 30 inches. The rainfall during the south-east monsoon is scanty, and of little benefit to the country, the average being from 4 to 8 inches. Westerly winds blow from June to September, when they change for an easterly direction from October to February; and during March, April and May the winds are north-westerly. The Western Ghats do, in a measure, interfere with the volume of rain that might otherwise fall, but immediately the rain passes the ghats, it increases again, though very gradually.

Hyderabad is the Capital of the Nizam's territories and the seat of Government. It is situated within 15 miles from the Fort of Golconda. Its distance from Calcutta is about 1,220 miles, from Madras 460, and from Bombay 470 miles. The population of the City is 500,613. The City is approached by numerous bridges, gates and posterns, it being surrounded by a stone wall, which is in a weak and ruined state. Great improvements have been effected by widening the streets in several parts, and many sanitary arrangements have been introduced.

The following are among numerous buildings at Hyderabad worthy of a visit:—

His Highness's Palace, namely:—Feroz Mahal, Chay Mahal, Baradari, Sardar Vidyan Malokpett and Fakhri Mahal Castle. The Golconda Fort and Tombs; Chas Minar, Mecca Masjid, Bachu Bagh; Asf-unnagh, Sutturage, the Victoria Memorial Orphanage, Shapur-wadi, and the Public Gardens.

THE BRITISH RESIDENCY CHUDDERGHAT.

The building in which the British Resident resides is called by this name. It is an elegant edifice on spacious grounds, and is enclosed by a high wall with bastions at the entrance gates. It is situated just north of the City of Hyderabad, the River Musi running in the intervening space.

In the right and left of the building are handsome wings, each containing accommodation sufficient for a large number of guests. The building is handsomely furnished, and has been described as 'oriental only in its magnificence, but perfectly English in its comfort.' Opposite the front of the building, which is the entrance for European visitors or noblemen of Hyderabad, is a fine flower garden cleverly laid out. In the compound are good houses for the First and Second Assistant Residents, and Court offices and office accommodation for the Administrative, Printing, Treasury, Judicial, and Postal Departments. At one end of the compound are barracks for the attachment of Cavalry, and Company of Native Infantry, which form the Resident's Escort, under the command of a European Commissioned Officer. There are an old, but disused, burial ground, a Raqqet Court and croquet ground within the Residency compound. The Hyderabad Telegraph Office is situated within the Residency walls, and an Imperial Branch Post Office. The Branch of the Bank of Bengal is close by.

Surrounding the Residency are a number of populous Bazaars, embracing an area of about a square mile, over which the Resident exercises jurisdiction both in Civil and Criminal matters. Population 7,971.

RULES FOR ENTERING THE CITY OF HYDERABAD.

Officers and other Europeans belonging to the District are prohibited from visiting the City of Hyderabad, or the Fort or Tombs of Golconda, without permission from the Resident, to be obtained by applying through Staff Officers of Brigade. A return and intimation of all such visits is forwarded to H. F. the Nizam's Government and others as sent to them, each application should, as a rule, reach the First Assistant Resident ten days before the proposed visit.

SECUNDERABAD

Secunderabad (named after the Nizam Sikandar Jah) is the largest Military Station in India and is situated 6 miles north-east of Hyderabad City. It is the Winter Head-quarters of the 14th Secunderabad Division of the Army.

The Military Force stationed here consists of one Regiment of European and of Native Cavalry, one Battery of Royal Horse Artillery, three Batteries of Royal Artillery (Field and Garrison), two Regiments of British and three of Native Infantry, with a Company of Sappers and Miners. An Ordnance Establishment has charge of the Arsenal, and there is also a large Supply and Transport Staff Cantonment boundaries extend as far as Nolarum, covering a total area of 19 square miles, including many interspersed villages. New double-storied barracks have been erected for the European soldiers, and the quarters for the Native troops are also comfortably built. The country for many miles around undulates into hammocks with a few outcrops of underlying rock, crossed from east to west by green-slate dikes. Shady trees line the roads of the Cantonment, otherwise the face of the country is bare, with but little depth of soil in elevated parts. Cultivation is carried on in the dips and valleys, in several of which tanks have been constructed. Immediately to the south-west of the Cantonment is a large artificial reservoir or tank known as the Hussain Sagar, at a distance of 13 miles in circumference.

The Parade ground is of great extent, upon it a Force of seven or eight thousand troops can be manœuvred with ease. Close by is the Cemetery. A short distance from Secunderabad is the Cantonment of Trimulgherry, containing an entrenched camp. At Trimulgherry is the Military Prison, nicknamed "Windsor Castle." KADUR—(Mysore State).

A District, forming the South-Western portion of the Nagar Division, lying between $13^{\circ} 12'$ and $13^{\circ} 55'$ Lat., and between $75^{\circ} 8'$ and $76^{\circ} 25'$ E. Long. It is bounded on the West by the Western Ghats; on the North by Shimoga; on the East by Chitaldrug and on the South by Hassan. Area, 2,291 square miles. Population, 362,752. Languages spoken—Cannarese and Hindustani.

The chief town of the District is Chikmagalur. The District contains the loftiest ranges on the Mysore tableland, the Baba Baden Hills, a horse-shoe shaped chain, forming a ridge 6,000 feet above sea-level, and containing a large number of Coffee and other estates. The Kalhatti Peak, 6,150 feet high, has on its summit a bungalow, which is a favourite hot weather resort. Tiger, Sambar and other large game are found in these hills. Chikmagalur is 25 miles from the Kadu Station of the M & S. M. Railway. The main street of the town is one and a half miles long, and there are many Muhammadan traders. At certain seasons high east winds render the town very unhealthy, but a wide belt of trees has been planted to try and mitigate this evil.

KODAIKANAL (PULNEY HILLS), MADURA DISTRICT.

The Pulney Hills are situated in the Madura District of the Madras Presidency. They are about 4 miles long from East to West and 15 miles broad. Including Aunjinad they cover 798 square miles. The plateau has an average elevation of about 7,000 feet. Like the Nilgiris and the Shevaroyis, the Pulneys consist of a mass of the charnockite series, and the general scenery is characteristic of this class of rocks. The Pulneys are connected towards the north-west with the Anaimalais and towards the south with the Travancore hills.

The European settlement, KODAIKANAL, which was a very small place twenty-five years ago, now contains over 100 European houses scattered over an area of about 4 square miles. There are native villages outside the drainage area of the Lake containing 351 huts with a population of about 1,900. The settlement was in 1899 made a Municipality to the great advantage of the station, as regards sanitation and roads. The Lake, which forms the centre of the original settlement, is formed by an artificial bund erected by the late Sir Vere Levinge and covers an area of 66 acres. Its height above sea-level is 6,872 feet. There is a flourishing Boat Club with a number of good boats. The lake is well-stocked with bari (Basilus gatusis) which take a fly readily. The Club, which is centrally situated, is an excellent one.

In former days considerable difficulty was experienced in getting supplies at Kodaikanal, but this is no longer the case. There are now shops which retail stores at moderate prices; beef and mutton butchers are numerous, and excellent vegetables can be obtained all through the season. Almost all the houses in the station can now be reached by driving roads, though some of them are, naturally, rather steep. There are also driving roads to "Neutral Saddle," 7 miles away at the foot of Perumal (7,326 feet) where there are a few houses at an elevation of about 5,200 feet, to the "Pillar Rocks," one of the finest pieces of scenery in South India, and towards Pundarik, a hill village, 8 miles distant. Bridle paths permit of riding excursions in many other directions.

The climate of Kodaikanal is probably the best of any hill station in India. Thus at least was the opinion of the meteorological authorities when they fixed upon it as the site of the new solar Physics Observatory, which forms a conspicuous object on the top of Nadingganam Hill. The only meteorological statistics available are those published in the Annual Reports of the Observatory for 1899-1900 and 1901-1905, and they are for a place nearly 800 feet above the Lake. The highest shade temperature recorded was 74° in March, the lowest 49° in November. In low lying places, especially near the Lake, frost is not uncommon in the early mornings between November and February. The mean monthly temperatures varied only from 52° in November to 59° in May. One of the most striking features of the climate is the extreme dryness of the atmosphere during the early months of the year. Though the annual rainfall is about 60 inches, the subsoil is so porous that even during the monsoon, water never lies on the ground for any time, so muddy roads are practically unknown. During the south-west monsoon, winds are strong in exposed places, but the Lake basin is so well sheltered that this causes little inconvenience.

The usual way of coming to Kodaikanal is by rail to Kodaikanal Road Station, S. I. R., where there is a Refreshment Room and a good Travellers' bungalow. Thence by Motor Service, bullock transit or by jukka to the Tope bungalow at the foot of the ghat (32 miles), where calls can be obtained if previous notice has been sent, thence to the top—a distance of 12 miles—the journey may be made on ponies or in chairs or doolies. The ghat road to Kodaikanal was opened to the public from the beginning of 1915. It is 30 miles long and starts from the road to Periyakulam near Ganguvappatti village, 16 miles from the Railway Station. Carts, Motor Cars and Cycles are using the road. It is safer for visitors to use the latter vehicles as carts do not traverse the fever zone quickly. The Madras Stable Company provides touring 3 seater cars, ex driver and 30 lbs. luggage from Kodaikanal Road Station to top of hill and vice versa for Rs. 100. There are some private boarding houses in the station, but as these are generally well filled during the season, no visitor should risk coming up without making arrangements beforehand. There are no Hotels. Stores and luggage may be sent from Kodaikanal Road Station by common carts, always waiting, at reasonable rates, and are carried up the Hills at a charge of 8 annas for 50 lbs. The wage of each bearer carrying a chair or dooley is 10 annas, and the hire for riding ponies is 8 annas to Vengai paray, one rupee to the 6th mile stone Re. 1-8 to Shembaganur and two rupees to Kodaikanal, or Neutral Saddle, whether one or two ponies are supplied for the journey.

KOLAR DISTRICT—Mysore State.

KOLAR.—A town and District Head-quarters in the Mysore State, not to be confounded with the Kolar Gold Fields (q. v.); it is 11 miles by good road from the Bowringpet Junction of the Madras and Southern Mahratta Railway and connected by rail.

The town is one of great antiquity; it contains a very old temple and other interesting remains. It was the burial place of Futtah Ali, Hyder Ali's father; and his Makbara, a fine old building, is still maintained by State endowment. Hyder Ali frequently visited Kolar as a pleasure resort. North-west of the town are the Kolar-Betta hills, the highest peak of which is over 4,000 ft. above sea level; the sides of the hills are mostly bare and rocky, but the top is a fine plateau, with many villages and much cultivation. There are two Cigarette factories at Bowringpet. There is a Normal and Industrial Institute attached to the American Mission.

It forms the eastern portion of the Nunddroog Division, lying between 12° 6' and 12° 36' N. Lat. and between 78° 5' and 78° 35' E. Long. It is bounded on the North and North-East by Bellary and Cuddapah; on the South-East and South by North Arcot and Salem; on the West by the Bangalore and Tumkur Districts. Area, 3,179 square miles. Population, 778,982. Languages spoken.—Telugu, Hindustani, Canarese and Tamil.

KOLAR GOLD FIELDS.

These gold fields occupy a small tract of country about sixty miles from Bangalore, in the east of the Mysore State, and east of a low ridge of hills; they stretch north and south for about 40 miles, the width varying from $\frac{1}{4}$ to 4 miles. About 40 square miles are held by the several Companies. The Gold Fields Railway connects the field with the Madras and Southern Mahratta Railway by the junction at Bowringpet. About 21,000 persons are now employed on the mines, many being covenanted European miners. The population had risen from 7,085 in 1891 to 37,964 in 1901, it is now probably over 50,000.

The gold bearing strata has a tendency to run towards the Dharwar Gold Fields, which are probably part of the same geological formation. Power for working the mines is derived from the Cauvery Electric Power Works at Sivasamudham, whence 1,000 H. P. of electrical energy is regularly received, and arrangements are now being made to increase this to 6,000 H. P., which will probably enable the mines to do without steam power altogether. The field is almost destitute of vegetation, and the scenery is dotted and scarred over with piles of crashed and spent quartz and cyanide sand; in appearance it is a typical gold mining settlement.

The mining camps are in the Kolar District, the Head-quarters of which is Champion Reef, 9 miles from Bowringpet.

The Mysore State officials at the fields are—Dy. Commr.—P. F. Bowring, Oorgaum. Insp. of Mines. R. Baquet, Oorgaum; Dy. Insp. of Mines.—L. H. MANGALORE—SEAPORT (SEE SOUTH CANARA).

MASULIPATAM—SEAPORT (SEE KISTINA).

MERCARA—(SEE COORG).

MYSORE DISTRICT—(MYSORE STATE).

A District in the South of the State situated between 11° 30' and 13° 35' and 75° 20' and 77° 21' E.
Long. It is bounded on the North by Hassan and Tumkur Districts, East by Bangalore District, and the Madras District of Coimbatore, South by the Niyur and Marwar collectorate and West by Coorg. Area, 4,128 square miles. Population—1,812,071. Languages.—Canarese, Hindustani, Tamil and Telugu.

Head-quarters.—MYSORE TOWN.

The Head-quarters of the State Departments are at Bangalore. Mysore, the titular Capital of the Native State of the same name, is situated on the north-western side of the Chamundi Hill. It is 86 miles by rail from Bangalore. The town has been much improved of late years, and the newer portion of it (called after the late Maharajah), Chamarajipoora, and other extensions have more than doubled its area in the past few years.

The Public Offices are to the west of the town in the Gordon Park. Near these are the Maharajah's College, the Law Courts, the Maharajah's College and Roman Catholic Church. The fine Corcoran Park was opened in 1902, just before the installation of the Maharajah. It is beautifully laid out with shady walks and nooks, parterres and fountains. It extends along the northern and western sides of the old Fort. In the centre of the Park is a fine statue of the late Maharajah. Within the Park enclosure are the Club, Town and Masonic Halls, Post and Telegraph offices, etc. There is a hotel, "the Goudou," and an Anglican Church, St. Bartholomew's. The fine new Palace of the Maharajah is within the Fort and well worthy of a visit. The building is Hindu in design, and, with the exception of some fine pictures, shows little of the influence of European art. The front contains a very fine Durbar Hall. The summer palace is East of the Fort. Near by are the Maharajah's stables and a good Zoological Garden, in which is a well planned "maze." The Race Course, one of the best in Southern India, is near the foot of the hill, in its centre is the Polo ground. European residents mostly live to the east of the town. The old Government House is now a guest house for European visitors. Near it is the house which was, for some years, occupied by the first Duke of Wellington, then Colonel Wellesley.

In the Eastern most portion of the city, and on the motor road to the top of the Chamundi hills is the artistically laid out Narasimharaja boulevards. The road from here to the South leads to the beautifully laid out Hardinge circle with beds of flowers and greens, and good lights with evening decorating it.

The City is lit with electricity from the falls of the Cauvery at Sivasamudram. The population of the City is 17,306.

MYSORE STATE (THE).

The capital of the Province and the residence of H. H. the Maharajah is situated in 12° 18' N. lat., and 76° 42' E. long at the north-western base of the Chamundi Hill. It includes three suburbs, and embraces an area of about 3 square miles. The town is built in a valley formed by two ridges running North and South. There is also a slight ascent on the northern side, so that the town is almost in a basin. The houses of the European residents are to the east of the Town. The front portion of the Residency was built by Colonel Wilks at the beginning of the present century, and is in the Doric Order of Architecture. The back was added a few years later by Sir John Malcolm, and contains a fine Banqueting Hall. A new suburb has sprung up to the west at the village of Kookerhulli. A grand new Palace and Durbur Hall and several houses have been recently built, roads nicely laid out, and the whole place made bright and cheerful. The Zoological Gardens are especially well kept.

Fauna.—The wealth of the animal kingdom in the Mysore State can be most conveniently illustrated by naming the animals to be met with in each of the districts of the country. In the Bangalore District there are the tiger, deer, cheetah or panther, wild hog, porcupine, bear, jackal, buffalo, and wild cat. The larger game is mostly confined to the Magadi, Kankanhalli and Closepet taluks. Bandicoots are very numerous. Among birds are the jungle fowl, pea-fowl and spur-fowl, the bustard, floucan, partridge, quail, and rock-pigeon, snipe, teal and wild duck. Several species of fresh-water fish are obtained in the larger tanks. In the Kolar District the chief wild animals are a few bears, met with in the Meekalnakaupalya and Budkoti jungles, cheetahs and wild boar in the Nundlydroog, Mudimadagu, Sammakal and Dokkal-konda hill ranges, hyenas, jackals, antelope, porcupines and hares in unfrequented parts, and the mongoose and smaller animals in the hedges around villages. The birds are similar to those of the Bangalore District. The town of Kolar and the villages adjacent to it are noted for turkeys, which are reared in large numbers for export to Bangalore, Bellary, and other places. In the Tumkur District the tiger, panther, bear and wild hog are to be met with in the reserved forest tracts around Devarayandroog, while deer and cheetahs are sometimes to be seen in the jungle parts of the Sira taluk. Birds of prey are said to be numerous in this district. In the Chitaldroog District the tiger, panther, bear, hyena and wild hog infest most of the hilly and wild tracts; and deer are to be found chiefly in Hiriyu, Chitaldroog and Pavagada. All kinds of wild fowl are very numerous in the secluded tanks in the South; and pelicans may be seen about Matted. Good herds of oxen and sheep are found grazing in the East, North and north-western parts of this district. The Mysore District lays claim to the possession of the chief elephant tracts, which are to be found in the jungles in the South, East and West, but their destruction is prohibited by the Government. This district is famous for its cattle, especially the breeds known as the Amrat Mahal, the Halkur and the Mudisavara betta or Madhugiri, and good sheep can be obtained from the Nagamangala, Maddur and Mandya taluks. In the Hassan District the forests of the Mulnad and the rocky hills in the Hassan, Aakalgud and Harbahalli taluks give shelter to numerous wild beasts, among which tigers, cheetahs, bears, elk, spotted deer, jungle sheep and wild pigs are the most common, black cheetahs are occasionally shot in Manjerbad, and herds of elephants and bison visit the hilly tracts on the verge of the Ghats. In the Shimoga District bison and elephants are common in the Sagu taluk, while tigers, panthers and bears are found principally in the West, and in Shikarpet. Wild boar abound in Chennagiri, Nyagar and other parts, sambar, chital and jungle sheep are frequent in the wooded tracts. Wild geese, ducks and teal frequent the tanks in Chennagiri and Shimoga, while pea-fowl and jungle fowl are to be had in the woods.

The administrative capital of the State is BANGALORE (q. v.)

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

The Director of Agriculture is the head of the Agricultural Department in Mysore with his office situated to the east of the Central College on the Sheshadri Road. Attached to the office buildings and under the control of the Director are the Agricultural Chemical Laboratory, the Mycological Laboratory, the Entomological Laboratory and the Insectary. The Experimental Farm connected with the Department is situated at Hebbal, 5 miles from Bangalore. The size of the Farm has been almost doubled recently. The Agricultural School also under the Director of Agriculture has classrooms with laboratory equipment for Physics, Chemistry, Botany, Mycology and Entomology on the Hebbal Farm both for theoretical and practical work in Agriculture, Carpentry, Blacksmithing and Fitting. A Students' Hostel attached to the School is located on the Farm where quarters for living have also been provided. Another Experimental Farm has been opened in the Malnad tracts of Shimoga District in Sagar (Marthur) and a third Farm has also been opened in Hiriyur under the Marikanave Reservoir. An Implement Depot is attached to the Department in which machines and implements specially adapted to the agricultural requirements of the State are stocked and sold to the ryots. As far as possible local manufacturers are encouraged to stock approved implements made by them in this Depot. Implement Depots in District Head Quarters are also opened. Vernacular Short Courses are conducted on ploughing and other field operations and on such crops as ragi, sugarcane, &c., both in the Experimental Farm at Hebbal and in the Farm in Shimoga District (Marthur, Sagar). When definite results in regard to experiments in the various branches of the Department are achieved, such results are published in the form of bulletins which are supplied to agriculturists in the State who apply for them, free of cost. A District staff with Deputy and Assistant Director and an Agricultural Inspector for each district has been lately appointed. A staff for supervising Rural Science Education has also been sanctioned.

NELLORE.

Description.—A district on the Eastern or Coromandel Coast, lying between 30° 25' and 35° 55' N. lat., and between 79° 9' and 80° 11' E. long. On the east it is washed by the Bay of Bengal, its western boundary is formed by the Eastern Ghâts, which separate it from the districts of Kurnool and Cuddapah, north it is bordered by Guntur District, south by North Arcot and Chingleput. Estimated total area, 7,973 square miles, total population, according to the Census of 1911, 1,828,152.

Physical Geography.—This District occupies a tract of low land stretching from the base of the Eastern Ghâts to the sea. Its general aspect is forbidding. The coast line is uniformly a fringe of blown sand, through which the waves occasionally break and spread a salt sterility over the fields. Farther inland, the country begins to rise. But the soil is not naturally fertile, nor are means of irrigation readily at hand except in Nellore taluk. Scarcely half of the total area is cultivated. The rest is either a rocky waste or covered with dense scrub jungle. The finest trees are to be found in the neighbourhood of the village sites. Along the western frontier rises a barren range of mountains, which throws out numerous spurs into the plain. A remarkable natural feature is the island of Sriharikota, a low ridge of sand which divides the Lake of Pulicat from the main sea. Inhabited chiefly by scattered families of the wild tribe of Yanadies, most of it has never been brought under cultivation; but Madras is supplied with fuel from this otherwise unprofitable waste. The chief rivers of Nellore are the Pennar and the Swarnamukhi, which rise in the table-land above the Ghâts, and flow east to the sea. The numerous minor streams are little more than mountain torrents. The Pennar runs through the district for a total course of about 70 miles, passing by the town of Nellore. For six months of the year its bed, which is rocky among the hills, but sandy lower down, is almost dry. With deep pools here and there, in which fish collect. The season of flood (full or partial) lasts for about 60 days. When the stream is at its highest the volume of water is 500 yards wide and 30 feet deep, filling the bed from bank to bank. The chief irrigation works on the Pennar are the anicut at Nellore town, from which numerous channels are led off on the south bank, and an anicut made at Singampalayam, 18 miles west of Nellore, and which irrigates land north of the river. The floods of the Swarnamukhi also supply a series of irrigation channels. The bordering range of the Eastern Ghâts presents its highest peak, Pencilakonda, to an elevation of about 3,600 feet above sea level. Detached from this range is the isolated hill or droog of Udayagiri (3,079 feet), which was formerly an important rock fortress. Throughout the district generally, the underlying rocks belong to the metamorphic series, which occasionally crops up in the form of gneiss, schist, and quartz, and is intersected by veins of quartz and volcanic rocks. The Eastern Ghâts, on the other hand, are capped by a series of sedimentary formation, chiefly altered sandstone and slate known as the "Cuddapah Group." Organic remains of fern-like plants have been found in several places. A band of laterite, varying greatly in width, extends almost continuously along the coast, and is largely quarried for building materials. Copper was discovered in the north-eastern corner of Udayagiri taluk in 1801. The ore was found on assay to yield a large percentage of metal, and European capital was attracted to the spot. But the enterprise has repeatedly proved unsuccessful, and no fresh attempt has been made since 1840. Saltpetre is made in a few villages, by refining down the nitrous earth to be found on the surface. Mica is worked in the south of the district. Wild animals are comparatively rare. Tigers are almost unknown, except when a stray one wanders across the mountains from Cuddapah. Leopards, bears, sambar, deer, and occasionally bison, are still found among the western hills. Antelope, spotted deer, and wild hog are generally distributed, while the small game comprise snipe, buck, bustard and bhoirao.

NILGIRIS (THE).

Geographical position.—The Nilgiri District,—as it existed prior to the annexation on the 31st March 1877, of the tracts known as the Nambalakód, Chirankód, and Munimad Anshoms, before then part of the Wainád Taluk of Malabar,—lies between latitude 11° 8' and 11° 57' north, and longitude 76° 27' and 77° 1' east. Within these limits rise the Nilgiri Hills, a vast mountain block, comprising two more or less distinct but ranges, usually known as the Nilgiri Proper and the Kúnda. Apart from the Kúnda and Nidumale ranges, the surface of the Nilgiri is divided into an upper and lower plateau. The lower forming an immense half, rests upon the north-eastern and southern slopes of the Doddabetta, or great central range, and its offshoots, including the north-east angle of the plateau, sometime, though without sufficient reason, called the Kótágiri range. The higher plateau, known amongst the aborigines as the "Mei," or upland, comprises the tract lying between the western slopes of Doddabetta and the Nidumale and Kúnda ranges. The average elevation of this higher plateau above the lower may be roughly stated at from 1,000 to 1,500 feet.

Waterfalls are numerous and picturesque, though not of great depth or volume. The highest is Kolakambe, north of the hill of that name, having an unbroken fall of about 400 feet. Second to this is St. Catherine's Fall (250 feet) in a stream south of Kótágiri. Then follows the lower Fall of Paikare (200 feet) and after it the upper (180 feet). Of nearly the same height is the Kallhatti Fall (170 feet) on the Segúr Pass.

Lakes.—There are no natural lakes in the plateau, but art has attempted to supply in Ootacamund the defects of nature, for there are some artificial lake, or reservoirs, formed by banking up streams at narrow parts of the valleys. The most important is the Ootacamund lake, a marked feature in the station, and one which adds greatly to its beauty. Its form is serpentine, the bends being caused by the projecting spurs of the hills on either side. Its length is about two miles and a half, breadth from three to four hundred yards. A road follows the windings of its banks throughout and forms the principal drive of the station, being nearly five miles long.

Scenery.—The interior of the plateau consists chiefly of grassy undulating hills divided by narrow valleys, which invariably contain a stream or a swamp. In the hollows of the hill-sides nestle small beautiful woods, locally known as sholas. It is seldom that so much variety of beauty is found in so small a compass. Let a visitor take a short ride in almost any direction from almost any part of the plateau, and passing along shady English-looking lanes, sheltered by thickets of blackberry and wild rose; across bare breezy downs sometimes dotted with twisted crimson flowering rhododendron and intersected by swampy valleys, where buffaloes wade and wallow, through dense woods carpeted with rare ferns and gorgeous in spring-tints, beside which the colouring of an English autumn is faint and dull, by native villages, with their patches of cultivation and their magnificent single trees, he will find himself on some ridge or promontory, looking straight down from 1,000 to 6,000 feet, on to a scene that changes like the figures in a kaleidoscope. In the morning a sea of clouds lies at his feet, and gradually rises round him. In the afternoon this has cleared away, and reveals perhaps a vast crimson plain, veined by dark lines of wood, dotted with isolated hummock-like giant ant-hills and terminating in faint blue lines of mountains, the furthest of which seems to hang half-way up the sky; perhaps on a tumbled mass of hills and valleys, a perfect dissolving view, for the eye has hardly traced the outline of some rocky ridge, glowing red in the sun-light, before a blue-cloud shadow blot it out, and a fresh series of crests and ravines start into sight beyond. Broken peaks, hung with wood frame the picture, and on all sides lies tropical sunlight, intensified by the keen thin mountain air. The hills are full of Peaks with paths leading up to the top, made for the convenience of visitors. The scenery from these tops is simply delightful and the air refreshing and invigorating. The most important of these is the Mukurti Peak, situated about 17½ miles west of Ootacamund.

The climate, or rather climates, of the Nilgiri Hills—for that of each hill and valley seems to be according to its exposure to the monsoons, its elevation, or other local causes—may be generally described as to the greater part of the year dry, bracing and exhilarating, and more equable than that of Europe, the maximum range of the thermometer being only from 8 to 9 degrees at Ootacamund, from 12 to 15 degrees at Wellington throughout the year, in the middle of the day, as against 28 degrees in London. December and January are frosty months, the wind is keen and the sky beautifully blue. This is the unhealthy season. Water cakes into thin layer ice in the winter. South-west monsoon. During the south-west monsoon, which usually prevails until the early part of October, much rain falls, and the air is generally saturated with moisture. The hills are quickly covered with luxuriant grasses and the forest trees put forth their fresh leaves. During August and September breakers as they are called, occur. The mists clear off, and the sun shines forth for several days successively. The scenery, usually beautiful, is now surpassingly so, the undulating ground of the whole plain being clothed with verdure of peculiar richness. This is usually considered to be the healthiest time of the year, and Europeans who have resided for any length of time upon the Hills, and judge the climate by experience, invariably prefer the rainy season to any other. North-east monsoon. This begins about the middle of October and generally opens with vivid flashes of lightning and rattling peals of thunder, accompanied with heavy rain. There are breaks now and again, but it is heavy. The wind occasionally becomes frosty and heavy fogs occur, especially in November.

Cases of illness which derive most benefit from a change to the Hill climate.—On the Nilgiri table land we have a climate essentially temperate, and one which experience tells us is capable of conferring the greatest benefit in suitable cases. The cool refreshing breezes, together with the lovely mountain scenery, and relaxation from work, combine to effect an improvement in the health of those who have been exposed for any length of time to the enervating influences of the plains. For the following classes the climate will be found unquestionably most suitable and invigorating. Young people of weakly constitution, who have broken down through overwork in a tropical climate, or who return having come out to India before their constitution may be said to have been properly formed, and in consequence have been reduced to a state of general debility after their arrival in the country. Older persons who, by reason of a prolonged residence on the plains without change of air, after suffering from some slight illness, have been troubled with dyspepsia, nervous debility, mental depression, or loss of appetite and who in consequence feel an inability to perform their accustomed duties. These are the cases which derive the most permanent benefit from a residence on the Hills. It is presumed that in the above cases there is a freedom from all structural disease. Convalescing from many of the more trivial diseases to which Europeans are subject on the plains is generally hastened by a residence on these Hills, attention being paid to the selection of a station for such a residence in due accordance with the age and state of the patient and the season of the year. The Hills are a place for consumptives, or those suffering from a thymic, febrile, chronic disturbance, dysentery and liver.

The boundaries of the District are, North, Mysore; South, Malabar and Coimbatore; East, Coimbatore; West, Malabar. Area, 1,009 square miles. Population, 118,618. Languages are Toda, Koda and Madaga spoken by the indigenous tribes, and Canarese, Tamil and Malayalam are in common use.

(1) The Ootacamund Botanical Garden was opened during the Governorship of the Marquis of Tweeddale in 1847, and covers an area of about 51 acres. The grounds are beautifully laid out and planted with a great variety of exotic timber and ornamental trees, shrubs and herbaceous plants. There is a fine terrace laid out with flower beds in the Italian fashion, two conservatories which are open to the public, and a range of propagating houses.

The objects of this and the branch gardens are as follows:—

1. To improve horticulture in this Presidency.
2. To introduce, to propagate and to distribute vegetable productions not indigenous to India.
3. To further the distribution of seeds and plants.
4. To conduct experiments in the cultivation of indigenous and exotic economic plants, and in the preparation of commercial samples of their various raw products, with a view to making better known the value, and furthering and extending the cultivation of such plants for the sake of their commercial products in this Presidency.

Residents in Southern India are indebted to these gardens for the introduction and distribution of many varieties of English and foreign fruits, vegetables, fodder plants, useful timber trees and also various medicinal plants. In 1861 the valuable quinine-yielding Cinchona, that now cover many thousand acres in India and Ceylon, were introduced.

(2) The Government Parks comprise—

- (a) Stonehouse Park;
- (b) Crewe and Ottley Hall lands;
- (c) Mount Stuart;
- (d) Post Office Hill;
- (e) Church Hill;
- (f) Jail Hill.

Government have placed these different lands in charge of the Curator, from the 1st September 1905, and from 7th September 1909 other minor lands were placed under his charge for conservation.

(3) St. Thomas' Cemetery is under the superintendence of the Curator.

(4) Government House Gardens, Ootacamund.—These gardens and grounds belong to the hill residence of His Excellency the Governor of Madras, and are consequently private. They are purely ornamental in character, and are not open to the public.

(5) Sin's Park, Coonoor, was opened in 1874, as a pleasure ground for the inhabitants of, and visitors to, Coonoor and Wellington. It is prettily situated in a valley on the north side of Coonoor at an elevation of 5,800—5,900 feet and is about 30 acres in extent.

(6) Benhope.—The U. P. A. S. I. Coffee Hybridisation Experiment Plot is situated on a small piece of Government land at an elevation of about 4,000 feet on the Coonoor ghat, near the 15 miles 7 furlongs milestone on Main road from Ootacamund, and 16 miles 1 furlong from Mettupoliam. The plot was planted in November 1912 with different species and varieties of Coffee to enable the Planting Expert to conduct experiments in the hybridisation of Coffee for the United Planters' Association of Southern India.

(7) The Burliar Experimental Garden is near the Burliar toll bar on the Coonoor Ghat, at an elevation of 2,300 to 2,500 feet, and was purchased in 1871 for Rs. 2,000. Experience has proved that the site, which commands a plentiful supply of water all the year round for irrigation purposes, is well adapted for the growth of trees and plants peculiar to tropical America, the West Indies, tropical Africa, the Straits, and the Eastern Archipelago. The Para, Central American, Ceara, and Funtumia rubber trees, the Mangosteen, Nutmeg, Cinnamon, Clove, Allspice, Cocoa, Coca, Mahogany, Camphor, Coffee trees of different species, Oranges, Breadfruit, Coconut, Custard Apple, Litchi, Langsat, Paraguay Tea, Avocado Pear, Durian and Plantains—including the Manila Hemp plant—are all represented and thriving well in the Garden, which covers about 8 acres.

(8) Kallar, a block of about 10 acres of land at 1,300 to 1,400 feet elevation, handed over by the Forest Department in 1900, lies on the old Ghat road about a mile from Kallar Railway Station. Rubber, fibre producing plants, Teak, Mahogany and tropical fruit trees are being experimented with there.

OOTACAMUND.

OOTACAMUND, the chief town of the Nilgiri district, the principal sanitarium of India, the summer head-quarters of the Madras Government, occupies the western slope of the Dodabetta mountain range. The town proper lies within the basin formed by two spurs of the Dodabetta mountain, the highest point of the southern being Elk Hill, and that of the northern the Club Hill. Owing to its peculiar features, Ootacamund is much exposed to the westerly winds, but is well protected upon the north and east. The bottom of the Ootacamund basin has been converted into an artificial lake some two miles in length and one-third of a mile in width, by throwing a dam across the main stream at a narrow pass where it issues from the central valley. This lake is divided into two by means of a causeway and bridge known as the "Willow Bund," from the Indian willows which line its banks. The bund is the means of communication between the north-west and south-west portions of the town. The western lake is sinuous in form. Upon the hills which surround it, more or less concealed by woods of eucalyptus, acacia, cypress and pine, stand some of the best private residences in the town. On a foreland of its southern bank stands the Church of St. Thomas, a Gothic building; and opposite to this on the north bank, though at a greater distance from the lake, the Roman Catholic Church dedicated to the Blessed Virgin. The upper lake, an oval piece of water, much contaminated by the drainage of the native town or bazaar which lies on its northern bank, has been reclaimed lately and is now utilized as a Gymkhana ground and Race Course. Round the margin of the whole lake runs a wide carriage-drive. The marsh at the head, or eastern extremity of the lake has been reclaimed, levelled, and forms a park, known as the Hobart Park, still used for purposes of public recreation. The area, including the lands lying on the northern and southern margins of the lake as far as the Willow Bund, is about thirty acres, opposite to this, at the eastern extremity of the native bazaar, stands the Hobart School for native girls. To the east is the public market. On the slope of the hill behind the market are the Police lines and station, and above these ranges of buildings St. Bartholomew's Hospital, behind which on the top of the ridge, are the jail buildings now used by the Inspector-General of Jails as his office and by the Nilgiri Volunteer Rifles for their Armoury and Recreation room. At a short distance to the east, on the same spur, is the Public Library, and opposite to it the Post Office; a little farther on are the public offices of the district and lower down the Brecks Memorial School. Nearer to the hill stands the Church of St. Stephen, the old station church; and opposite its gates the church and school of the Church of England Native Christians. The sides of the hill to the east and west of St. Stephen's are thickly studded with houses and cottages, including westward the Club House and the principal hotels, and eastward the Assembly Rooms. Looking to the east from St. Stephen's, but at a much lower elevation, on the western extremity of a minor spur of Dodabetta, stands "Stonehouse," which contains the Council Chamber and the offices of the Madras Secretariat. In the hollows and on the spurs of Dodabetta to the north and south of "Stonehouse" are many residences. The lands on these slopes are generally very fertile and well watered, and for this reason a considerable and yearly extending area is cultivated as garden land. In a steep ravine, about half a mile to the north of "Stonehouse," are the Public Gardens and the Todah "mund," from which Ootacamund takes its name. Above the Public Gardens, stretching across the Dodabetta saddle, is the Government Cinchona plantation. On the northern shoulder of the ravine, adjoining the Public Gardens, lies the hill residence of the Governor, backed by a fine wood of eucalyptus on the side of the Snowdon mountain. From the foot of "Stonehouse" towards the south runs the highway to Coonoor, disappearing in the deep cutting which separates Elk Hill from the Dodabetta range. This is a simple description of the main valley, but the limits of the station lie far beyond it and include two other important valleys; to the south and parallel with it, Lovedale, with its picturesque lake, above which stand the extensive storeyed buildings of the Lawrence Asylum (founded 1858); to the north the valley of Marlmund which opens out towards the head of the Saegoor Pass. Between the Ootacamund and the Marlmund valleys is a hollow, across the outlet of which a dam has been thrown, forming the Marlmund reservoir from which, through cast iron pipes, nearly three miles in length, the northern portion of Ootacamund is supplied with water. The houses occupied by Europeans in the station have often five or six acres of land attached and many have from twenty to seventy acres. In the chief native bazaar on the border of the lake, some eight thousand persons are congregated; and perhaps half of this number again in Kundal, a bazaar in a small valley to the west of the station. But a large number of natives have their homes in scattered hamlets, chiefly in the eastern portions of the station. The inhabitants of these hamlets are chiefly Canarese, with a sprinkling of Tamils. There is no Badaga village within municipal limits, and only three or four Toda munds or villages.

LOVEDALE.

LOVEDALE is three miles from Ootacamund on the summit and centre of the Nilgiri Hills. It is now in the Ootacamund Municipal area. It lies between the 11th and 12th degrees of North Latitude and the 76th and 77th degrees of East Longitude, on the confines of Coimbatore and Malabar, at an elevation of 7,330 feet above the mean level of the sea, being 1,312 feet below Dodabetta and 103 feet above the Lake at Ootacamund, and 1,470 feet above the Barracks at Wellington. The mean annual temperature at Lovedale is 53°, the mean maximum is 63°; the mean minimum is 43°; the mean annual range 16°. On or near the ground, however, water often freezes during the winter months. Chinnai-Dodabetta is on Lovedale and at its foot there is the Asylum Reservoir. The Lawrence Asylum buildings and ground cover an area of 730.76 acres. Close by eastwards is Kati Valley occupied by Badagas.

The object of the Institution, which shall comprise two branches—one for boys and one for girls—is to secure for European and Eurasian children of the classes specified in rule 39 a healthy and invigorating climate, to remove them from objectionable surroundings, to afford them secular and religious education, and to train them to earn a livelihood.

In the event of such pupil having neither parent nor guardian, the Committee shall take such measures as may seem best for the pupil's settlement in life. KOTAGIRI—Nilgiri District.

KOTAGIRI, or Kotagaherry as it was formerly called, is 18 miles from the foot of the Nilgiris and 6,500 feet above the level of the sea. It is situated in North latitude $11^{\circ} 19'$. The first English settlers went to Kotagiri, which is still considered as possessing a better climate for invalids than Ootacamund or Coonoor. It is chiefly occupied by planters, and is so called from the Kotars who have a village in it. The Kotars are a dirty lot. They live on carrion, and their persons and huts are squalid and filthy. They are mostly blacksmiths by profession. Kotagiri produces tea, coffee and oranges of superior kind in abundance. Potatoes and pears form no inconsiderable supply during July, August and September. The Basel German Mission and the Roman Catholic Mission have established churches and schools here and are doing quiet but useful work.

1 Hill Station and division of the Coonoor Taluk. Lat. $11^{\circ} 34'$. Long $76^{\circ} 31'$. Distance, 18 miles E. of Ootacamund, 15 miles N. E. of Coonoor, and 21 miles N. of Mettupalayam. Elevation 6,000 feet. Rainfall average 70 inches (chief monsoon N. E.). Languages spoken—Tamil, Badaga, Kotah, Toda, and Irula.

COONOR.

Coonor is the alternative sanitarium with Ootacamund on the Nilgiris, and being in a more sheltered position is sometimes preferred. Its position is lat. $11^{\circ} 20' N.$, and long. $76^{\circ} 30' E.$, and it is distant 363 miles from Madras, 12 from Ootacamund. The scenery of Coonor differs very greatly from that of Ootacamund; its vegetation is semi-tropical, the contour of the hills is bold, and the colouring of the scenery bright and warm. On the other hand, the vegetation of Ootacamund is rather that of the Temperate Zones; its hill lines are unbroken and undulating, and the colouring of the landscape cold and grey. The climate of Coonor also differs as widely as its scenery, being warm, moist and relaxing, whilst that of Ootacamund is cool, dry and invigorating. Each supplies a need. The mean annual temperature in the shade at Coonor is $62^{\circ} F.$ In the warmest months the thermometer fluctuates between 55° and $75^{\circ} F.$; in the coldest months 38° and $68^{\circ} F.$ The average annual rainfall is 76 inches. The rate of mortality is remarkably low. The height of All Saints' Church above the sea-level is 5,951 feet, that of the Coonor bridge about 5,500 feet. Most of the houses occupied by Europeans are between 5,700 and 6,000 feet above sea-level. Coonor peak, however, is 6,898 feet above sea-level, or only 300 feet below the level of the Ootacamund lake. Coonor lies at the head of the ravine and pass which bears its name.

The native town spreads over the lower slopes of the spurs of two hills, which terminate in a wedge-like promontory where the united waters of three streams break over the edge of the ghaat and are precipitated down the gorge under the name of the Coonor river, finally joining the Kartairy river. The three streams are crossed by three bridges. On an eminence on the western spur stands the Protestant Mission Chapel, and on the eastern the Roman Catholic Church; below the latter is the market. The road to Upper Coonor passes up the ridge and thence round the head of the valley, and along the wooded ridge which encloses it on the east and south. On this ridge stands the Coonor Church, dedicated to All Saints, with a lofty square tower. The Church is surrounded by a grave-yard planted with exotic trees and flowers. To the east of this ridge is a ravine separating it from Tiger Hill, round which winds Lord Hobart's road, passing into the road to Lamb's Rock, Lady Canning's Seat, and the Dolphin's Nose, some five miles eastward of Coonor above the Kotagerry gorge. Below this road, stretching away to the east as far as the eye can see, are the Coimbatore and Salem plains, the ancient Coorg country; northwards the Bilgherryrangan hills and the ranges which mark the line of the Balaghat country; whilst south and westwards is the Coonor pass, walled in on the south by the "Hoolikull'droog," which is backed by the Lambton's Peak range south of the Bhawany river and by the distant Anamullay mountains.

Behind the hill on which the Church stands is another valley one of the ravines on the western side of the Coonor peak, along which runs the road to Kotagerry. This valley has been formed into a garden named Sim's Park, after Mr. J. D. Sim, a late Member of the Madras Council. It is an offshoot of the deep ravine which divides Coonor from Wellington, and the upper portion of which has been converted into a race-course, unrivalled by any in India for the picturesqueness and beauty of its position. The drainage of this valley forms the middle stream of Coonor, which meets the other streams at the old Coonor bridge. This bridge is the central point of the Coonor road system. Here the old and new ghats roads meet, and from it, along the right bank of the western stream as far as the Wellington bazaar, runs the main road to Ootacamund. Above this road to the left is the Tahsildar's Office, Sub-Magistrate's Court, the Police Station and Police lines. The old court buildings have recently been dismantled and rebuilt on a more extensive plan, and a few private residences; and below it the Railway Station. The Nilgiri Railway was opened in 1899 from Mettupalayam to Coonor, the line being on the rack-rail system from the foot of the hills. This railway has been purchased by Government, and it is contemplated to work the whole line from Mettupalayam to Ootacamund by electric power, generated by the Coonor and Kartairy streams, the power station to be situated near the present Runnymede station. This scheme also embraces electric lighting for Coonor, Wellington, and Ootacamund. A continuation of the line from Coonor to Ootacamund has recently been completed, and the train service began in 1905. A piped water supply scheme for the town of Coonor was completed in April 1905. A Pasteur Institute for the Madras Presidency has been built in Coonor, near Sim's Park. Three miles up the old Ootacamund road is situated the Government Cordite Factory worked by electric power obtained from the Kartairy Falls.

ST JOSEPH'S COLLEGE, COONOR.—This is one of the largest Educational Institutions on the Nilgiris. The buildings, which have been specially erected for Educational purposes, occupy one of the most picturesque positions in Coonor and stand on the open crest of a hill, 6,000 feet above mean sea-level, whence a magnificent panorama of Nilgiri mountain scenery can be obtained. The School thus possesses all the advantages that Hill Schools claim, particularly in the tropics, over those on the plains.

This Institution is under the care of the Brothers of St. Patrick from Ireland, whose sole aim in life, after their own sanctification, is the education and training of youth. Parents have consequently every assurance that their children's dearest and best interests are in safe keeping.

The health and comfort of the pupils are objects of special care. The study-hall, class rooms and dormitories are spacious and well ventilated. Every effort is made to encourage out-door games and to render school-life as much like home as possible. The younger children are under the care of an experienced European Matron, and the general health of the pupils is in charge of a qualified Medical Officer.

The Course of Studies embrace the following:—The entrance Examination to—The Accounts, both departments of the Koorkee Engineering College, Salt, Opium, Forest and Survey, Calcutta and Madras Medical, Telegraph, Permanent-way Inspectorship and all the standards of the European School Code, including the High School, and Cambridge senior and local examination.

WELLINGTON (SEE NILGIRIS).

The station of Wellington, which is the Convalescent Dépôt for the British troops in the Madras Presidency, is in the Merkanad Division of the Nilgiri District, and lies in latitude 11° 5' north and longitude 77° 5' east, with a native population of 5,192. It is 6,100 feet above the level of the sea, situated on a spur running to the south-east from the Dodabetta or middle range of mountains, is well sheltered, only partially exposed to the monsoons, and well adapted for a sanitarium. It is bounded on the north by the Dodabetta mountain, which is 8,780 feet above sea-level, and is sheltered by it partially from the south-west monsoon: on the south by Coonoor, two miles distant, from which it is separated by a deep ravine; on the east by Kotagiri, 13 miles distant, and on the west by a spur of the Dodabetta range stretching towards Kateri. There is a Convalescent Dépôt which is now called the Wellington Sanitarium, and a convalescent enteric depot at the Hut Barracks. The Imperial Cadet College was opened at Wellington on the 1st October 1915.

Climate and its influence on health.—The climate at Wellington, although only 11 degrees from the equator, is most salubrious, temperate, and invigorating. The thermometer seldom rises in the shade above 75 degrees, and the days throughout the cold months are clear and bracing. The mornings are always refreshing, and, if the character and time of the setting in of the south-west monsoon is regular, the months of the middle part of the year are pleasant and healthy.

The soil in and about Wellington is of a rich red ferruginous clay or marl, resting on a granitic base with sienite in many places, and here and there felspar, mica, and veins of quartz. Flint and amethyst appear to be embedded in the granite, sienite or gneiss, in the form of crystallized silica.

The road up the ghât runs from east to west. On the first portion of the ascent the bamboo, coconut and nut grow in abundance, sheltering the road. On going higher, one observes the indigenous forest trees, among which are conspicuous, the teak, of an inferior quality, the blackwood, which is useful for furniture, and takes a handsome polish, the sal, wild jack and vengay. Vengay is a superior timber considered by some equal to teak, and from it the bridges throughout the ghât are made. Lastly, the red and white cedars, the woods of which are suitable for building or making furniture. These trees are conspicuous for their great girth. About two-thirds up the ghât it is a pleasing relief to meet a resting-place, known as the 'Half-way House,' midway between Coonoor and Mettupalaiyam, or 5 miles from the former station. Here coffee is provided for troops coming up. It is well shaded, and a perennial spring of clear water flows close by. The ascent from Mettupalaiyam to Coonoor is about 4,500 feet. Midway between Ootacamund and Coonoor, i.e., at the 7th mile stone, Aruvankad, stands the Oorlite Factory, the surroundings of which up to Yellankhalli are under the sanitary charge of the Wellington Cantonment Authority.

PONDICHERRY—Madras Presidency.

A City, Seaport, and Capital of the French Settlements in India, on the Coromandel Coast, within the South Arcot District, lying in Lat. 11° 5' 57" ; Long. 79° 52' 53". Population 184,754. Languages spoken—French and Tamil.

PONDICHERRY, the Capital of the French Settlements in India, and the seat of Government was purchased by the French from the Vijayanagar Raja in 1672; it is situated on a flat sandy coast south-east of a long flat hill. The settlement forms part of the delta (conamooam) of the Penniar, and a great portion of its surface is alluvial. Many artesian wells have been sunk, and excellent drinking water is obtainable. The hills known as the Montagnes Rouges form a natural girdle to the country about Pondicherry. The coast board of the settlement is about five miles, and its breadth from three to four miles. The climate is healthy. The territory is divided into eight municipalities. The total superficies of the territory is estimated at 69,000 acres which, in consequence of the parcelment, is scattered over a space of about 173,000 acres.

The first French settlement was made here in 1674 under François Martin and the Genl. Mons. Dupleix. In 1693 it was captured by the Dutch and restored at the Peace of Ryswick in 1699. The town was besieged by the English unsuccessfully in 1748; but was taken by Sir E. Coote in 1761 and restored in 1763. It was again captured by Sir Hector Munro in 1778 and restored in 1785, Colonel Braithwaite once more took it in 1793, and finally restored it in 1816. A very fine fort, which was built 500 yards from the sea, of brick covered with polished white plaster, was demolished by Sir Eyre Coote, in 1761. Down to the middle of the last century Pondicherry was the finest city in India.

The city now extends along the sea coast about a mile and a quarter, and is about three-quarters of a mile in breadth. The town is regularly built and is divided into two parts, the White town and the Black town, separated by a canal. The White town is by the sea side. Its streets are regularly laid out and cut each other at right angles, and the houses are well built. There is a fine Pier 350 metres long. Government House, a handsome building situated to the North of the Place Dupleix, is within 300 yards of the sea, near a fine statue of Mons. Dupleix, inscribed "to all the glories of France," which is on a handsome pedestal of Gingee stone. The town has no port, but an open roadstead, which being to windward for nine months of the year, and having less surf, is superior to that at Madras. But in consequence of the small depth of water near the shore and the violence of the surf, landing can be effected only by flat-bottomed boats constructed for the purpose. There are three hotels, and a fully furnished Travellers' bungalow near the Railway Station, which is maintained by a native gentleman. Travellers can reside in this house for three days free of charge, but must make their own arrangements regarding food, etc., with the servants. The usual mode of conveyance is the pousse pousse, a sort of bath chair; jukkas and carts are also procurable.

The British India Co.'s Nagapatnam and Rangoon steamers call weekly, and the same Co.'s Madras and Singapore boats once a fortnight; the Messageries and Asiatic Co.'s steamers touch at the Port every alternate week. Pondicherry is the seat of an Archbishop, and the headquarters of the French Roman Catholic Missions; there is a fine Cathedral dedicated to Notre Dame des Anges. There is a Cercle (Club) for Europeans, and others for natives. Pondicherry is the terminus of the Villupuram-Pondicherry branch of the South Indian Railway. The city and environs contain many fine houses in the European style, and the high culture of the soil, the numerous canals crossed by neatly constructed bridges, and roads planted with trees, give to the surrounding district the appearance of a great garden.

Three miles south of Pondicherry is the village of Veerampatnam, where is an ancient and interesting temple to the goddess Sangalaniammal (an Avatar of Kali) which attracts many pilgrims from all over South India. Four miles south, at Aryankuppam, is a very old Roman Catholic Church.

PUDUKKOTTAI STATE.

MADRAS PRESIDENCY.

Description.—This Native State, otherwise called the Tondiman's country, lies between 10° 15' and 10° 29' N. lat., and between 78° 45' and 79° E. long., and is entirely surrounded by the British districts of Tanjore, Trichinopoly, Ramnad and Madura. Its area is 1,178 square miles; its population, 411,886, almost entirely agricultural. Language spoken, Tamil. The country is for the most part a flat plain, interspersed with small rocky hills, some of which are crowned by old forts. In the south-west, hills and jungles are found, but elsewhere the State is well cultivated. There are 7,549 tanks, some of considerable size. The gross revenue of the State is about 18 lakhs of rupees.

The first confederation of the British Government with the chief of this State, then usually called Tondiman (a family name derived from the word Tondai, an abridged form of Tondaimandalam, the supposed original home of the family), was formed at the siege of Trichinopoly in 1753, when the British army greatly depended on his fidelity and exertions for the supply of provisions. Subsequently, he was serviceable in the wars with Hyder Ali and in the Poligar War, the latter being the name given to the operations against the usurpers of the large zemindari of Sivaganga in the Madura district after the cession of the Carnatic. In 1803, he solicited as a reward for his services his claim to the fort and district of Kilanelly, situated in the southern part of Tanjore. This was founded on a grant by Pratapa Sing, Rajah of Tanjore, and on engagements afterwards entered into by Colonel Braithwaite, General Coote, and Lord Macartney the Government of Madras granted the fort and district of Kilanelly, and the cession was confirmed by the Court of Directors, upon the condition that the district should not be alienated, and that it should revert to the British Government upon proof being given at any time that the inhabitants laboured under oppression.

The Rajah maintains a military force of 162 officers and men. Chief town, bearing the same name, is 32 miles south of Trichinopoly and 86 miles south-west of Tanjore. A Residency bungalow, a Travellers' bungalow, Court houses, and various other public buildings are in the town.

Area, 164 square miles. Population 18,526.

Sandur lies within the district of Bellary. A cordon of hills surrounds it and much of the State consists of forests where sandalwood and other trees grow in abundance.

2. The family of the Raja counts back to a Mithatta officer in the army of Bijapur, a collateral in descent according to tradition with the Bhondas of Satara. The grandson of this officer seized the country from a poligar of the Bedar or hunter tribe, a holder nominally subject to Bijapur and was subsequently confirmed in it by a grant from Sambhaji, who conferred on him the title of Senapathi.

3. In 1817 Sir Thomas Munro reduced the fort and valley on behalf of the Peshwa but in the following year they were restored to Siva Rao and in 1826 they were granted to him and his heirs in perpetuity.

4. In 1876 the title of "Raja" was conferred on the chief as an hereditary distinction.

THE SHEVAROY HILLS.

Are situated in the Salem District between 78°20' East longitude and 11°05' North latitude, and extend over an area of 150 square miles. The highest point, Branfill's Hill, about a mile north of the Shevaroyan, from which an extensive view of the surrounding country can be obtained, is 5,410 feet above the level of the sea. The Shevaroyan, the next in height, has a small temple, and is often visited by picnic parties. Yercaud, 4,880 feet elevation, is the principal European settlement, having an altitude of 1,700 feet greater than that of Bangalore. It enjoys a cool and salubrious climate, and is surrounded by charming and picturesque scenery. This charming Hill Station is resorted to by a large number of visitors as a Sanitarium and also by those for whom the Nilgiris are too cold, being especial y more suitable for those suffering from rheumatism, heart and lung complaints. Salem Railway station, from which alone the Shevaroya should be visited, lies 207 miles south-west of Madras, and is 14 miles by road and ghât, from the centre of Yercaud station. If the necessary arrangements have been made for ascending the ghât, visitors leaving Madras or Bangalore by the evening train reach their destination before 8 A.M. the following morning. It is 206 miles distant from Calicut, 97 miles from Coimbatore and 126 from Trichinopoly. These hills are approached by three ghâts, one on the southern side communicating with the town of Salem and the railway station; another on the western side leading to Kadianpatty station, distant about 12 miles; and the last, traced formerly as Bandy ghât on the northern side of these Hills, connecting them with the Bommidu railway station, distant about 19 miles. A carriage-ghât to Salem, named after His Excellency Sir Arthur Havelock, is freely used for wheeled traffic. The distance of this ghât to Salem Railway Station is 20 miles. From the station Yercaud is reached in about three hours, to the foot of the old ghât road in jukhas at one rupee each, and the ascent is done on chairs at 5 annas per cooly carrying same, six coolies to a chair. Luggage coolies 4 annas each. The return journey can be done either by rickshaws or cycles; the former are always available at the Yercaud Stores, the charge for each Rick being Rs. 3-12-0. Motoring up and down the New Ghât Road is not only now a possibility but a pleasure, because of the picturesque views that are to be seen.

Among some of the public buildings are the following:—Holy Trinity Church (Anglican), Roman Catholic Chapel, Roman Catholic Convent, French Mission, London Mission Chapel and School, Danish Mission Chapel, Post Office and Telegraph Office, Victoria Rooms, Katchery, Hospital and Dispensary. There is a Sub-Treasury and a Sub-Registrar's Office, in charge of the Deputy Tahsildar, who is Sub-Magistrate of the Hills.

The Fair Lawns Boarding House, with its numerous detached bungalows, is surrounded by extensive and well managed gardens, and is in immediate proximity to the Church, Post and Telegraph Offices, Public Library and Tennis Courts. The Yercaud Club is conveniently situated and has excellent Tennis and Badminton Courts, besides a Billiard and Bridge Room, &c. There are also Golf links near the Lake, but as these are too small, it is proposed to make a larger course on a more suitable site, and this should prove a great attraction to visitors from the plains. 100 acres of land have been acquired for the formation of a Golf course. This will be opened after the war and should form a great attraction to visitors to Yercaud.

A miniature Rifle Club for ladies was started in 1917.

The European and Eurasian inhabitants of the Shevaroy's number about 350, the former being in a large majority; three-fifths of this population is settled in Yercaud and the remainder are in the outlying coffee estates. This year there has been an addition to their numbers, six Afghan Princes and their families and 120 interned Germans. The Hills host of a Rifle Volunteer Corps commanded by a Captain and two Lieutenants.

A market or Shandy is held on Sundays. There are Bakeries in Yercaud, and shops for the sale of stores and liquors, the principal being Messrs. N. V. A. Pillai, the "Yercaud Stores" and the "Sauts" shop. Nearly all the English vegetables and fruit trees thrive remarkably well, and might be cultivated with profit to the grower, in fact a jam factory should prove a very paying concern.

The largest coffee estates are situated from 4 to 7 miles away from Yercaud, at Nagalore and the Green Hills, at the former of which there is a Post and Telegraph Office. Here some of the most flourishing estates are to be seen with excellent roads to them. Several exotic trees are met with, such as Eucalyptus (Blue Gum), Norfolk Pines (Araucaria Excelsa), Pinus Longifolia (Pine), Gioevilia Robusta (Silver Oak), &c., &c., which present a striking contrast to the forest trees indigenous to these Hills, to which, however, with the exception of the Casuarina, they are much inferior in beauty. Roses and ferns of different kinds grow very well.

The permanent residents are chiefly Planters, some of whom also possess houses which they rent out during the season, which lasts from April to October.

The climate is extremely healthy, especially for children, and epidemics of typhoid and small-pox are unknown. These Hills get the benefit of both the south-west and north-east monsoons, which causes the rainfall to be more evenly distributed throughout the year, and thus enhances the value of the place as a coffee and rubber growing district.

A tribe of natives, called Mallakalis (Hill-men), Vellallans by caste, the descendants of immigrants from near Conjeevaram, are to be met with living in numerous villages of from 20 to 100 conical-shaped huts. They are an agricultural race, cultivating different kinds of grain and breeding cattle and remarkable for their extreme clanishness. Labour is cheap. Independent of these Hill-men, coolies from the low lands come up to work on the estates at the following rates: men Re. 1-8, women Re. 1-2-0 and children 8 to 12 annas per week. There are very many spots within easy distance of Yercaud, commanding beautiful views of the low country and distant ranges, suitable for picnic and walking and riding parties, which have only to be seen to be appreciated. Amongst these might be mentioned Bears' Cave, Lady's Seat, Arthur's Seat, Pagoda Point, Prospect Point, the Killiur Falls, and Owen's Grotto.

TIRUPATI—(SEE CHITTOOR DISTRICT).

THE TRAVANCORE STATE.

Description.—This (the southern portion of the ancient division of Kerula) is a Native State, situated between 8° 4' and 10° 22' N. lat., and between 76° 13' and 77° 38' E. long. It is bounded on the north by the Native State of Cochin and the British District of Coimbatore; on the east by the British Districts of Madura and Tinnevely; on the south and west by the Indian Ocean. The extreme length of Travancore from north to south is 174 miles, its extreme breadth 75 miles. Area, 7,129 square miles. Population, 3,423,975. The State is in subsidiary alliance with the British Government, to which it pays a tribute of Rs. 8,00,000 a year. It is divided for administrative purposes into 32 taluks. Trivandrum is the chief town and the residence of the Maharajah. Languages spoken are Malayalam in the North and Tamil in the South.

Travancore is one of the most picturesque portions of Southern India. The mountains which separate it on the east from the British districts on the Coromandel Coast, and which at some points rise to an elevation of 8,000 feet above the sea, are clothed with magnificent primeval forest; while the belt of flat country, to an average distance of about 10 miles inland from the sea, is covered with an almost unbroken mass of cocoanut and areca palms, which, in a great measure, constitute the wealth of the country. The whole surface is undulating, and presents a series of hills and valleys, traversed from east to west by many rivers, the floods of which, arrested by the peculiar action of the Arabian Sea on the coast, spread themselves out into numerous lakes or lagoons, connected here and there by artificial canals, and forming an inland line of smooth water-communication which extends nearly the whole length of the coast, and is of the utmost value when the sea itself is closed for navigation during the monsoon. Nanjendur with its numerous villages, paddy groves, and extensive swamps of rice, resembles in some respects the neighbouring district of Tinnevely, except that, unlike Tinnevely, it is nowhere sterile. Northward, this fertile plain is succeeded by the wooded and rugged surface of the Malayalam country. The rich and variegated tract along the coast is finely contrasted with the mountainous wilds farther inland. The hill scenery has peculiar beauties, among which are the wild, rocky and precipitous acclivities and fantastic forms of the mountains in the southern parts. Farther north, the mountain chain becomes less bold, a few rugged cliffs and conical summits alone breaking the sameness of its outline. The high range breaks into clusters of hills, and the valleys are studded with temples and churches. Indeed, the numerous houses and gardens, scattered thickly over the country, give it an appearance entirely different from that of the eastern coast. Manacody, Colachel, Vizinjam, Poondoray Anjengo, Quilon, Ponnacud and Alleppey are seaport towns, of which Alleppey, Quilon and Colachel are by far the most important, the others being frequented only by small native craft. The hill region is so extensive, and so marked a feature of the State, that it merits special notice. The mountains are of every variety of elevation, climate and vegetation. Some tracts are even now considered inaccessible. Certain portions have been taken up by European and native capitalists, by whom the natural fertility of the soil is being turned to good account. Some of the loftier mountains are entirely detached, except near their bases, from the neighbouring heights; they often have a precipitous descent towards the west, and are connected on that side with a succession of low hills, which diminish in altitude as they approach the coast. From Quilon southward, these secondary ranges soften down into undulating slopes, intersected by glens and valleys, which grow wider as the elevation of the hills decreases, and are cultivated invariably with rice, proving very productive. Among the mountains a few rough elevated tablelands are found; but the alternation of hill and valley is in most cases too rapid to allow of any large extent of level surface. The above remarks refer to the country west of the Periyar river, between which and Dindigul rises a confused mass of hills. These have, however, similar characteristics; their summits, either broken into projecting cliffs, or thickly covered with trees, fall generally with precipitous abruptness, and present a variety of wild and magnificent forest scenery. These solitudes inclose some elevated plains (about one-twelfth of the whole area), which afford pasturage for cattle, and enjoy a good climate for a portion of the year. To the north, the mountains rise to an elevation of 8,000 feet, with plateau over 7,000 feet. The more important of these is part of the group known as the Anaimullays. The southernmost peak of note is the sacred Agasthyakudam (6,200 feet), the source of the Tambrapurny river. The plateau, by reason of their good climate, rich soil, abundant timber and water-supply, are likely to become better known as the demand for coffee land increases. One plateau alone (Broovinullay or Hamilton's Valley) is 6 miles long by 3 wide, and contains about 10,000 acres of excellent tea and coffee land. Similar smaller valleys are found in the group called the Kanandevan Hills. At the head of the Travancore Hills stands Anamudi (8,837 feet), the highest peak south of the Himalayas, and near it are several other peaks of 8,000 feet. South of this group is the lower region of the Cardamom Hills, so called from their special product. South of these, again, are large tracts of unsurveyed forest, which, with the exception of the Ashanbo coffee plantations, and one or two narrow strips near the main passes, continue to the Atchancoil river. Even south of this, although the hills become lower and narrower, the country is thinly inhabited almost to Cape Comorin. Numerous rivers run down from the ghats, which flow by tortuous courses, with high banks and rocky beds, into the backwater; most of these are navigable only near the sea. The chief river of Travancore is the Periyar, rising in the Ilii Ranges, which, after a course of 142 miles, enters the backwater at Kdungalore (Oranganore); 60 miles of this river are navigable. A portion of its enormous volume of water is now diverted into Madras by the Periyar water works. The Pambay, and its tributary the Atchancoil, and the Kallada are the next in importance. The Western Tambrapurny, or, as it is locally known, the Coollitoray river, rising in the mountains to the north of Mahendraghery, a sister river of the larger Tambrapurny which flows east into Tinnevely, flows westward, like all other Travancore rivers. Numerous small streams cross the narrow plain between the mountains and the sea, but no large irrigation works exist on them, the plentiful rainfall making these unnecessary, except in the extreme south. Here on the Paraly and Koda, there are auncs constructed by Pandyan kings. A succession of lagoons or backwaters, connected by navigable canals extends along the coast, from Trivandrum northwards, forming a most important means of communication. Its extreme length is nearly 200 miles, namely, from Tirur in British Malabar to Trivandrum, between the latter place and Quilon, there rises a high promontory of land about 6 miles in breadth, the highest portions of which in two places have been tunnelled through, to a length of over 3,000 feet, and the remaining portion cut open into a canal, thus making the line of water communication complete. The total area of these lakes is 227½ square miles, of which 157½ are in Travancore, 53½ in Cochin, and 16½ in British territory. The largest lake is the Vembanad (east of Alleppey), but, except during the monsoon, it is shallow. A strip of land from 7 miles to about half a mile wide separates these backwaters from the sea. There are, however, several outlets, those at Chetwyte, Kodungalore, Cochin, Kayankulam, Idava and Paravoor being the principal ones. Every kind of merchandise and a very large portion of the produce of the country is carried on these waters. There are also several good cart roads in the inland parts of the country for local traffic and the extension of the South Indian Railway to Quilon has opened up easy communication with Tinnevely and Madras. The boats for water communication are of various sizes, and in most instances are formed of a single tree, the trunk of which is hollowed out. The ordinary size is about 20 feet by 2½ feet; the boats for carrying rice to a distance are larger, and have a deck or roof. Tampakan and anjaly trees are generally selected for boat-building, being durable and sufficiently large. Alum, sulphur, bunter, plumbago and mica exist. There are plumbago mines at Neyyattinkara and Nedumangal and mica mines at Eraniel. The mountains and forests of Travancore afford some of the best sport to be got anywhere in India, especially in the shape of "large game." Elephants, whose ivory is a source of State revenue, are numerous. Tigers, leopards (including the black variety), bears, bison, sambhur, or "elk," and various kinds of deer abound.

ESTATES.

Situated in North Travancore, the British Boundary dividing them from the Palur Hills and Madura District on the East, and the Combaroor District on the North.

Elevation from 1,000 feet rising to Anaimudi, 8,897 feet, the highest mountain in Southern India.

Munnar, 4,800 feet elevation, is the Head-quarters of the Kanan Devan Hills Produce Company, at which place there is a Post Office and Telegraph Office, within easy reach of the other estates.

Kodaikanal Road is the nearest Railway station, a cart road thence to Bodymankur, the foot of the ghāt, and from there a mule path for 20 miles to Devacolam; a Ropeway and Tramway have been constructed to Munnar.

Much of the land is the property of the Kanan Devan Hills Produce Company, who have opened out the country.

Tea, coffee and cinchona all thrive excellently, as do all sorts of English vegetables, fruits and flowers. The climate (excepting during the rains in the south-west monsoon) is perfect, and during December, January and February, there are sharp frosts most nights on the plateau. The average rainfall is 100 inches, well distributed throughout the year, but the greater quantity falls during the monsoon from June to September.

CHROMIUM MINES.

A chromium mine has been opened out at Tiptur, Tumkur District, Mysore Province, about 90 miles from Bangalore. The distance of the mines from Tiptur Railway Station is 19 miles and the mine is situated near the village of Tagadur. A lot of ore has been collected and trenches sunk about the blocks, and machinery is being got up to crush the ore. The Company is sending out an Analyst, Mining Engineer, etc., and a laboratory is being built. A large well is being sunk for the supply of water for the machinery. The Company has also acquired lands up to Arsikere, 18 miles away. The mines were opened in October 1906. The ore, which has been collected since November, is of good grade, and runs in two reefs. Trenches 35 ft. deep have been sunk, and the ore still extends. No work has been started on the other block, but some ore has been collected and stacked. There is a good deal of labour available about Tiptur, but it is very hard to procure Woddura. Roads are being made from the Government road to Mysore to the Camp, which is two or three miles from the Government road. The water about Tagadur Camp is fairly good, and the place is healthy, but the other blocks near Arsikere, one called the Belgumba block and the other the Gubblilali block, are feverish and unhealthy, and the water is bad. The best chrome lies on the Bhutarballi block, about six miles from Tagadur Camp.

Other people are prospecting about Tiptur for chrome, but the Chromium Company seems to have taken up all the chrome lands. There is, however, green stone, corundum and good quartz about Tiptur.

Chromium has recently been discovered in the Chenharoyapatna Taluk of the Hassan District in the Mysore State.

Chromium is a metallic element not occurring in the free state, discovered by Vauquelin in 1797. It is remarkable for the brilliant colours, red, yellow or green of its compounds. It is a white brittle metal requiring an intense heat for its fusion. It is found in red lead and is a compound of magnetic oxide of iron.

THE ORIENTAL TOBACCO MANUFACTURING CO.,—Bowringpet. A Cigarette Factory was started in 1905 at Bowringpet in the Kolar District under the above name. It has now become a big and growing concern. Very valuable and up-to-date machinery imported from America at a cost of about Rs. 30,000 are used in the factory and nearly 50 men are employed in the various processes of tobacco and cigarette manufacture on thoroughly scientific lines. The factory is located in a commodious building, near the Travellers' Bungalow in Bowringpet.

Several brands of tobacco and cigarettes manufactured in this factory are finding large sales in many important trading centres in all the Indian Provinces. The capital of this important industry, the first of its kind in S. India, is now estimated at more than Rs. 1,00,000, and the same has earned the distinguished patronage of H. MANGANESE AND MAGNESITE MINES.

One of the most remarkable developments of the mining industry in India is the extraordinary growth of the trade in Manganese. About a dozen years ago the country was not in the least interested in this ore and, in fact, had no knowledge of the existence of deposits that could be worked on a commercial scale. In 1892 Messrs. Turner Macfadyen and Glass made important discoveries of Manganese ore in the Vizagapatam District, and recognising its commercial value proceeded to work the deposits. The Vizagapatam Mining Co., Limited, was the outcome, and a most successful venture it has proved. The first shipments were made in 1895-96, when 555,100 cwt., valued locally at Rs. 1,82,061, were exported. The ore being of high commercial quality found a ready market at home, on the Continent, and in the United States, at prices that left a very handsome margin of profit, one of the largest purchasers of Vizagapatam ore being Mr. Andrew Carnegie. There is at present a "boom" in Indian Manganese, especially as owing to the temporary closure of the Manganese industry in the Caucasus, due to internal troubles in Russia, there has been a rise in the value of the mineral. Some idea may be formed of the enormous increase in the output of the Indian mines when it is stated that, while the total production and export of the ore in 1895-96 amounted to 22,758 tons valued at 1.82 lakhs of rupees, it now stands at 458,122 tons valued at Rs. 65.29 lakhs.

The Capitalist wishing to invest his money in Manganese naturally wishes to know all about it, and it is not improbable that many people are deterred from making investments owing to their ignorance of the metal and its uses. Manganese itself is a metallic element, allied (in many of its basic properties) to chromium and iron, and (in its acid properties) to the halogen elements—chlorine, bromine and iodine. It is not found in an elementary condition, its most usual occurrence being in the form of an oxide. Manganese ores are very frequently in the form of nodules, the chief deposits being in the Caucasus, Brazil, the Hartz mountains, Sardinia, Italy, Arkansas and India. In India the best known localities are Gosalpore and Jubbulpore in the Central Provinces, Shimoga, Chittaldurg and Tankur in Mysore, the Sandur State in the Bellary District, Vizagapatam and Binnipatam on the East Coast and places on the West Coast near Mormugao. There are also deposits in the Dhavhar and Satara Districts of the Bombay Presidency. In Mysore the manganese deposits are associated with limestone or with laterite, massive or as nodules. The massive form is extremely compact and of an almost steel-grey colour and metallic lustre. The nodules are grey-black and have the structure characteristic of chemically-formed manganese ores. These deposits cover a considerable area in parts of the Shimoga and Chittaldurg Districts, and are usually in the form of patches sometimes of considerable thickness, but more generally as "surface material." When the deposit is thick the ore is massive, in other cases it is nodular. The Shimoga outcrops were discovered by Mr. H. Kelall-Shete, of the Mysore Geological Department. The discovery of manganese ores in paying quantities in the Mysore State has given a great impetus to minor mining, and whereas a little more than a year ago no capitalists could be found to take up concessions, the demand for such land at present is very far in excess of the supply.

In Vizagapatam and Binnipatam the occurrence of manganese ore is associated with limestone, the deposits at the latter place being reported to contain as much as 75 per cent. of black oxide of manganese. The output of the Mysore mines finds exit at the port of Mormugao, and until considerable improvement is made in the harbour arrangements at that port large stocks of the ore must be expected to accumulate pending shipment.

Prior to the year 1905 Russia was the chief source of the European supply, but owing to internal disturbances during that year the Caucasian supply of ore partially failed and a great demand therefore arose for Indian and Brazilian manganese, and prices rose considerably.

The greater part of the manganese ore production of the world is utilised in the manufacture of steel and iron. The steel so made is extraordinarily hard and tough, very difficult to work and on this account is extensively used for many purposes where hardness, toughness and great power to resist grinding wear are required. For mining drills and mining machinery of all kinds it is in great demand. The higher ores containing over 55 per cent. manganese are employed in the chemical industry for the preparation of oxycens, bromine and iodine; in glass-making and for coloring enamels, in dyeing, calico printing, etc. The presence of 1.25 per cent. of manganese gives strength and ductility to iron. Beyond this limit if manganese be added, the iron begins to lose its strength and ductility and at 3.5 to 5 per cent. the cast iron is brittle. Above 6.5 per cent. the toughness and ductility begin to return and on further addition of manganese the alloy is less subject to magnetising forces. At 15 per cent. the alloy is practically non-magnetic.

MADRAS CITY DIRECTORY

THE CITY OF MADRAS.

THE Englishman on board the steamer, passing along the coast of India when he comes into lat. $13^{\circ} 4' 6''$ N., long $80^{\circ} 17' 22''$ E., will find himself before the historic city of Madras. It extends for about 9 miles along the coast and for 8½ miles into the interior, and presents in the foreground a magnificent line of noble edifices on a level sandy shore made pleasing to the eye by green clumps of trees at intervals. The placid blue sea breaks in surf along the line, and the whole scene is dominated by the flag which floats in the tropical air from the flagstaff of Fort St. George. In the distant background are seen some low Hills, the buildings on which may be visible even to the naked eye on a clear day. The general pleasing aspect of the city from the sea has been the same during the three centuries nearly since the old Fort of Cogan and Day was built. "It is, without exception, the prettiest place I ever saw," wrote Mrs. Kindersley, a young and adventurous lady, who travelled alone to India to meet her husband in 1755.

The early history of Madras, and the founding of Fort St. George possess much interest. In South India, the first factory established by the English was the one at Masulipatam, the seaport of the Golconda Kingdom, but the first fortified settlement of the English was at Armagon. Francis Day, the Chief of Armagon, finding the place unsuited for trade, went southwards in search of a new settlement. He received overtures from Damarla Venkatadri, the Naik of Poonamallee, to establish an English settlement at Madras, and it is also stated that the Naik desired that the town should be named after his father, Chinapa Naik. When the Agent at Masulipatam fell in with Day's proposal to form a new settlement, Day selected a site in Madraspatam and obtained from the Naik in 1638 a grant of the site and a cove to build a fort on it. This grant was confirmed by Sri Ranga Rayulu of Chandragiri, the representative of the waning power of Vijayanagar. Francis Day and his Chief, Andrew Cogan, without even waiting for the Company's sanction, dismantled the fort at Armagon and erected a fort on the site and called it Fort St. George. Of this fort nothing now remained but the name and the site.

When Francis Day came to this place on his mission to find a site for a new settlement, he found the territory around it cut in three big pieces by the two rivers, the Cooom and the Colchrae canal, which then were called the Triplicane River and the North or Elanbore River. The Triplicane River ran through the villages of Chetput, Nungunbaukan and Triplicane. The North River flowed parallel to and about a mile distant from the coast. At the site of the present General Hospital, it turned to the East, and, when near the sea, turned southwards again for about three-quarters of a mile and met the Triplicane River at its outlet. At the first bend near the General Hospital it was connected with the Triplicane River by a canal, on the North bank of which is the present Penitentiary. There was besides a small stream whose course was along Popham's Broadway, across the present Esplanade to near the second bend of the North River. Day selected the strip of land between the sea and the North River, with the Cooom on the south and the village of Madraspatam very close to it on the north. On this strip there existed, it is believed, a village known as Chinnai-kupam. Even before Day's settlement there existed two villages called Chinnai-kupam (or Chennapatam) and Madraspatam (or Madras). Chinnai-kupam must have been a small hamlet of fishermen mostly. On the site of this hamlet Cogan and Day's Fort St. George was built, the name Chinnai-kupam (the urban form of Chinnai-kupam) being given to the native town which grew around it in deference to the wishes of the local Naik. The name Madraspatam persisted in use. As the village which went by that name continued to exist, the native population showed a preference to the name Chennapatam, while the English preferred the name Madraspatam (or Madras), for the combined towns of Chennai-kupam and Madraspatam.

Cogan and Day's Fort was nearly square with a bastion at each angle and measured on the outside 108 yards from North to South and 100 yards from East to West. The construction was begun on March 1, 1644, and completed in 1653. A promise of exemption from taxes for 30 years attracted nearly 400 weaver families from the neighbourhood and many Portuguese from San Thome—an earlier European settlement—some three miles from Fort St. George. The garrison consisted of 53 Europeans and 35 natives.

In 1653 the Agent, Aaron Baker, began to build outworks, which were brought nearly to a state of completion in 1666. This became the outer Fort, the basis of the modern Fort St. George. For a long time the inner Fort was called Fort St. George, the area within the walls of the outer Fort, where the European population owned houses and lived, being called the Christian or White Town. Just to the north of it and separated from its northern wall by a wide street, called the Bazaar or Market, lay the Black Town where the Indian population lived. Like the Christian Town it was quadrangular and was bounded on the north by the present eastern portion of the China Bazaar, on the south by the inner north wall of the modern Fort St. George, on the east by the sea and on the west by a line parallel to the shore extending from the south end of Popham's Broadway to a point near the gully post on the north-west glads where it struck the course of the North River. The perimeter of this old Black Town was 3,400 yards. There were seven main streets running north to south and two main streets running east to west. The Hindus had a temple and the Moors a mosque. To the west of the town flowed the stream from Popham's Broadway, which has now degenerated into a drainage channel. On the other side of the channel were some fields and gardens and beyond them lay Peddaraikenpetta. The channel was crossed by a small bridge. To the north of the old Black Town was Muthialpet. Being the "out town" of the Company's Fort the Black Town was inhabited by the Company's Indian servants, whose protection as well as the better defence of the Fort required the erection of a rampart round the Black Town. An earthen rampart was begun by Agent Ivis about 1611. Governor Yale, against the wishes of his Council, erected a turf bulwark, which fell down during the rains and the cost of which he had to pay. Permanent fortifications, in brick and chumam, were however begun in 1700 and finished in 1707. The total length of this wall was 1,500 yards, and it was 17 ft. thick. During the French occupation of Madras (1746-49), the southern half of this town and all its walls were demolished for the better defence of the fort. In 1757 the Hindu temple was transferred from the old Black Town to its present site near the Flower Bazaar. The remaining half of the old town was demolished in 1758 on the recommendation of Engineer Call. Thus the old Black Town with its 'Chitti' population, 'Moors' and Company's merchants disappeared into the crowded streets of Peddaraikenpetta and Muthialpet and gave its name to this united town.

The erection of a masonry wall around the new Black Town formed always a part of any scheme for the complete defence of the City of Madras. Benjamin Robins was sent here in 1751 with a special commission to examine this work, but it was not till 1764, when Engineer Call pointed out its urgency, that it was begun; and it was finished in 1770. Till about the middle of the last century it was deemed of sufficient consequence for Government to maintain it. In the name of the street lying within the line of the west wall, which bears the name "Wall Tax Road," we have a memorial of this piece of fortification. Under the Preservation of Ancient Monuments Act, the Government have also put up a memorial tablet on the remains of this wall near Royapet.

The military character of the Company's Government became well established in the first half of the eighteenth century. Cogan and Day's Fort (the old Fort St. George, the 'Fort within Fort' as it was called by the country powers, falling into decay, was demolished, and on the site a square, called the Fort Square, was built in the years 1711-17, which was demolished only in 1825. The improvement of the defences and fortifications of Madras was taken in hand by Engineer John Brohier in 1756 and completed by Chief Engineer Patrick Ross in 1753—quite a generation. Fort St. George is connected with a long roll of distinguished Engineers—Benjamin Robins, John Brohier, Caroline Frederick Scott, John Call, Patrick Ross, George Maule, etc. By the close of the eighteenth century Fort St. George had passed through four phases of development. The first was Cogan and Day's Castle; the second the quadrangular bastioned enclosure of the White Town which converted the original castle into a citadel; the third the development of the walled town into a fortress planned as a half-decagon; and the fourth the entire reconstruction of the fort as a half-octagon of Vauban's system with ample outwork.

The buildings of historical interest in the present Fort St. George are St. Mary's Church, the Secretariat Office and the Council Room, the Office of the Accountant-General and the Government Treasury, and the Officers' Mess. The oldest structure in the Fort is St. Mary's Church. The foundation of the Church (the English Church as it was then called) was laid on Easter Monday, the 1st of April 1678. The consecration took place in October 1680. The credit of establishing a Church in the Fort for the Company's officers and the oldest Protestant place of worship in India is due entirely to Sir Streynsham Master who raised subscriptions for it. Clive's marriage took place here. Its steeple was built in the last decade of the 17th century. During the siege of Madras (1758-59) it was damaged, and re-built in 1795. Among the articles of interest there are the old registers, an alms-dish presented by Elihu Yale, and Streynsham Master's Bible printed in 1660, which was presented by Mr. C. G. Master of the Civil Service. The sanctuary contains a large altar piece, a copy of Raphael's Painting of the Last Supper. It contains the graves of Governor Nicholas Morse, a great-great-grandson of Oliver Cromwell; of Lord Pigot who defended the Fort against Lally in 1759, and was afterwards arrested and imprisoned by his own Council; of the famous Missionary-diplomat Swartz; of Sir Thomas Munro, the people's Collector of the Ceded Districts and afterwards Governor of Madras, and of many other makers of Madras history. Lord Pigot's was the first intramural burial in this Church.

The new Council Room was built quite recently. The Secretariat buildings contain the old Council Room. The middle portion of the Secretariat building has an interesting history. In the Fort of Cogan and Day there was in the centre a turretted structure known as the Fort House. It was built in 1613 and used as the Agent's residence and consultation or council room. Being very defective and unfit for use it was demolished and a new one built in 1694-95. Its sides were parallel to the curtain of the inner Fort but somewhat nearer to the eastern face of it. Lockpear, who was in Madras in 1702, says: "The Consultation Room was curiously adorned with firearms in several figures imitating those in the armoury of the Tower of London,"—a strange but significant contrast to the present Council Room. It was a three-storied building. The Consultation Room and the Governor's quarters were on the second floor, the Fort Hall which accommodated the 'General Table' was on the first floor and the ground floor was used for offices. This Fort House, it is believed, exists still as the middle portion of the Secretariat building, the wings of which were added only in 1825. The present Accountant-General's Office was the Admiralty House of old days. It served as the Town Residence of the Governor. The Court of Admiralty was held in it. State functions were held there. Clive occupied this house at the time of his marriage. It was for some time appropriated as the Guests' House of the Governor. The history of the Officers' Mess is as follows.—The Sea Gate and the Colonnade of the old Banqueting Hall in the Fort were for long the general resort of merchants trafficking in sea-borne goods. It was an inconvenient place. Therefore Peter Massey Cassin, a free merchant of Madras, came forward in 1787 with a scheme for providing the town with a special building to serve as an exchange. The land occupied by Mr. Hughes' house which lay at the south end of the easternmost line of buildings north of the Sea Gate was acquired and the old house was replaced by a new structure. It had warehouses and offices on the ground floor, and on the first floor the exchange or 'place of public and free, open, and uncontrolled resort for all merchants, dealers, commanders of ships or others having any concern in trade, together with a Brokers' Office, a committee room for the Managers of the Exchange Company and a Public Coffee room. The funds for its construction were raised by lotteries. Mrs. Fay, who visited Madras in 1796, described it as "a noble building, ornamented with whole length pictures of Lord Cornwallis, Sir Eyre Coote and General Meadows." The Exchange Hall was also used for public meetings, lottery drawings and occasionally for entertainments. Public Auction Rooms were located in it. There was also a Public Subscription Library on the ground floor. The old Madras Bank was located on the ground floor in 1807. The Exchange Tavern occupied for some time a portion of the building. In 1811 St. Andrew's Day was celebrated in the Exchange. The valuable crown jewels of Tippu Sultan were sold by public auction at the Exchange in 1802. On the roof of the Exchange a light-house was erected by the Exchange Committee in 1796. It was a framed iron structure, carrying a lantern reflector and twelve lamps burning coconut oil. The light was 90 feet above the sea level at high water; it could be seen from the decks of ships about 17 miles, and from their mastsheads nearly 26 miles. This building is now the Officers' Mess of the regiment quartered in Fort St. George.

The Fort has four gates usually open to the public. The Sea Gate is on the east and leads to the Beach Road. The North Gate is on the north and leads to the China Bazaar Road and High Court. The Walajah Gate is on the west; from where the Mount Road begins. The main gate opens on the north west and leads to the General Hospital, Peddanaickpettah and Poonamallee Road. The main gate only is open during the War.

The Mount Road, the Poonamallee Road and the Beach Road are the three main highways in Madras. The first two are Military roads. They divide the City into three big areas. When the Fort was the centre of all official activity, the servants of the Company had garden-houses in Peddanaickpettah, especially towards the southern side which was reached by crossing the rivulet in the present Esplanade. The Island was ordinarily their recreation ground, crossing the North River in boats. In 1714 a bridge, which does not now exist, was constructed from the north bank of the River, where the Governor's Garden House was connected to the Island. Governor Pitt had laid out north to south a 'great walk on the Island.' The statue of Sir Thomas Munro is more or less in the centre of that 'great walk.' The road to Triplicane then was from that bridge over the Island and the Government House Bridge which was then called Triplicane Bridge. In those days the fashionable residential quarters were in Peddanaickpettah. When the military activities of the Madras Government increased, the peace and comforts of country residence could not be had so near the military fortifications. A move to the Choultry plain in the west was open to the European residents. The famous Madras Garden houses began to appear on the Choultry plain (an open expanse which stretched south-west of the Fort from the Triplicane or Government House Bridge as far as Mylapore and the Long Tank). The need for a shorter route to the plain and in consequence for a new bridge over the North River was felt; and in 1756 the Wallaja Bridge was constructed. The Mount Road from that time ran from the Fort. It was reformed in 1795-96. It passes over the Wallaja Bridge to the Island, which still maintains its old reputation as a recreation ground. The Gymkhana grounds and Pavilion are there on the east side of the road and on the other side are the Body Guard lines, St. Andrew's Cemetery, St. Mary's Cemetery, and an open plain used for football by students and the soldiers of the garrison. In the centre is the statue of Sir Thomas Munro. The Island is also the Brigade Parade ground. The road then takes you over the Government House Bridge to the old Choultry plain, but now a most busy centre of trade. The statue of King Edward meets your eye first as soon as you step off the bridge. On your left is Government House. The nucleus of this mansion was a house purchased from Mrs. Madeiros in 1758 for the country residence of Governor Saunders. The Banqueting Hall of Government House was built by the second Lord Clive, John Goldingham being the architect. On your right is Napier Park laid out in 1871. Behind it is Chintadripet. This village was founded in 1724 by George Morton Pitt in order to develop the supply of calicos and to encourage manufacture in Madras as being the best fitted in point of having shade trees for the artificers to work under. Before you reach the mile-end on the Mount Road there are the spacious sale-rooms of Messrs. Oakes and Company, the Clock Tower and show-rooms of Messrs. P. Orr & Sons, Jewellers and London Merchants. At the mile-end is the Mahaling of Vijayanagaram's fountain. The place is known to gharryalas and coachmen as Round Tannah. Misquill's Music Rooms are there, Walajah Road from Chepauk and Triplicane, Ellis Road from Pudu-pakkum and Tiruvateswarampet, Harris' Road from Komaleswarampet, Pudukpet, and Egmore, meet at the mile-end. Triplicane was granted to the English about the year 1658. It is a purely Hindu suburb with an ancient Vishnu Temple which, in September 1672, was occupied by the Moslems and in March 1673 by the French, and in September the same year by the Dutch. It largely escaped demolition that year. Chepauk is a very congested portion of the City inhabited mostly, by Muhammadans who were all dependent on the Chepauk Palace. It contains a big mosque built all in granite, an imposing structure in the midst of equal dwellings of the Muhammadan people. Tiruvateswarampet is to the north-west of Triplicane. It contains a temple of Siva. It was in the early part of the 18th century considered to be outside the Company's bounds. Pudu-pakkum was granted to the English by Nawab Muhammed Sayid in 1742. Amr Mahal, the residence of the Prince of Arcot is there. Komaleswarampet is a neat little suburb where a few respectable Hindu houses in modern style have been built. The bridge over the Cooum at that place, called Harris' Bridge, is only a recent construction. Pudukpet, further to the south-west on the Harris Road, contains Indian Christians, Muhammadans and a large Pariah population. The Government Ophthalmic Hospital founded in 1819 at Royapettah is located on the outskirts of this suburb. It has established a reputation as one of the best hospitals in the world. The Madras Reserve Police is quartered here. Egmore, which is a little further off, is considered the healthiest place in Madras; at any rate, it is not so congested as other parts of Madras. It was granted to Governor Higginson by Vizier Asud Khan in 1693. The South Indian Railway Station in Egmore has a splendid frontage to the south with two fine porticos. It has been built in the popular Hindu Saracenic style. The Arni House of the Jagirdar of Arni is a fine specimen of domestic architecture by Indian nobles. The Presidency Training School for Mistresses is situated in this suburb. The Victoria Technical Institute, the Government Central Museum, the Connemara Public Library and the Government Maternity Hospital are in the Pantheon Road, which separates Egmore from Pudukpet. The Museum was founded in 1821 with a collection of geological specimens presented by the Madras Literary Society which was then a scientific body and the duplicates of the articles sent to the Great Exhibition of 1851 in Hyde Park. Its habitation then went by the name of "The Pantheon." Around it has grown the pile of buildings which the visitor to the Museum sees.

The Pantheon was built about the year 1778 by Hall Plumer, a Civil Servant and contractor. It came to be used a few years later as 'Public Rooms' or 'Assembly Rooms.' It was purchased in 1793 by a committee formed to regulate the amusements of the settlement. The Committee was designated "The Madras Assembly." The Dramatic entertainments, balls and dinner parties which took place there were controlled by a master of ceremonies who in 1802 was Mark Twoneth. Lord Clive gave a ball and supper at the Pantheon on Monday, February 28th, the birthday anniversary of George the Third. An Armenian merchant (Mocatt) purchased the building in 1821, from whom the Government took it in 1824. It was allotted as the Collector's Cutcherry, and it is still known to the common people more as the 'Collector's Cutcherry' than as the Museum.

The Museum contains an archaeological section of much value. Sculptured marbles from the railings of the Buddhist stupas at Amaravati, a fragment of Buddha's bones, a collection of arms and armour from the Fort St. George Arsenal and the Tanjore Palace, and a valuable collection of coins which some years ago suffered a loss by theft. The Connemara Public Library was opened in 1896 and attached to the Museum. The marble statue of Lord Cornwallis which stood in the Fort since 1800 and had suffered damage owing to exposure to sea air and other causes, was early in this century renovated by the well-known Indian Artist Mhatre and transferred to the interior of the Connemara Library. The semi-circular building in the front is a theatre, to seat about 400 persons, provided with a stage adapted for lectures, conferences and charitable entertainments by amateurs. The Madras Dramatic Society generally gives its performances in this theatre—a memory of the old Madras Assembly. The Victoria Technical Institute owes its origin to the public demonstrations of loyalty and love to the Queen-Mother Victoria. South Indian industrial products may be seen exhibited there. It is under the control of a committee of Europeans and Indians. The Government Maternity Hospital was founded in 1844 by public subscription and managed by a committee with State aid. In 1847 the Government assumed charge of it and in 1861 transferred it to its present building. In connection with the acquisitions of Chepauk, Pudu-pakkum and other villages there is a very amusing letter (12-12-1673) from Sir William Langhorne to Pralimma Venkataswami, the Company's Agent at Golconda as regards French claims to several villages round Madras: "Triplicane, you know, has always been in our hands; Yeagar our main Nagas Cawn's [Cessa Veronie] hands, and Nimyutacka, Chepauka, Podupacka and Concur, and several other towns also which are very convenient for us to take our recreation in, who have no other designs in this country, but to live peaceably and undisturbed in our business."

The imaginary visitor left Mount Road at the mile end. Now as he resumes his walk, he finds on his left the stately edifices of Messrs. Lawler and Fons, Jewellers and Diamond Merchants, and Messrs. Witeaway, Laidlaw, the spacious sale-rooms of Wrenn Bennett, on his right the neat clock tower of Bhungara, Japanese and Indian Curio shop; and the hospitable mansion of D'Angelis' Restaurant; On his way he may attend the service at Christ Church and take his carminative dose at W. E. Smith's Kardyl buildings. Then if he takes the road on his left, Patter's Road, he will in five minutes be at the Madras Club. It is eighty years old, and is now a palace occupied by high European officers. Pycroft's Road crosses Patter's Road next to the Club. If he goes straight, there is the red-plastered Wesley College, Royapettah. The Woodlands, Temple Gardens, and Gopal Bugh come next. The road passes through Royapettah by the newly-built Royapettah Hospital which is maintained by the Corporation of Madras. At the Royapettah Police Station there is a turning on the left which takes the visitor along the side of a few paddy-fields, vestiges of old Madras, to the Luz Church Road crossing. Quitting this road which from here takes the name Brodie's Road, if he goes to the right along the Luz Church Road he sees the palatial residences of Indians. This is the fashionable residential suburb of Indian Vakils, Judges and others. The Luz Church is about the middle of this road. The inscribed stone bears the date 1516; but the inscription does not seem to be authentic. Evidence points to a much later date of its erection between 1547 and 1582. The origin of the name Luz is interesting. Some storm-tossed mariners vowed a church to the Virgin if they were delivered from the fury of the elements. Forthwith, a guiding light flashed out. They steered towards it and came to shore. Pursuing their way for a mile into the interior, they at length reached the spot whence the brilliance shone, only to find the light extinguished. On that spot was erected the Church of Our Lady of Light. There is a garden-house or bungalow named Luz House. Close to it in the Luz (suburb) but included in Teynampet is the 'Grove,' which was the residence of the Governor Alexander Davidson. It was one of the houses proposed for the Observatory at the time of its establishment. Sudder Gardens, Sullivan's Gardens and the newly-built mansion of the late Justice Sundara Iyer deserve notice. From the Luz Church begins the suburb of Mylapore proper. Brodie's Road goes along the west side of the Mylapore Temple Tank. Mylapore is a town of much antiquity and has been mentioned by Ptolemy. The name means 'Peacock City' from the peacock standard which the old Tamil Kings of the places carried. The deity worshipped is Siva as Kapalesswara. The big tank and gardens all around the place moderate the heat in the hot months. The agharam or the Brahmin quarter of this place has no houses of any architectural value. A number of fine houses there are on the old traditional plan with open quadrangles in the interior. Mylapore still presents the aspect of a village. In 1672 the temple was occupied by the French during the siege of San Thome.

Leaving Mylapore let him now resume his walk southwards along Brodie's Road. He will get to the suburb of Adyar. The native portion of this suburb is of no consequence. Its importance comes from its being a large fashionable European residential suburb. Some of the oldest garden houses built by the Company's servants are here. The Beachborough, Brodie Castle, Brunton Villa, Mowbray's Gardens (the premises of the Adyar Club), Pugh's Gardens, Searle's Gardens, Gambier's Gardens. Outside the Municipal toll-gates is Elphinstone Bridge over the Adyar, which leads to the spacious compound of the Theosophical Society, a small colony in itself laid out in a delightfully oriental style, Fowler's Gardens and Elliot's Beach, so called after E. F. Elliot, son of the Right Hon. Hugh Elliot, Governor of Madras.

Returning to the Kardyl buildings on the Mount Road, opposite to which is the Lawrence Asylum Press (now Branch Government Press) built in Indo-Saracenic style, the visitor may now ramble along the Mount Road until he arrives at the statue of General Neill, of Mutiny fame. The road on his right takes him to Spencer's Hotel, Connemara Hotel, the Victoria Hotel on the other side of the river Cooum (this was the residence of the Commander-in-Chief of Madras for some time) and a few bungalows occupied by Europeans. This road is along the riverside and meets the Pantheon Road at Anderson's Bridge. Then on the Mount Road come the magnificent show-rooms and premises of Messrs. Spencer and Co., the Elphinstone Hotel, the Thousand Lights of the Nawab of Arcot, Mackay's Gardens (the first garden house built on the Choultry plain) and St. George's Cathedral. The Cathedral was built by Lt.-Col T. F. De Havilland in 1815, Ionic in style, the columns being handsomely finished with the polished plaster-work that resembles marble. The Mount Road here passes through Teynampet.

A turning to the left takes you into Cathedral Road which at the Theological College (Sullivan's Gardens) becomes Mowbray's Road. It is one of the most beautiful highways of Madras, being avenues for the greater part of its length. It separates Teynampet from Mylapore and the Luz. The Adyar Club Mowbray's Gardens marks its termination. If at the Cathedral he had turned off into Nungambankam High Road on the right within a furlong he would pass the Trunk Road from Pangalore. There are a number of European residences on either side. A small path on the left through rice fields gets him into the village of Nungambankam, a suburb of Madras to the south-west of Egmore. It is mis-called suburb as it still is a rural hamlet showing no sign of urban influence beyond the Municipal lamp posts and dustbins. The village was granted to the English in 1708 and had a field redoubt of which there is no trace now. The turning to the east at the end of this road, along the College Road, the Observatory and the Old College takes you to Anderson's Bridge. The Observatory was constructed in 1792 under the supervision of Michael Topping. The private observatory of William Petrie afforded the nucleus of the Observatory equipments. Michael Topping was the first Astronomer and was succeeded by John Goldingham, F.R.S., who was a mathematician, engineer, architect, editor, and astronomer combined. He had worked before this as assistant to William Petrie in his private observatory. Petrie was one of the ablest civil servants of the Company. His range of knowledge was wide and extensive—Astronomy, Chemistry, Mathematics, Banking, Finance, Engineering. To a knowledge of these he combined a keen insight into a administrative and literary ability. This Observatory was the first established by Europeans in the East. The establishment of the Solar Physics Observatory at Kodaikanal has reduced the work of this institution to meridian observations for determining the time and the maintenance of the time service, which is effected by the daily transmission to the Central Telegraph Office at Madras, and thence automatically throughout India, of a signal marking the moment at which standard time is 4 p.m. Observations are also made for the issue of storm warnings. The College for Junior Civil Servants was located in the Old College buildings. The spacious hall in it was long used for dramatic and other entertainments. It is now the office of the Director of Public Instruction. The Madras Literary Society and Auxiliary of the Royal Asiatic Society occupies a portion of the building for its big library containing about 45,000 volumes.

The other important buildings in this suburb are the Mansion, Doveton House, Mackay's Garden, Pycroft's Garden and Tulloch's Garden. The last two are portions of Dr. Anderson's famous Botanic Garden which covered an area of about 111 acres. His name still survives in Anderson's Bridge and Road.

At the junction of Mount Road and Cathedral Road are the Agr-Horticultural Gardens of Madras. An Annual Flower Show in February is held there. Newington House is the training college for the minor Zamindars under the control of the Court of Wards. At the fourth mile-end was the cenotaph of Lord Cornwallis which has been transferred opposite to the Post Office, North Beach. The memorial was surrounded by an arched oval drive and was the duly objective of Madras Society until the South Beach Road was laid out. Sir Samuel Auchmuty was received at the cenotaph by the officers of the general staff when he returned from the conquest of Jiva.

Quitting the Municipal limits, along the same road, the Training College for Teachers, which is situated at Saidapet, is only a few minutes' drive. Adjoining it is a red-bricked building which was once the Madras Agricultural College and Government Experimental Farm. These have now been transferred to Coimbatore and established on a wider basis. The Marmaloug Bridge, which spans the Adyar, next to the Agricultural College buildings, was rebuilt by a rich Armenian merchant, Petrus Usean, at his own expense, in 1726. He has left a fund for its maintenance also. The Governor's country-residence at Gundy was built in the time of the second Lord Clive, and is only about a mile from the bridge on the other side of the Adyar. The King Institute of Preventive Medicine is the only other building deserving notice here. The Gundy Races have been in existence for more than a century now.

Without any more stoppages St. Thomas' Mount, the terminus ad quem of this long road, may now be reached.

The erection of Cornwallis' Cenotaph so far away from the Fort and the sea-shore needs an explanation. When the Military exigencies of the Government required the clearing of a large area around the Fort, the Indian residents of the cleared ground moved into the streets of the adjoining pettahs, but the European population migrated to the Choultry plain which was easily accessible from the Fort and was on the way to St. Thomas' Mount, the health resort of the settlement from its earliest days. The roads from Bangalore and Chingleput met very near there. These advantages made the Choultry plain a favourite place for the building of country residences. A feature of social life in the East, particularly of Europeans, has been the spending of holidays in country residences away from the busy haunts of people. The climate of Madras required it. The Choultry plain became the favourite place in the first half of the 18th century. In the beginning garden houses were built in the neighbourhood of Cheepak and Triplicane. It was one of these houses that was purchased for the Governor's country residence in 1763 and which is now the Government House at Madras. In 1753 George Mackay set the example of building on the Choultry plain. About the year 1774 applications for grants of building sites were numerous. James Munro estimated in 1780 that there were 500 to 600 garden-houses on the Choultry plain. It is believed that Philip St. Ivey, who was then Civil Architect, had much to do with the beautifying of Madras by designing handsome mansions. By the beginning of the 19th century the Choultry plain, which was traversed through its entire length by a beautiful highway, became one of the most fashionable residential areas about Madras. The Cenotaph was therefore erected on the plain.

Some idea of the famous Madras garden houses may be formed from the following extracts:—

"For Sale. House on the East side of the Road leading to St. Thomas Mount, situated between the New Church and the Cenotaph and little more than 3 miles from the Wallajah Gate of the Fort; first floor 3 feet high and second floor 20 feet; (extent) 9 to 10 cawnies. The greatest part of the ground on which the house is built is a spot on which a village was raised 'sic' between 20 and 30 years ago and it was then planted with trees (Mango and Coconut). The house fronts and is open to the East and West and open to the South. Bamboo hedge around the compound."

"For Sale. House occupied by George Garrow, built by Dr. Anderson, two wells and an extensive tank—choicest fruit trees—Enclosed with a brick wall—between 15 and 29 cawnies—worth Rs. 20,000, furnished."

About the style of the buildings, Mrs. Kimbelsley says: "The houses are neat and pretty, many of them large; in all the good houses the apartments are upstairs and all on one floor; the rooms are large and lofty. Most of the houses are built with a verandah, which is a terrace on a level with the rooms in the ground, and sometimes in the back part of the house supported by pillars below and roof above supported likewise by pillars, with rails round to lean on. The verandahs give a handsome appearance to the houses on the outside, and are of great use, keeping out the sun by day, and in the evenings are cool and pleasant to sit in. But what gives the greatest to the houses is a material peculiar to the place; it is a cement or plaster called chunnam made of the shells of a very large species of oysters found on this coast. These shells, when burnt, pounded and mixed with water, form the strongest cement imaginable; if it is to be used as a plaster, they mix it with whites of eggs, milk and some other ingredients; when dry, it is as hard, and very near as beautiful as marble. The rooms, staircases, etc., are covered with it; the heat of the climate admits of an open, airy style of building which is pleasing to the eye: a roof supported with pillars is more elegant than a wall with windows and doors, besides the rooms being unnumbered with chimneys makes it more easy to lay them out in uniformity." "The houses of the English gentlemen are lofty and well proportioned and from their construction are so extremely cool that I can scarcely believe myself in the Torrid Zone," so wrote Mr. Philip Dormer Stanhope who was in Madras in 1774.

From the Main Gate of Fort St. George, the Poonamallee Road takes you to the Medical College on the left, on the right is the Memorial Hall, erected in commemoration of the escape of Madras from the horrors of the Indian Mutiny. The Bible Society and the Christian Vernacular Literature Society have their premises there. The Mint Street has its southern end here. The squidly quarter, John Pereira's, which was once a fashionable suburb, has been cleared, and Railway offices are being built on the spot. Next to the Medical College is the General Hospital constructed in 1772 by John Sullivan. The inscription on the front wall that it was built in 1753 evidently refers to the removal of the hospital from the Fort. Facing the General Hospital and turning south to north is the Wall Tax Road. Adam's Park, laid out in memory of the short-lived Governor, Patrick Adam, lies in the eastern corner formed by this road. Opposite to the General Hospital is the Central Station of the Madras and Southern Mahratta Railway. This splendid building was designed by R. F. Chisholm, Consulting Architect to the Government. Here the road passes over the bridge which crosses Cochrane's Canal (formerly the North River). To the north of the road and along the western bank of this canal is the People's Park, which Madras owes to Governor Sir Charles Trevelyan.

It contains ornamental grounds with a good zoological collection. The Park is bounded on the west by Sydenham's Road and on the north by the Salt Cotura Goods Station of the M. & S.M.R. The South Indian Athletic Association has its ground and pavilion in the Park. The Moore Market, the new Evening Bazaar, the Victoria Town Hall, and Ripon Buildings occupy the southern portion of the Park and face the road. It is a great relief to turn from the red-brick buildings, so much in fashion now, to the Ripon Buildings (the new Corporation office) finished in white plaster producing a marble effect. This new office of the Madras Corporation was opened by Lord Hardinge on Nov. 26, 1913. The southern side of the road is occupied by Sir Savalal Ramaswami Mudali's choultry and the Park Station of the S. I. Railway. The Madras Penitentiary is situated to the south of these and extends as far as the cut connecting the Cooum and Cochrane's Canal. The Penitentiary faces east and opens on a small road connecting the Poonamallee Road and the Island. Going westwards along the Poonamallee Road, you get to Periamettin, where, in former days, the Moors collected land custom. The principal inhabitants are Mulahmudans dealing in skins and hides. The Naval Hospital Road where the Madras Land Custom House formerly stood is north and south. The Gun Carriage Factory opens into this road. At the end of this road is the Government Veterinary Hospital. The Doveton Protestant College is very near. This portion of the City is Vepery—a residential suburb of Europeans and Anglo-Indians. It was granted to the English in 1643 by Nawab Mahammad Shid. Vepery was the scene of an engagement between the French and the English in February 1759. The S. P. C. K. has established a printing press here. This Society began its educational work about the year 1717. Petrus Ugean of Marmalong Bridge fame had built a chapel at his own cost in Vepery, which the Company handed over to the Danish Mission to put down the influence of Catholics in Madras. On the site of this chapel St. Matthias' Church has been built. The S. P. G. maintains a school in Vepery.

The Madras School of Arts, established about the middle of the last century, is on the south side of Poonamallee Road; to the west of it is the Scotch Kirk. It was built by the famous Engineer DeHavilland in 1821. The Church is of much architectural importance. Opposite to the Kirk and on the northern side of the road are the headquarters of the Madras Volunteer Guards. Rundell's Road is on the west of this building. The Young Women's Christian Association is in Poomalmallee Road. The Madras Electric Tramway Company has its power station and shed on the Poomalmallee Road. For the greater part of the last century Poomalmallee Road was one of the favourite residential quarters of Europeans in Madras. The more fashionable Indians are now moving to this road.

Passing the Church Mission Society's office you come to the crossing of the road from Harris Bridge, which leads to Pursewalkum. This suburb was granted to Governor Higginson in 1693. It had a field redoubt of which there is no trace now.

A little further off on the Poomalmallee Road is "Ramanandiram" the residence of Rajah Sir Ramanaswami Mudahar's family. Landon's Garden and Dara's Garden are on this road; which here passes through Kilpauk, another European residential suburb. Then the road goes out of the Municipal limits on to the military station of Poomalmallee.

Lying between the Beach on the east and Cochrane's Canal on the west and bounding the military limits of the Fort on the north and west is the most densely populated and busy suburb of Madras called Georgetown. This name was given to it in 1906 to commemorate the visit to Madras of H. M. George V as Prince of Wales. Before that it was called Black Town, a name given to the Indian quarter of Fort St. George in the early days of the settlement. Then it was the appellation of the out-town which was practically the creation of the Company's Government here. When this out-town was pulled down in the middle of the 18th century, the name Black Town survived. It was applied to Peddankuppattah alone at first, Muthalpettuh being then called Mahratta town. (So called from the fact that when in 1719 the Mahrattas threatened to attack Madras a field of fire 600 ft. wide on the north and west side of old Black Town was cleared. The ground so cleared was called Mahratta ground. Two pettahs were separated by gardens and fields and the rivulet which had its course along the Broadway; when this physical separation disappeared owing to the reclamation of these lands and the formation of new streets, the two pettahs became one, and the united town came to be called Black Town. Popham's Broadway, Davidson's Street, Stinger's Street, Umpherson's Street mark the spot which Stephen Popham reclaimed. The China Bazaar Road begins at Parry's corner and goes westward crossing the Mint Street to the Wall Tax Road. When the China Bazaar came into existence is not known but it existed so early as 1782. The foundation of Popham's Broadway and the opening of shops, of better class brought it into closer connection with them giving it a more respectable character. Peddankuppattah means the town or suburb of Peddammack. The head of the police in old Madras was called Peddammack. The office was hereditary, the holder of which was sometimes called the Poligar of Madras. In the early years of this settlement, this pettah was the fashionable suburb. The Governor's Garden house was at the southern end of it, on the site of which the present General Hospital has been erected. The Company's washing ground was situated in the north of this town. It was also called Comerpettuh from the colony of potters in the west of it near the canal. In 1774 there were 139 streets and 5,422 houses. The main street is Mint Street, which runs through the whole length of the town. The Southern portion of the street is occupied by Chettis, Linga Chetti's cetermen. Marwaris and Gusatis live in the middle portion of it, which is hence known as Sowcarpet. The northern portion is occupied by various other castes. At the end of the street is the Government Printing Press in the building once occupied by the Madras Mint. The "Seven Wells," which supplied water to the Garrison and the Europeans in the Fort, is there. Govindappa Natch Street belongs to Komty Chettis. The wealth of Madras may be said to be in these two streets. The Godown Street and Bundar Street are occupied by piece-goods merchants—mostly Muhammadans—and petty cloth merchants. Pachaiyappa's College faces the Esplanade; a handsome structure on Grecian model. It is a first grade College training students for the Arts degrees of the Madras University. The institution is the outcome of the charity of one Pachaiyappa, a merchant and "dubash" of the Company's days. The Hall was built in about 1810. Stinger's street, Davidson street and parallel streets are occupied by various merchants and Suits dealing in all sorts of goods. Popham's Broadway is an important busy street. The street was laid out by Stephen Popham about the year 1782. It runs south to north from the Esplanade to the Black Town wall. Before Popham reclaimed this area it was a marshy ground with slopes on either side, the monsoon and drainage water forming a channel along the whole course of the Broadway. After Popham reclaimed this ground, raising up its level with mud from the Hog hill, houses were built and streets formed. There were big houses on either side of the Broadway but the channel was in existence until 1782 when Popham covered it in. Before 1782 the Broadway must have looked like a Venetian street only with this difference that the water in the Broadway channel would have been black sewage water! The Loans Square which acts as a lung to this crowded part of the town is to the west of the road. Kotwalebhavadi, the biggest market in Madras, is a few yards from here. Stephen Popham was a solicitor. Mrs. Fay describes him as "one of the most eccentric of beings." He is a perpetual projector, a rice whose exertions have frequently benefited society, but seldom, I believe, been productive of much advantage to themselves or their families. . . . He is at present laying plans for building what is called "The Black Town" to a great extent and confidently expects to realise an immense fortune." At the southern end of the Broadway on the eastern side was Signor Niccolao Manucci's garden.

He was a Venetian physician who practised in Madras about 1686 after having seen service under the Moghul Emperors. His Storia del Mogor contains a record of his experiences in India. The Y.M.C.A. building fronts the Esplanade. It is a superb structure built entirely of the beautiful brown stone from Nellore, closely grained yet easily worked. The Armenian Street contains the Roman Catholic Cathedral which was erected by the Capuchins in 1775, and the Armenian Church. Many commercial firms have their offices in this street. The two Onetti Streets, which are now being usurped by hardware merchants, lawyers and students, go up to the old north wall of Black Town. The enterprising Nattukkottai Onettis have their quarters in Coral Merchant Street midway between the two streets towards the north end. This is surmised to be the site of an old pettah, Paradalapettah or Coral Town. The Company of old days traded in corals. The Christian College with its hostels, Principals College House, Halls and Association Rooms occupy all the southern portion of these streets. Between Armenian Street and Thambu Chetti Street rise the grand building of the Late Agra Bank (now owned by the Chartered Bank of India, China and Australia). Facing the College on the Esplanade is the statue of Dr. William Miller, C.B., the popular Missionary Educationist of Southern India.

On the Esplanade Maidan rise the grand pile of buildings of the High Court with the Madras Lighthouse erected on the central cupola; the old Lighthouse built of granite, a high column, chaste in design and execution erected in 1844; the newly-built Law College. North of these streets is situated the suburb of Royapuram. A large community of Roman Catholic boatmen have long been living here. The shipping trade of the port of Madras has had to suffer not a little in the past by the opposition of this community. These Christians have built a Church out of their funds. The Madras Railway had its terminus in Royapuram some years ago. During the siege of Madras by the French in 1758-59 the enemy had erected works in Muthialpettah, one at Parry's corner and the other south of it; and the place was practically occupied by them. In 1774 there were in Muthialpettah 61 streets and 3,204 houses according to Popham's computation.

The Madras Beach is divided by the Fort Saint George fortifications and military zone into two big divisions. The North Beach is the busiest portion of the city. The Madras Harbour and its works and the premises of Old Companies cover even the sands. Clive's Battery was previously to the north of the Harbour. Facing the sea on the road are the General Post Office, the Bank of Madras, the Bank Buildings of the Indian Bank, the Sea Customs Office, the National Bank, Bidon's Home for sailors and a number of commercial firms. South of this range of big buildings come the High Court, and the Lighthouse and the old Lighthouse column, then the Fort with the steeple of St. Mary's Church and the flagstaff; passing the Fort you get to the old Band stand which was the favourite resort in the evenings before the South Beach Road was formed. On this site there existed in Pitt's time a fisherman's hamlet. Napier Bridge, reconstructed quite recently, spans the Cooum at its mouth. Except during the rainy season a bar of sand forms itself there and closes the mouth of the river, whose current is not strong enough to force its way through the bar into the sea. To prevent the stench from the silvery Cooum becoming a nuisance during the hot season, the bar is opened artificially and seawater is let in by the tidal action. The Marina on the South Beach is a creation of the Governor, Sir M. E. Grant Duff. He himself described it as "one of the most beautiful promenades in the world." It runs along the sea front up to the suburb of San Thome. The octagonal Marine Villa, the Senate House designed by Chisholm, and Queen Victoria's Statue by its side, the Chepauk Palace of the Nawab of Arcot (now used as the office of the Board of Revenue) which was constructed about 1768, the College of Engineering, the Public Works Offices, the Presidency College designed by R. F. Chisholm, the Ice House built about 1840 to store natural ice which came from America, the Copper House, the old Masonic Temple (now the office of the Inspector-General of Police) and the San Thome Cathedral are on the sea front on the South Beach Road and give to the city grandeur and architectural richness.

The Senate House, Chepauk Palace, the Presidency College are all situated in the Chepauk Park, which is divided into two halves by the Buckingham Canal running north and south the whole length of Madras. The other and western portion is occupied by the Madras Cricket Club Ground and Pavilion, the Victoria Hostel for students erected by public subscriptions and managed by a Committee and the Victoria Hospital for caste and gosha women, which was built by the Raja of Venkatagiri and public subscriptions and opened in 1890.

San Thome was founded by the Portuguese about 1522. Roman Catholic Christians have long associated this town with the Apostle St. Thomas. Tradition asserts that he was buried in San Thome and his tomb is still shown. Leaving this as a debatable matter not pertinent to the founding of the town and its growth, an examination of the records of the 16th and 17th centuries and the contemporary accounts of European travellers point to 1522 as the probable date of its founding. A church was at first built with a small monastery attached to it. It is the oldest European structure in India. Gradually a town grew up around it. In 1558 Rama Raya of Vijayanagar came here in great hopes of plunder; not finding it—as he had expected—he left the place in peace. It rose to importance between 1667 and 1682. The fame and popularity of the place increased. More churches were built. It enjoyed a large trade. Master Ossar Frederick described it in 1507 as "the fairest in all that part of the Indies." Balbi, a Venetian dealer in gems, who visited the place in 1582, refers to its fortifications. Then began its decline. In 1616 the inhabitants were found to be killing one another without any regard for human or divine laws or any shame, so that even the Moors and Gentiles abominated their wickedness. The occasion was what they call Points of Honour. De Rezende's account (1675) refers to the city being "continually harassed by the Hollanders" with the result that it was reduced both in population and commerce. When the English established their settlement at Madras the Portuguese readily accepted the English invitation to settle in their place. Its power had waned so much that in 1662 when it was threatened by the Dutch and besieged by Golconda, it yielded to the Moslem power, who held it for 11 years. Domine Navarette, a Spanish priest, who in 1662 came to San Thome Madras, says: "We went to see the city of St. Thomas; the Moors would not let us in. From the gate we saw some good buildings, the walls were very fine. A gentleman that was with us lamented that loss very much. The English are not so strong at Madras-patnam, yet they hold it and are like so to do. What signifies walls and bulwarks where there is no Government." How pathetic and true this remark! In 1672 the Moslems were ousted by the French who occupied it till August, 1674. The two years of French occupation was a period of a prolonged and continuous blockade by the Dutch and Moslems. The Dutch and the English learned French designs to regain San Thome suggested to the Moslem the destruction of the whole town. But the Moslem Governor of the town would not entertain any proposal to destroy "so fine a town." Its fortifications, however, were partly demolished in 1675. The King of Golconda leased the place to Cassa Verona. But the Portuguese in August 1688 resettled it and took it on lease from the Mogul. In 1697 its fortifications were pulled down by Muhammadans. An earthen rampart was built by them in 1702. The town was granted to the English by Muhammad Ali and English colours were hoisted there on 22 October, 1719. Benjamin Robins planned a redoubt at San Thome in the house now called Leith Castle. The redoubt is now a ruined building with massive walls of brick. The old St. Thomas Cathedral has been recently replaced by a new structure. Owing to its convenient distance from Fort St. George, San Thome offered to the enemies of the English and deserters a safe retreat before the town came into English possession.

It is now more than 273 years since the English formed a settlement in Fort St. George. Their possession was only interrupted for about three years (Sep. 10, 1746 to Aug. 13, 1749, when the French occupied it). From 1782 up till 1914 it did not been attacked from outside enemies, though there were times of anxiety during Tipu's wars, the Mahatta wars, Pindari incursions and the great Indian Mutiny. Before that, the fort was frequently threatened. The proximity of San Thome was the source of trouble with the Portuguese in the earlier years. Between the years 1655 and 1667 Fort St. George suffered from Muhammadan incursions and the siege of Madras by Krishnappa Nair. In 1670 Madras was blockaded by a General of Nawab Necknam Khan. The blockade of Madras by the Dutch during the second siege of San Thome in 1673 extended even to Fort St. George. Lingappa, Governor of Ponnammallu, stopped all provisions and ordered a strict blockade of the fort in 1678.

Daud Khan was hovering round the place in 1700 and started a regular blockade which lasted for four months in 1702. The French attacked and took Madras in 1746 and again besieged the Fort in December 1782, the siege continuing up to the middle of the following February. Tippu at the head of his cavalry approached so near as Chintadripettah and raided the suburbs in 1767. Early in 1769 Haidar Ali came to the Mount with no friendly intentions and Madras was saved from an attack by the peace which was at once concluded by Duple at St. Thomas Mount. Again in 1710 Haidar raided St. Thome, Triplicane and the Choultry plain. For the last time the Fort was threatened by Haidar's horse in 1782, when St. Thome was plundered. These incursions and raids always resulted in making the fort stronger and better fortified.

The climate of Madras has been well described as three months hot and nine months hotter. Thomas Bowrey, who visited Madras in 1669, described it as "not at any time very cold or on the contrary very hot, having the full benefit of all sea breezes of wind, but in these following months, May and June, although there be for the most part fresh gales, yet it is something sulphurous, which may most of all be alleged to the wind itself, more than to the heat of the sun." The mean temperature for the whole year is 83°, for the cooler months of December and January 76°, and for the hottest months of May and June 90°. The extremes are 64° in January and 105° in June. The annual rainfall based on the figures for 85 years is 49 in. chs. Like other places on the Bay of Bengal, Madras is liable to severe cyclones. The cyclone of October 1746 damaged the French fleet severely, that of 1782 deprived the town of rice and created a famine. The city cannot boast that it is healthy to native life, though to Europeans it is salubrious enough. European travellers have all praised its healthiness. Captain Roger Middleton described it "as a place healthful, using all kinds of recreation save hounds." Mrs. Kindersley wrote in 1765: "The heat here is excessive, but the climate for India is esteemed healthy, and people frequently come here for the recovery of their health from Bengal, for the soil is dry, and the benefit of the sea breeze, which constantly blows from between twelve and one at noon till the same time at night, is a great advantage." Mr. Staunhope in 1774 quoted with approval the description of Madras as "the Montpellier of the East." These impressions were formed in the cool garden houses of Madras. Quite a different impression will be formed by a visit to the Indian quarters of the City. The tanks to the west and the rice-fields within its limits keep the subsoil water at a high level. About the sanitary condition of the Black Town, Mr. Popham wrote in 1762: "There are no regular drains to carry off water or any well or sewer or other provision made to carry off the ordure, etc., of each house. The consequence is that, exclusive of the effect of the monsoon on the streets, each day's consumption in every house renders them disagreeable to passengers, and the digestion of the day is thrown on the first rubbish sort of which the manual servants can empty it with impunity." Things had not improved in the early years of the last century, for sanitation was not practised by the people nor by the authorities of the day. Presentments of the grand Jury refer to the very defective condition of the drainage of the town. But for the warning given by stenches and effluvia, people would not have attended to the improvement of drains. What Popham said of his time is true even to-day in some of the smaller streets of Madras. The utilisation of the Cooum as a drainage channel is a contributory cause to the bad health of the town. Now that sanitation has been recognised as a science Madras may soon hope to see an improvement in its public health.

The internal administration of the city is in the hands of the Municipal Corporation, which consists of a President paid from Municipal funds and appointed by Government, and a body of honorary commissioners partly nominated and partly elected by the ratepayers and certain public bodies. The President is assisted in his executive work by an Engineer, a Health Officer and a Revenue Officer. Its working is governed by a legislative enactment. The history of this Municipal Government is full of interest and very much resembles that of any English Municipal Institution with some features of Indian Village Government.

Madras like any other South Indian village, had its headman or adbhikari, its accountant or Kanakapillai and its watchman or Peddamark. In the early years of the English Settlement, the native adbhikari was the governor of the town and administered justice to the Indian inhabitants. The incumbent was sometimes an Indian and sometimes a European. He held his Court at the choultry or Town House. When in 1661 the Agent became governor, with judicial powers in consequence of the irregular exercise of powers by the adbhikari, the office of adbhikari ceased to exist. The Kanakapillai or Town Kanakapillai was his chief assistant and kept the Land Registers and maintained the revenue accounts. The choultry was a court of petty causes, a custom house, and a Registrar on office for the record of sales of real property and for the licensing of slaves. The Peddamark was the head watchman, with a number of hallanias to assist him. He arrested wrong-doers, confined them in gaols pending their trial before the governor, and in cases of thefts or robberies he was to compensate the losers. The offices were all hereditary. When the adbhikari ceased to exist, there remained only two offices, the Town Kanakapillai and the Peddamark. The Town Kanakapillai's office was suspended in 1655 in deference to the wishes of the Company.

The European adbhikari (Agent and Governor) Long an Englishman proposed in Aug. 1678 "after the manner in England a way for keeping the town clean by taxing every house at a moderate rate and to appoint a scavenger to collect said moneys and therewith to hire coolies to carry away the dirt and filth which, as in all other towns in these countries, lies in the streets very offensively." The conservancy rate was 4 to 1 fanam per house; the total assessment was 110½ annas. Two-thirds of it went to pay the wages of four coolies and one-third to the Town-servicer or Kanakapillai. The Christian town was to pay the cost of its conservancy and the Black Town to meet its cost. About the end of the same year a clerk of the market was appointed to prevent frauds and abuses in weights and measures and to preserve good order in the market on a monthly pay of 140 fanams. In this imposition of a tax on the people though the people might have agreed to pay the contribution, the Governor and Council did an act not sanctioned by the Charter or Laws of England. But it passed unquestioned for many years.

The recognition of the city as a body corporate and politic with rights and privileges to administer its own affairs independent of outside control is a growth of the middle ages in Europe. The Dutch had extended this system to their possessions in the East, including India. At the instance, apparently, of Sir Josiah Child, who was an admirer and advocate of the colonial policy of the Dutch and directed the policy of the Company at home, a charter was issued by the Company, under the authority given to it by the Royal charters by which the "Town of Fort St. George (commonly called the Christian Town) and City of Madraspatnam and all the Territories thereto belonging not exceeding the distance of ten miles from Fort St. George was constituted a corporation . . . by the name and title of Mayor and Aldermen and Burgesses." The Mayor and Aldermen and Burgesses were constituted a body corporate and politic. A very important feature was that the Burgesses were representatives of the several castes and communities in the Town. The Mayor and Aldermen were a Court of record, the Mayor and 3 senior Aldermen being justices of the Peace. The Mayor's Court had jurisdiction over Civil suits and offences. The Corporation had other duties: building a Town Hall, schools, common showers (sewers), for the ornament and healthfulness of the place, etc., and the regulating and passing the streets and lanes in town. The building of a Hospital and the walling of the town would seem to have been included in the scope. The Charter came into force on September 29, 1718. But funds had not been provided to carry out these works until May 1680, when the petty taxes of Paddy tolls, measuring and weighing duties and Brokerage, and the Government's share were assigned to it. The Corporation slept over this business till 1691, when Governor Yale demanded the restoration of the revenues collected by the Corporation. The Corporation in 1692 wanted the assignment of taxes (for licensing of public houses, etc.) in place of the measures' duties which had been taken away from it. The paving of streets was begun in 1693. Footways were paved with brick and roadways were of sand. The cost was met by assessment on houses in proportion to the area of pavement in front of each house. Up to 1694 scavenger's rates were being collected by a Company's official. In December it was decided to transfer it to the Corporation subject to the condition that the conservancy of the town was managed by the Corporation. In 1695 the Company directed that the town Kanakapillai's duty at 10 fanams on every pagoda of custom collected be granted for ever to the Corporation for beautifying and adorning the town with useful and necessary buildings. It was however, being collected by the Government and appropriated for other purposes. In 1725 the Corporation complained of lack of sufficient funds to carry out their objects; and the Government handed over to it the surplus funds it had under Town Kanakapillai's duties. Among the works which the Corporation carried out were bridges, reclamation of the Island, paving with bricks the roads in the white town, repairing banks, sinking of wells, etc.

The Charter of 1725 excluded heads of castes and communities and so deprived the Corporation of its representative character. There were no Indians or members of the other communities among the Aldermen to decide causes between natives. It was designed for the Government of Europeans primarily. The charges of Mayor's Court were met from the collection of weighing and measuring duties and from fines. A contribution to the Charity School was also being paid by the Corporation. In Governor G. M. Pitt's time there were again complaints from the Corporation of insufficiency of income. The policing of the Black Town had come for consideration before G. M. Pitt, and he ordered the Rental-General to canton the town into proper districts. In 1736 the number of conservancy carts was increased from 13 to 20. In 1744 the Government resumed all the duties and paid in stead 50 pagodas per mensem. Under the Charter of 1753, the Mayor's Court could exercise civil jurisdiction over natives only in cases in which they had agreed to abide by its award. The exclusion of the inhabitants from the Charter took away the Municipal character of the Mayor and Aldermen, who constituted merely a judicial tribunal with jurisdiction over some special communities.

The enforcement of the regulations for the conservancy of towns is best done by Police constabulary. The organisation and reform of the Police was therefore of primary importance in civic progress. Governor Josias Dupre turned his attention to the subject. He separated the Police from the other affairs of the settlement. The President and Council sat as a Board of Police. Streets were paved under the orders of this Board. The householders paying the cost of portions adjacent to their properties and the Government the remainder; public lamps were erected in the Fort and the Black Town; regulations were framed for the holding of markets; the sale of fish was brought under control, a regulation for the hire of servants, etc., was passed; and a Court was established to settle cases in which customs of the natives were in dispute. This Board existed only a little more than twelve months. In the first place, the constitution of this Board was according to the best legal opinion ultra vires and illegal, and repugnant to the Charter; and one Mr. C. Bromley, attorney in Madras, led the opposition to Government's action. There were external dangers from foreign enemies which occupied the attention of the President and Council. To make matters worse the Board came into collision with the Mayor's Court. These causes led to the dissolution of the Board on March 18, 1771. In 1776 the Company's Scavenger issued regulations for the prevention of nuisance in Black Town; carts and cows not to be kept in the streets; each house to have a cesspool; fish to be sold in a separate market. There were 70 scavenging carts. A native overseer of the market was appointed in 1777; prices of provisions were regulated; and the hire of palankeen boys was fixed; a guard and police were attached to the Choultry's office to prevent riots, to maintain peace or order in the markets and streets, and to patrol the streets in the nights. Three years later a Superintendent of Police was appointed.

In 1783, the heavy arrears in the collection of scavenger's rate and the inadequate conservancy of Black Town were reported to Government. "A number of the inhabitants, instead of keeping sinks in their backyards with channels to convey the muddy water thereto, let it pass into the open streets, which not only rendered it very offensive but extremely unwholesome." The Rental-General and Scavenger to Government despaired of any success in sanitation in these circumstances. The unwillingness to pay taxes and the resistance to this impost by the lawyers and merchants was becoming a standing feature and a scandal. The Supreme Court at Calcutta gave their decision against the Government as regards their right to levy rates. Lord Macartney assembled the inhabitants and obtained their consent to the tax,—the consent being subject to the appointment of a native scavenger. There were now 90 carts where 200 would just meet the need. Mr. J. Daniell thus described the state of the town in 1785 "It is even become unwholesome to reside in the Black Town. The streets in time of rain are deep canals of water, and many of the houses on each side of these canals are sunk beneath the lumps of rubbish and filth collected there, from whose exhalations after rain it is rendered dangerous even to the inhabitants accustomed to it." The contract system of cleaning the streets was introduced in 1786, the contractor agreeing to keep 70 carts, 120 bullocks and 80 buffaloes. Popham's plan for the establishment of a Police for the better government and regulation of the Town was before the Council. The residents complained of dearth of provisions, frauds by dealers, the dishonesty of servants, artificers, coolies, etc., bad roads, nuisance in the streets, and robberies and thefts. A committee was appointed to consider the matter and decide remedies. The founding of a general market was recommended; the scavenger's rate voluntarily paid by the people was to be continued; but they could make no recommendation as regards Police—the very word "Police" was taboo to the hair-splitting lawyers and to the Company. They recommended the retention of the appointments of cotwall and scavenger and the appointment of a committee of Police.

In August 1786 the Government appointed a "Committee of Regulation" avoiding the word police. The maintenance and repair of roads were placed in charge of a superintendent of company's gardens, a new appointment created in December. In the following year Kotwalchavadi was built and a regulation of prices of provisions, etc., was passed. The law officers in England pronounced against the scavenging rate, which was therefore suspended in December 1790. The Company at the same time applied to the Government for Parliamentary sanction to levy taxes. In 1791 the Committee of Regulation was abolished as also the offices of scavenger and Kotwal. At length the long desired power was given by an Act of the 35th George III. Additional Justices of the Peace could be appointed by the Governor-General. A justices' department was created. The Justices had judicial and administrative functions.

The Statute legalised the collection of an assessment on houses and lands in the Presidency Towns for expenditure upon their good order and government. Municipal Government proper in Madras began only in 1784. The Justices in Session had a sort of control over the local Police; they collected the assessment, attended to the making and maintenance of roads, the sanitation of the town. Town cleansing was effected by contract under the control of two officers called "Surveyors and Collectors" of assessment. The contractor maintained 6 carts for the Fort and 54 carts for the Black Town. In 1797 the inhabitants represented that they would have "no more cleaning and repairs,"—so much was the popular unwillingness to be controlled or interfered with, even though it concerned such a vital matter as sanitation. Though a legal basis was given by this Act, the administration of the Justices in Session was not such smooth sailing as one would expect. The Town Police or Poonank held office under a new cowle from Lord Hobart. A Police Committee was instituted by Lord Hobart to remedy the defect in the Charter of 1753 which prevented the Mayor's Court from interfering with Police Administration. In 1800 the policing of the town was reformed, and a Superintendent of Police was placed at its head. This Officer later on became the Chief Presidency Magistrate. The cost of the Police was a Municipal charge for some years. Now the Police are paid by Government. Sir William Robinson reorganised the whole Police in 1858. The finances of the Justices in Session were never quite equal to the burdens thrown on them and Government had often to contribute to its fund. The market was also under the control of the Police Committee of Lord Hobart. The supply of provisions was done by contract for some time until the complaints of mismanagement of the market by the Police reached Government. It is open to any person to sell provisions provided he satisfies rules laid down by the Sanitary Department of the Municipality. Food supply has been much improved by the establishment of the Moore Market. The making and repair of roads were attended to by the Justices in Session, the Lottery Committee and the Military Department. Street lighting was not receiving much attention from the Justices.

The drainage of the City consisted in the beginning of a few open drains with a sewer constructed later on. That system, modified and improved, continued very long. The under-ground system gave hopes in the beginning. The city is waiting to see what good it will do. The Seven Wells supplied water to the Fort and the shipping, and to a few residents who chose to have the benefit of good water by paying for it. The Red Hills water supply scheme intended to supply water to the whole city was begun only in 1868 and completed in 1872. From 1840 onwards a number of legislative enactments have slowly improved the Municipal Government of the City and brought it to the present state. The City of Madras has an area of 27 square miles and any improvement of this extensive city means large expenditure of money which the City is not able to bear. The extent of the town, the sea breeze, the many large open spaces within it and the Marina, the park-like residences of its richer inhabitants, the absence of large mills and industries, and the Red Hills water supply, all contribute to minimise the evils due to defective sanitary arrangements. The death-rate averages 40 per thousand per annum. It usually increases during the cold and rainy seasons, and is at its minimum during the dry hot months of April, May and June. The population is liable to periodical visitations of cholera and small-pox. Elephantiasis and leprosy are endemic diseases on the coast-line; the former is generally seen in the form known as "Cochin" or "elephant leg" (Elephantiasis). The land rises slightly as the distance from the sea increases, but in no part of the municipal limits is the elevation more than 24 feet above the sea, while in many thickly-populated neighbourhoods the levels are so low as to suffer serious obstacles to drainage. The new drainage works are expected to do much for the sanitation of the City. The chief outlets for the discharge of excessive rainfall are the Cooum River, the main drain of Georgetown, and two minor channels between the Cooum and San Thomé. The heaviest rainfall usually occurs during the north-east monsoon, as much as 48 inches having been known to fall within 24 hours. The locality of the town is liable to prolonged periods of drought as well as to heavy floods.

This short history of Madras would hardly be complete without alluding to the fact that it is the only city in India that has actually been under bombardment during the great War. On the evening of September 22nd, 1914, the German Cruiser "Emden" visited Madras and opened fire on the city. Several people were killed and injured and much damage was done to the large Oil installation in the Harbour premises. A commemoration stone has been placed in the High Court wall, in North Beach Road in the spot where a large shell from one of the "Emden's" guns exploded.

NEIGHBOURING PLACES OF RESORT.

The following notes give some particulars regarding interesting places of resort near to the City:—

Red Hills.—The native name of this locality is Coil Mathavaram. The village lies in a north-westerly direction about 10 miles distant from Madras. The English name is probably derived from the colour of the soil and the undulating appearance of the country, as there are no hills here in the ordinary acceptation of the term. The formation known as laterite, which is almost peculiar to India, has generally the appearance of a soil. In its normal form it is a porous argillaceous rock, much impregnated with iron peroxide. It is mottled with various tints of brown, red, and yellow, and a considerable proportion sometimes consists of white clay. It hardens on exposure and makes a useful building stone. Some of it has recently been shown to contain a large percentage of hydrates of alumina, the ores from which aluminium is made. This place furnishes laterite for the building of Cogan and Day's Fort St. George. Until about the middle of the 18th century this stone was being quarried by the Company's people under an agreement with the owner of Pullar—"the country where the Iron Stone grows"—a village at the Red Hills. Laterite is not now being used for building in Madras; it serves as a good material for metalling the roads with. One of the earliest railway schemes in the Presidency is connected with the Red Hills. A light railway was in the early part of the last century constructed from the Red Hills to bring into the City the laterite required for road making. A large lake was the centre of attraction in former times, and in its vicinity were several houses belonging to inhabitants of Madras. The aspect of the place has now, however, entirely changed since it has become the fountain-head of the Madras Water supply. The Red Hills Lake has a capacity of 100 million cubic yards, all the water is not available for supply owing to the low situation of the lake. The average annual supply is 4½ million cubic feet, which is insufficient for the needs of the City. The Corporation of Madras is contemplating pumping the water to the top of a ridge, 90 feet above sea level near the lake, to be supplied from thence to the City. Before rail roads had it was a matter of 600 for change of scene and air to Bangalore, the Nilgiris, or Shiravaya and other enticing salubrious stations, the Red Hills and Ennore had strong attractions for the citizens of Madras. They were glad occasionally to escape from the heat and dust of the City and to enjoy the fresh breezes, boating, bathing, and other amusements available at these two places. A few people even resided permanently there coming into Madras during the day for business and returning at night. Very close to the lake is Cummar, a railway station. The water works channel runs very near this place where there is a temple and tank. Drinking water is taken from this tank to Madras by many native residents. Many native week-enders resort to this village, which is provided with choultrys.

Ennore.—This place is about 10½ miles from the Port in a northerly direction, and may be reached either by a boat plying over the Buckingham Canal, or by the ordinary carriage road through Tondiarpet and Trivettore, or by the East Coast Railway. Its Tamil name is Chinnavakum. It was given to Governor Pitt in 1708 by Dhaud Khan. Its chief attraction is a large salt-water lake in which visitors bathe, fish and sail. Even so early as 1746 it was one of the three places outside Madras, where the Company's servants had their country-residences. It has been the scene of many legations. The gayest time that Ennore has known was perhaps when Sir Henry Pottinger was Governor of Madras. He had a great liking for the place, and built there a commodious bungalow for his own use, which he generally occupied during the hot season. Madras society then frequently visited the place and the old Ennore Club House was seldom unoccupied by its members, who were always notable for their hospitality. The tide of fashion has since ebbed away from Ennore owing to the accessibility of other stations by railway and the prevalence of Malaria. The Ennore mosquitoes are the largest and most vicious on the Coromandel Coast, and nets should always be used for sleeping under. The lake contains excellent fish and oysters, and salt of a very superior quality is gathered from numerous pans, situated close to the creeks or inlets from the sea, the crystals are large and clean. It is shipped in large quantities to Calcutta and other ports. The sand dunes along the coast here have been converted into casuarina plantations by private persons. The formation of backwaters here and at Pallacat is due to the sand laden currents of the sea preventing the discharge into the sea of the water and silt of the sluggish rivers of the Chingleput District. Further north lie Poothoopauk and Chintamani. The latter place contains the remains of a Hindu temple almost entirely embedded in sand, and at the former are some large plantations of casuarina belonging to private individuals.

Pulicat.—This village is an old Dutch settlement formed about 1609. The Dutch called their fort Geldria. After 1871 and until it was finally ceded to Great Britain in 1835, it was sometimes in the possession of the English and sometimes in that of the Dutch. It was once a sanitarium much frequented by residents of Madras, but the prevalence of Malaria has deprived it of its popularity. Lord William Bentinck once had a house at this place. It is chiefly inhabited by Lubbays and low-caste Hindus. The wealthier inhabitants carry on trade with Singapore and Malacca, and the common people are chiefly fishermen. Scarcely any trace is left of the old Dutch fort, but the ancient burial-ground, preserved from decay by Sir C. Trevelyan when Governor of Madras, contains many well-cut tombstones, some of them nearly 300 years old. Roman Catholics resort to this place in great numbers on certain of the Church's festivals. The distance from Madras is by canal 25 miles. Visitors at Ennore make excursions to Pulicat by boat, a pleasant journey of five or six hours. The lake which lies between Coromandel and Pulicat, named after the latter place, is a beautiful expanse of water about 37 miles in length and from 3 to 11 miles in breadth.

Coromandel.—This retreat is separated from Pulicat by the lake just named and is bounded on the east by the sea. It is a pleasant place, and, like Ennore, is visited during the hot season. The etymology of the name of this place has been variously explained, but it appears to be a corruption of karimatal (black sand), the black sand so extensively used in former days in public offices and by the people, instead of blotting paper. "Coromandel," as applied to the East Coast, is said to be derived from Cholamundalam, i.e., the region of the Cholas, an ancient dynasty, who at one time inhabited this part of India. This village, called in Persian correspondence Shamshapuli, was granted in 1763 by Nawab Walajah to one Muhudru Muhammed Abu Bakar for performing the duties of Kazi in Madras, etc. His grandfather was appointed as Mulla in the Mosque in Black Town in 1694. There are a few houses here furnished and favourably situated, which may be occupied on payment of a monthly or daily rent. The population, here too, consists almost entirely of low-caste Sudras, Pariahs and Lubbays numbering in all above 3,000.

Little Mount.—About four miles south of St. George's Cathedral and near the Marmaloug bridge is a spur forming what is familiarly known as the Little Mount. Tradition says that in the cave on the Little Mount St. Thomas the Apostle hid himself to escape persecution, and that he cleft the rock with his own hand and obtained water from the cleft to drink, and that pursued there by his enemies he left his footprint at the foot of the hill and escaped to the Great Mount or St. Thomas' Mount. The church is dedicated to St. Thomas. A festival in connection with it is annually celebrated. A great throng of people composed of the middle and lower classes generally collect to witness the usual church processions, etc., which appear to cause great excitement. Under the arches of the Marmaloug bridge may be observed various groups of excursionists, who make this their temporary abode until the close of the festival, which, as a rule, lasts for a period of ten days. There is not, however, anything historical attaching to the place and beyond the festival above referred to, it is of little or no importance. Many of the company's servants resided in bungalows at the foot of the hill for change of air.

Guindy.—A little further south lies Guindy, which may be reached by a short drive from the Marmaloug Bridge. At Guindy is the Governor's country-seat. It is in many respects superior to the Government House at Madras, and owes its modern form to Lord Elphinstone. The park surrounding Government House is very extensive and admirably laid out. A broad and well-formed road runs direct from the main entrance which presents the facade to full view. At Guindy is the Madras Race Course, one of the best in Southern India, and here also is the principal meet of the Madras Hounds.

St. Thomas' Mount.—Passing over the Marmaloug Bridge and turning to the right, a drive of 3 miles along a well-laid out road, beautifully shaded by an avenue of banyan trees will bring the visitor to St. Thomas' Mount, familiarly known as 'The Mount. Indians call it Paramgimal. This is an isolated cliff of green stone and syenite, about 220 feet above the level of the sea.

The summit of the Mount is crowned by an old Roman Catholic Church, called the "Expectation of the Blessed Virgin." The building, erected in 1541, measures 109 feet by 73 feet and belongs now to the Portuguese Mission in the diocese of Mylapore. Behind the altar of this church is a curiously carved stone cross with a very ancient inscription which Dr. Burnell refers back to A.D. 530, it is attributed to Nestorians. Translated into English, this inscription reads—"Who believes in the Messiah and in God above, and in the Holy Ghost, is in favour with Him who bore the Cross." In 1687, there was said to be a tree on the top of the Mount which is called "Arbor triste," that seemeth not to flourish all the day long, but from sun setting to sun rising it is exceedingly full of white blossoms, which withered and fell at mid-day, the very leaves also shut themselves up in the day time!" The Mount may be ascended for a general panoramic view of the cantonment and parade-ground or the artillery, which is always quartered here. The ascent is made by a flight of some 200 steps cut by the famous Armenian settler Uskup at his own cost. There is also a flagstaff which used to be a landmark for vessels at sea standing in for Madras when out of sight.

So early as 1651 Agent Greenhill came to St. Thomas' Mount for hawking. Straynsham Master with a party came here in 1678 to take the fresh air at St. Thomas Mount. In 1685 the council purchased a garden house, it being a very commodious and pleasant place for sickly people to recover their healths at and is often made use of for that purpose. In 1758 at the time of the siege of Madras there were about a dozen garden-houses at the foot on the road to Madras, one of them belonging to General Stringer Lawrence. The French plundered and destroyed his house and effects for which he was given compensation by the Company. St. Thomas' Mount exercised a great fascination on the European residents of Madras in the middle of the eighteenth century. Eyles Irwin, a young civil servant, wrote a poem in 1771 entitled "St. Thomas Mount," the opening lines of which are:—

"Where thou, Saint Thomas, rearest thy sacred bright,
Successive beauties strike the ravished sight,
There orange-groves diffuse their sweets around,
And flowerets paint the variegated ground;
On every side ten thousand blooms appear,
Like lunar circles in her starry sphere."

Lord Pigot was kept a prisoner at St. Thomas' Mount in the house of Colonel Horne who was in charge of the prisoner. The Mount became the gayest place on the Coast, and on Christmas and New Year's day as well as on Fasitta night the balls given by Messrs. Monckton, Russel and Stone were uncommonly splendid. St. Thomas' Mount was the scene of one of the fiercest struggles of the Franco-British War in India, on February 7th, 1759, between Colonel Canillac on one side and Lilly on the other. In 1774 it became the head-quarters of the Madras Artillery.

The Cantonment below the hill contains some very handsome buildings—among them the various barracks for the Artillery, etc. The garrison Church, which is a very handsome ecclesiastical building, dedicated to St. Thomas, is said to be a copy of the historical church of St. Clement Dunes, St. Paul, London. It was built by Government in the years 1825-26, at a cost of Rs. 12,714, and was consecrated on October 31, 1830. It will accommodate 300 worshippers. The church contains many well-executed and interesting memorials of Royal Artillery officers, the most noteworthy being the famous monument to the memory of Colonel Noble, the work of the eminent sculptor, Chantrey. Over the altar there is a large painting representing the appearance of Our Lord to St. Thomas, this was painted in 1851 by Lieut.-Colonel J. B. Richardson, R.A., and presented by him to the church. In the chancel of the church there is some excellent carving in wood, the work of the Rev. James Sharp, a former Chaplain of St. Thomas' Mount. In the churchyard there is a handsome cenotaph to the memory of General Sydenham, a distinguished Artillery officer. The mess house of the Royal Artillery is, perhaps, one of the most handsome of the many excellent officers' mess houses in India.

An excellent Soldiers' Institute is located at St. Thomas' Mount, and is much used by the troops in the garrison. The Institute was built from funds collected by the Rev. Canon A. H. B. Brittain, M.A., to whose energy the great Soldiers' Institute at Seelunderabad is entirely due. The Institute comprises a large concert hall, a billiard room, a library, reading, recreation and game rooms, a bar, supper rooms, rooms for the Superintendent, and a lavatory, with hot and cold baths. Detached from the main building is a Soldiers' Chapel or Devotional Room, and still further away, a commodious house for the accommodation of the ladies who will be responsible for the internal economy of the Institute. About four acres of land are laid out for the outdoor recreation of the men. Experience has proved how much the soldiers appreciate these Institutes, which are free and open without question to any man wearing the King's uniform. There are also a well-built Wesleyan and two Roman Catholic chapels.

Poonamallee.—This old sanitarium for British troops is situated about 13 miles south-west of Madras. It can be reached in about two hours' drive along a well macadamised road, or by rail via Avadi. The station is by its good drainage and general salubrity well suited for a convalescent depot. The small permanent European population of the place are chiefly pensioners. There is a Cantonment Magistrate's and a District Munsif's Court here. A large and handsome hospital has been erected at the station.

This town was the capital of a local chief, styled Naick, who was subordinate to the fugitive Vijayanagar King at Chandragiri. It was a Naick of this place who made overtures to Francis Day for the settlement of the English in his territory and granted the present site of Fort St. George with certain privileges to build a fort and to carry on trade. Subsequently a covey was granted by the Rajah of Chandragiri which made Madras independent of the Naick of this place. The Naick at that time belonged to the Damaris family which is now represented by the Rajah of Kalasiri. His successors were not friendly to the English and frequently harassed the Settlement by stopping provisions, etc., going to it. The Brahmin Naick of this place, in Sorayashan Master's time was P. de la Lingappa, who rose to be the Nawab or Governor of the Carnatic. The place was threatened by Sivaji in 1676 and plundered by the Mahabutas in 1688. The Poonamallee District was granted to the British by the Nawab in 1700. The place became a military station in September 1777. To the east of the present Cantonment is the old Fort now despoiled by warehouses, hospital, etc.

Mahabalipuram—The city of the great Bali known familiarly to the English as the Seven Pagodas is situated on the coast about 35 miles south of Madras and about 5 miles north of Sadras. It is one of the most interesting, and, to archaeologists, it is one of the most important spots in Southern India. The antiquities of the place may be divided into three groups:—(1) the 5 Rathas to the south of the village, belonging probably to the latest Buddhist period; (2) the cave temples, monolithic figures, carvings, and sculptures west of the villages, probably of the fifth or sixth century A.D., (these contain some marvellous relievous, ranking with those of Ellora and Elephanta); (3) the more modern temples of Vishnu and Siva, the latter being washed by the sea. To these last two, with five other pagodas buried (according to tradition) under the sea, the place owes its English name. Quite a host of writers have described and discussed the date of these structures: Major M. W. Carr, C. S. Crole, Sir Walter Elliot, Robert Sewell, James Ferguson and others. Still no final word has yet been said. Students of Indian art and religion have yet to examine these remains. The ideals of the East in art, philosophy and religion have found expression in these ancient monuments, which have therefore to be studied by the natives of the country and their meaning, as they have felt it, explained. The new school of Dr. Arnold Coomaraswami have not told the world what they have to say. The ancient monuments and scriptures of India have yet to reveal their secrets of India's past. A number of coins of all ages have been found in the neighbourhood among others Roman, Chinese and Persian. In the neighbourhood there is a Brahmin village, and an excellent new rest-house affording accommodation for six persons; eggs, fowls, sea-fish and milk are always to be got. A visit to this place will well repay those who take an interest in mythological and antiquarian subjects. The journey can be made in a few hours with ease and comfort by the Buckingham Canal. There is a good metalled road from Chingleput Railway Station (Refreshment Rooms) to Sadras Bridge (18 miles) where boats are taken. Application should be made beforehand to Varatha Rajulu Chetty, although boats can often be got without previous notice. The journey is also often made from Madras by the Buckingham Canal, apply for boats to the Wharf Superintendent, the Basin, Madras.

Sadras—Sadras, which can also be reached by the same canal, is an old Dutch settlement formed in the year 1647. It is situated on the Coast and must have been, during its occupation by the Dutch, an important place and flourishing town, but now it consists merely of a few houses and a native village of no importance. It was long famous for the fine muslins produced by its looms, but now there are very few weavers, and the skill which produced the once famous fabrics is gone. The town was ceded to the British along with the other Dutch possessions in 1825. The fort is in a state of ruin, but enough of the fortifications remain to show the great strength of the masonry and the plan of the place. The monuments of the dead which it contains are an interesting subject of study. The former official residence of the Governor is now converted into a travellers' bungalow. It is rather a curious humpo-roof building consisting of hall with rooms on either side and out-offices in close proximity, the whole forming a square of considerable dimensions. A short way off from this place stands the Governor's residence—a quaint but splendid edifice with towers, elevated terraces and curious arches. It is in a dilapidated state, and portions of it have fallen to the ground. There are still traces of a well-laid out garden and splendid tanks and other objects of interest about the place.

Covelon—Covelon, about 20 miles south of Madras, was originally a Dutch settlement and a place of some strategic importance. Covelon possesses a Roman Catholic church, churches in honour of St. Andrew and St. George, and supports the De Monte family, formerly rich merchants in Madras. The salt-pans to the west of the village are large and the sea-salt exported in this article. Excellent oysters are found here. The inhabitants are chiefly fishermen and salt-manufacturers. The ruins at present in existence belong to the fort called Savelat Batta, built by Nawab Anwar-ul-lin Khan. The fort was seized by stratagem by the French in 1750 and invested by Clive in 1752 when it surrendered without firing a shot.

Chingleput—is 35 miles south-west of Madras and at the junction of the Chingleput Arkonam line with the South Indian Railway main line. The District Court is located here. The District Medical and Sanitary Officer, the Sub-Collector, a District Munsif, a Tahsildar have their headquarters in this place. It has a Municipality. It contains besides the Reformatory School of the Presidency established in 1881 where juvenile offenders are received and trained for some useful life. The Chingleput Fort is supposed to have been built in the 16th century by one Timmaraja. The lake flanked one side of it and swamps surrounded it on the other side. This advantage and the strategic position it occupied rendered the place useful and important in the Carnatic Wars. The hills around the town, the lake and the several lesser sheets of water make it a very picturesque spot, especially after the rains. The health of the town is good.

Comjorenam—Kanchi or Kanchipuram—one of the seven ancient sacred cities of India, is on the branch line of the South Indian Railway from Chingleput to Arkonam about 45 miles south-west of Madras. In ancient Tamil literature, Kanchi is described as a flourishing extensive City. The pilgrim, Ts'ang, who visited it in the seventh century, said that the people of Kanchi were superior to many others in bravery, piety, love of justice and respect for learning. In his day

Brahmans, Buddhists and Jains were equally numerous and influential. It came into Chola possession in the 11th century and remained with them till 1310 when Muhammadans took it. The Hindu King of Vijayanagar annexed it when they were in power. It then passed to Muhammadans in 1446; to Mahrathas in 1677; to Muhammadans again who held it till 1752 when Clive took the place. The town was destroyed by the Mahrathas in 1688 and plundered by them in 1740. In the wars of the Carnatic it was one of the strategic points and played an important part. The town was constituted a municipality in 1866. It gets its supply of water from the subterranean springs of the Vedavati river from where water is pumped into the town. The supply is abundant. The town is hot. Superior sorts of silk such as Indian ladies wear, are made here. There is a large colony of weavers at Pallapalayam, a portion of Conjeevaram. The town is crowded with temples and shrines. There is an old Jain temple of much architectural interest, about two miles from the town. The Siva temple dedicated to Ekambareswami is in honor of Siva Kasi and the Vishnu temple dedicated to Varadarajaswami is in Little or Vishnu Kanchi. Pallava, Chola, Vijayanagar Kings have all built temples and made this historic town famous for sacred architecture. The annual festival in the month of May draws people from all parts of India to this place. In whose lodging and boarding during that season chattrams and choultries have been built by Hindu Rajas. Archaeologists and Epigraphists find plenty of material in this place.

Perumbalkum—Is a village about 14 miles north-west of Conjeevaram. It was here that Colonel Baillie's force was annihilated by Haidar Ali in 1780. This defeat has been depicted in a fresco in the Darva Darlat, Haidar's garden house in Seringapatam.

Karunguli—Is a village in the Madurantakam taluk. It is a railway station on the South Indian Railway line. It was once the head-quarters of the district and an important strategic point in the Carnatic Wars. Wandiwash, Utteramer, Chingleput and this place formed a sort of quadripartite on the line of attack between Madras and Pondicherry. The circumference of the Fort of Karunguli is 1,500 yards. The Fort contains the remains of the granaries of the Muhammadan Government.

Pallavaram—Is a town 3 miles south of St. Thomas' Mount. It used to be called the Presidency Cantonment, native troops being kept there for garrisoning and protecting the Presidency town. The place is healthy, though hot, and water is good and abundant. It is a place of residence for European pensioners and a depot for native infants. There were once many tanneries which have been closed by the cessation of American demand in consequence of the adoption of chrome tanning. The hills near Pallavaram contain the best specimens of St. Thomas' Holland's Charnockite series of Archean gneiss and plutonic rocks. In 1732 George Montagu Pitt erected a sea gate colonnade in Fort St. George. It was an avenue of four rows of pillars made of thirty-two columns of Pallavaram gneiss. These columns may still be seen in the new colonial chamber of the Fort. Pallavaram rocks were also utilized in the construction of the Madras Harbour.

Sriperumbudur—Is on the western trunk road 25 miles from Madras. It is the birth place of Sr. Ramanaia, the founder of the Visishtadhyaita school of philosophy and contains a temple dedicated to him executed in the beautiful style of the early Vijayanagar architecture with excellent sculpture. It is a place of pilgrimage for Vaishnavas all districts throughout India.

Trivallur—Is the head-quarters of the taluk of the same name and is 3 miles from the Trivallur Railway station on the Madras Railway line. The town contains a temple dedicated to Siva and three to Vishnu. Siva's temple is an older building in the usual Dravidian style. The chief Vishnu temple of Sri Vitayaghaswami attracts large crowds of people on New Moon days. A bath in the temple tank and throwing of mola-sas into it and visit to the temple are done by devotees on that day. The place is important as the head-quarters of Abobalem Mutt of the Vadugalan section of Sri Vaishnavites. The place was plundered in 1740 by the Mahrattas.

Saidapet—Is 5 miles from Fort St. George and is the district head-quarters of Chingleput. It is practically a suburb of Madras, and, being within easy reach of Madras by the South Indian Railway line, it has been the residence of many officers, serving in Madras. The Teachers' College is located here. The Agricultural College and Model Experimental Farm located here was recently transferred to Coimbatore. The building is situated on the bank of the Adyar which is crossed by the Marudene Bridge. Weaving and dyeing are its chief industries.

Sembaram—Is very near the Perambur Railway station on the Madras Railway line. The Railway Workshops are here. It is almost a suburb of Madras, and being a healthy locality with good water, it is growing in population. There are many Anglo-Indians here, mostly those connected with the Perambur Works.

Trinkalksharam—Otherwise known as Pakshithatham—is on the road from Chingleput to Sadras. It is an important place of pilgrimage. There is a Siva temple on a small hill, about 500 feet above sea level and a tank at the foot. Two literas come here every day in the morning and are fed by a pondarum. They are supposed to be coming here every day from Benares. A bath in the tank and three circumambulations of the hill are supposed to cure many ills, physical and mental. It is a popular opinion that it is good for consumptives.

Tiruvottiyur.—Is a sacred town five miles north of Madras. It was granted to the English by Daud Khan in 1708, but it was not until 1717 when it was seized by Governor Collet, that the English had secure possession of it. A weaver settlement close to it on the road from Madras was established by Collet and bears his name Kalattipetta (Colletpetta). Tiruvottiyur contains an ancient Siva temple. It was one of the places visited by the Great Sri Sankaracharya. Every Friday the place is thronged by visitors from Madras. Valuable inscriptions in Grantha characters may be seen both inside and outside the temple. The place is malarial.

Uttaramerur—Is in the Madurantakam taluk and is a town of some interest. It is believed that there was a very ancient town on this site; remains of the foundations of buildings are occasionally exhumed to this day.

Wallajah—(Called also Daudu Sivaram) is very near to Conjeeveram. The place is named after Nawab Wallajah who took that title in 1776. It was made a Military cantonment in 1786, on account of its natural advantages from a military point of view. The unhealthiness of the place compelled the abandonment of it as a cantonment; but it still gives its name to the 83rd Regiment of the Indian Army, formerly the 23rd Madras Light Infantry, which bears on its colours "Seringsapatam" and "Nagpure." There is some trade in oil, grain and other agricultural products.

THE CORPORATION OF MADRAS.

GOVERNED BY MADRAS CITY MUNICIPAL ACT, III of 1904.

OFFICES: RIPON BUILDINGS, MADRAS.

OPENED ON 26th NOVEMBER 1913 BY HIS EXCELLENCY THE RT. HON. LORD
HARDINGE, VICEROY AND GOVERNOR-GENERAL OF INDIA.

DESCRIPTION OF THE NEW MUNICIPAL BUILDINGS

The following is a description of the Buildings, written specially for the "Madras Times" by our Art Critic:—

The new Municipal offices, known as "Ripon Buildings," face the Poomamallee Road at the south-west corner of the People's Park. The building is set well back from the road, in a line with the Victoria Hall and the Moore Market, but, unlike either of these buildings, it is designed in what may be called the traditional European style for India. That is, it follows very closely on the lines of many buildings of the Indian renaissance of the sixteenth century, known somewhat inaccurately as the "Palladian" style. One may bemoan the fact that there is absolutely nothing Indian about it whatever; still it is an important and a very fine building in its way, and so far as one can judge before its actual use, eminently suited to the work it is designed to do. Its position is well chosen, being, as it is, in the almost exact geographical centre of the City and easily accessible from all directions.

THE DESIGN.

The design is the work of Mr. G. S. T. Harris, late Consulting Architect to the Government of Madras, and the foundation stone was laid on the 11th December, 1909, by the Earl of Minto, when Viceroy, during his visit to our city. An idea of the plan of the building, which is 252 feet long by 126 feet deep, can best be got by imagining the letter E with the open side joined. That is, it is a rectangle joined through the centre, and so surrounding two open courtyards. The building is three storeys high, and surmounted by a clock tower over the principal entrance, the highest point of the tower being about 132 feet from the ground level. The tower contains a clock with four dials, each eight feet in diameter, and has Westminster chimes. The facade is well designed, consisting of an important main entrance, with ample porte-cochères in front and colonnades each with ten openings extending on both sides. At the first and fifth openings, from each end the face protrudes, slightly giving these portions a little more importance in the design, and at these openings are steps leading up to the ground floor verandah, which is raised about five feet above the ground level. This gives easy access to the building, and the same feature is continued on the sides also. The colonnades of the first and second floors are arched, and the third floor columns support lintels with the finishing parapet above. The main entrance portion is made more important by a large arch, somewhat obscured by the porte-cochère in front, and above this again is a series of three important arches. The portions over the four side entrances are finished at the roof with a flattened or arched pediment.

THE TOWER.

The tower is, perhaps, the only part of the building which displays much originality and this is the most pleasing single feature of the design, the plan being a square, with its corners bevelled, so to speak, forming an octagon with four wide sides, under the clock faces, and four narrow ones which are ornamented each with a pair of columns. The roof of the tower is a square dome with ogee section. The east and west ends of the building follow in general arrangement, the front. There is a covered carriage entrance at the centre of each end, and minor entrances at the corners.

AS A WHOLE.

To sum up, the appearance of the building as one will generally regard it is that of a fine and important structure without any very striking or original features, and worthy of its use, which is much more than can be said for a great many of our other public edifices. One can much better forgive a well conceived design as a whole, with poor detail, than elaborate and beautiful detail wasted on a poor scheme. The weakest part of the building is undoubtedly in the ornamental detail.

The Corinthian capitals are little better than caricatures, and the corbels and shields over the staircase are also very poor and badly executed, but as no great importance is given to these, in an entirely white facade, one is not unduly troubled except on close inspection. The wood work of the staircase is also tawdry; instead of keeping to good teakwood, there is a Brummagen mixture of teak, rosewood and cedar. But these are minor defects which do not detract much from the whole design.

Passing inside by the main entrance one crosses the verandah and enters a marble paved hall way, and crossing this, comes to the main staircase with a glimpse on each side of the two enclosed courts.

ACCOMMODATION.

The ground floor contains sixteen rooms with over 25,500 feet superficial area, and this is used wholly by the Revenue Department, except one room used as a Post and Telegraph Office. The verandahs, which are from 10 to 12 feet wide, protect the inner rooms well from the sun and rain and make for general comfort, even though they must of necessity obscure the light to a certain extent. These surround the inner courts as well as the almost complete outside. Ascending the main staircase, which branches to right and left at a landing half way up, the first floor is reached, and this contains twenty-two rooms, area of about 25,750 sq. ft., and is occupied by the President of the Corporation and the General and Health Departments. The upper floor with twenty rooms, area of 26,000 sq. ft., includes the Council Chamber, in which the meetings of the Corporation are held, and this floor is also occupied by the Works Department. There are, besides the main staircase, two other staircases in the north-east and north-west corners of the building.

OTHER DETAILS.

Other interesting details, kindly supplied by Mr. Coats, the Corporation Engineer, tell us that the foundation for the building was laid on 750 wells, each five feet in diameter, sunk to about 10 feet below the subsoil water level or 17 feet below ground level. The building is fitted up in the most modern fashion with electric lights and fans, electric lift, and telephone communication, while the sanitary fittings are of the most modern and up-to-date types.

The approximate cost of the main building, including the clock, electric and sanitary fittings and telephones, etc., is Rs. 8,00,000, inclusive of the record rooms, stabling and coach houses, garage, tiffin rooms for different castes and latrines.

It is also intended to instal a Municipal Laboratory, which is to be constructed at a cost of Rs. 1,00,000.

The earliest measure of Municipal government consisted of the appointment of watchmen and the imposition of a scavenger cess in 1678. At various periods small cesses on trades and commodities appear to have been levied for town purposes, but whether at any time the quit-rents were directly devoted to similar objects is not clear. The "Conicopolies Fund" was assigned in 1735 for the maintenance of bridges and roads, and a little later this was augmented by the profits on public lotteries. From 1688 the Mayor and Corporation had control of Municipal work and funds. In 1793 an Act allowing the imposition of Municipal taxes was passed; and in 1798 a committee was appointed for the better administration of the town. Rules for markets and public conveyances and a provision tariff were drawn up by this body, and at the same time a portion of the excise revenue was devoted to Municipal purposes. No trace of further Municipal legislation is to be found till 1841; but since that date there have been numerous enactments on the subject. Municipal Acts were passed in 1856, 1865, 1867, 1871, 1878, 1884 and 1904. In 1867 the principle of representation was first asserted. At present the annual income of the City from taxation is about 17.87 lakhs of rupees, or a general incidence, including tolls, of Rs. 3-7-2 per head of the population—not an excessive charge when it is considered that this has to provide for the sanitation of more than 500,000 inhabitants, spread over 27 square miles, to maintain and light some 400 miles of road, to furnish drinking water, to contribute to schools and hospitals, and to provide a system of vaccination, etc. The Corporation consists of a paid President, an Engineer, with other officers, and 36 Honorary Commissioners, 20 of them elected at Divisional elections and the remainder appointed as follows:—3 by the Madras Chamber of Commerce, 8 by the Madras Trades Association, 1 by the Harbour Trust Board, 1 by the Railways, 8 by the Local Government.

MADRAS CITY WATER-SUPPLY.

History.—Originally Madras obtained its water-supply from shallow wells. These became polluted and dangerous to health, and in 1872 water works were opened by Lord Napier. The principal of these was an open channel to bring water from the Red Hills Lake to Madras. These works proved faulty in many respects, and on 17th December, 1914, new works were opened by His Excellency Lord Pentland. They consist of—

New Works.—(a) An Intake Tower in Red Hills Lake located at a point where the water is deep, so that the Lake can be almost entirely emptied without pumping.

(b) A Roughing Filter to remove the larger suspended matters

(c) An Underground Masonry Conduit to convey an adequate supply of water from Red Hills Lake to Madras without the possibility of pollution in transit

(d) Sand Filters to purify the water.

(e) Pure Water Tanks to store the filtered water

(f) Pumps to impart to the water an adequate pressure.

(g) An Elevated Tank to ensure the maintenance of a steady pressure throughout the city.

(h) The entire Remodeling, Alteration and Extension of the Distribution System so as to provide all the inhabitants of Madras with an adequate quantity of water under sufficient pressure.

Effect on Health.—Since the new waterworks were opened, the number of deaths has decreased by 4,000 per annum as compared with average for the previous ten years.

Cost of Works.—The total estimated cost of the new works is Rs. 63 lakhs, of which works to the value of Rs. 52 lakhs have already been executed. Most of the remaining works have been postponed on account of financial stringency caused by the war. The cost of maintenance is about Rs. 2 lakhs per annum, excluding capital charges.

VACCINE DEPARTMENT.

Bye-laws under Section 409 (26) of the Madras City Municipal Act, 1904, for enforcement of compulsory vaccination.

1. In these bye-laws,—

Parent means the father or mother of a legitimate child and the mother of an illegitimate child. Guardian means any person to whom the care, nurture, or custody of any child falls by law or by natural right or recognised usage, or who has accepted or assumed the care, nurture or custody of any child, or to whom the care or custody of any child has been entrusted by any authority lawfully authorized in that behalf. Vaccinator means any (qualified medical practitioner) vaccinator appointed by the Corporation or any person who holds the written permission of the President to vaccinate within the city. Qualified Medical Practitioner means a person holding a diploma which entitles him to practise as a Surgeon or a Physician in the King's dominions and also an Assistant Surgeon, a Licentiate of Medicine, an Apothecary and a Hospital Assistant. Child means a boy under twelve years of age or a girl under ten years of age. Unprotected child means a child who has not been protected from small-pox by having had that disease either naturally or by inoculation or by having been successfully vaccinated, and who has not been certified in the manner hereinafter provided to be insusceptible of vaccination. Vaccine Depot means a place or building where, by direction of the Corporation, public gratuitous vaccination is performed.

2. The parent or guardian of any unprotected child, who is more than six months old and who has resided within the limits of the city for one month, shall take or cause the child to be taken to a vaccine depot for vaccination, or shall procure his vaccination by a vaccinator.

3. The vaccinator to whom a child is taken for vaccination shall, if he finds that such child is not in a state to be vaccinated, deliver to the child's parent or guardian a certificate to the effect that the child is then in a state unfit for vaccination. The said certificate shall remain in force for the time specified therein not exceeding 3 months and may be renewed, if necessary. The cause of unfitness shall be distinctly specified in the certificate.

4. If the vaccinator is of opinion that the child is in a state fit for vaccination, he shall forthwith vaccinate the child and deliver to his parent or guardian a memorandum stating the date on which the vaccination has been performed and that on which the child is to be inspected in order to ascertain the result of the operation.

5. (1) On the date of inspection given in the memorandum, the parent or guardian of every child, who has been vaccinated under the last preceding bye-law, shall take or cause him to be taken to a vaccinator for inspection. (2) If the vaccinator finds on inspection that the vaccination has been successful, he shall give to the parent or guardian a certificate to that effect. (3) In the event of the vaccination being unsuccessful, such parent or guardian shall, if the vaccinator so direct, cause the child to be forthwith vaccinated and subsequently inspected as on the previous occasion.

6. If the vaccinator is of opinion that a child who has been three times unsuccessfully vaccinated is insusceptible of vaccination, he shall deliver to the parent or guardian of such child a certificate to that effect.

7. Any parent or guardian who procures the vaccination of an unprotected child by a vaccinator not employed by the Corporation shall forward a certificate of successful vaccination to the President or Health Officer, or any person authorized by the President within fifteen days from the date of vaccination.

8. The President may cancel any certificate given under these bye-laws, if it be proved to his satisfaction that such certificate has been improperly given or obtained on behalf of any unprotected child, and thereupon such certificate shall no longer be valid and notice of such cancellation shall forthwith be given to the party concerned.

9. (1) No fee or remuneration shall be accepted by a Municipal vaccinator for any vaccination performed or certificate given under these bye-laws. But if any parent or guardian is desirous that a child should be vaccinated in his own house, the President or Health Officer, or any person duly authorized by the President in this behalf, may, upon application by such person and upon payment by him of a fee which shall be charged at the rate of Rs. 2 for every single case and As. 4 for every additional case in the same house, direct a vaccinator to perform the vaccination as hereinbefore provided, at the residence of such person. (2) If any child, or the parent or guardian of a child, in respect of whom the application above referred to is made is a female, who, according to the customs of the country, does not appear in public, the President or the Health Officer, or any person duly authorized by the President in that behalf, shall direct a female vaccinator to visit the house of the said parent or guardian and perform the vaccination in the same manner as if the child had been presented for vaccination at a vaccine depot; but no fee shall be charged in respect of any application made under this clause.

10. If the President or Health Officer, or any person authorised by the President in that behalf, has reason to believe that there is an unprotected child in any house, he may call upon the parent or guardian of any child in the house or other person having custody of the child there to produce for inspection between 6 A.M. and 6 P.M. all the children in the house under his care, and to state their age, parentage and place of birth and the duration of their residence in the City; and he shall, if on such requisition the parent or guardian or other person having custody of the child refuse to produce such children for inspection, or if, after inspection, the fact is proved to his satisfaction that any child is unprotected, forthwith deliver to such parent or guardian, or cause to be affixed to his house, a notice requiring that the child be vaccinated within fifteen days at a time and place to be specified in the said notice. The person to whom the notice above referred to is given shall be bound to comply with it, unless he can produce a certificate stating that the child has already been successfully vaccinated or is either unfit for, or insusceptible of, vaccination.

11. (1) Any person who, in contravention of the provisions of these bye-laws, (a) neglects without reasonable excuse to take or cause a child to be vaccinated or after vaccination to be inspected, on a date to be prescribed by the vaccinator, (b) neglects to forward a certificate of successful vaccination under bye-law 7, (c) refuse to give information or wilfully gives false information required by bye-law 284 regarding an unprotected child, or neglects to comply with the notice under the same bye-law; (2) any Municipal vaccinator, who receives any remuneration for vaccinating a child or for granting a certificate, shall be liable on conviction before a Magistrate to a fine which may extend to twenty rupees.

12. A parent or guardian who, after conviction under bye-law 12, continues for one month his refusal or omission, may again be convicted before a Magistrate, and shall again be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty rupees.

3. The following persons shall be given medicines free of charge:—

(1) All persons who are not in Government service with an income not exceeding Rs. 30 per mensem.

The public should refer to Lunacy Act IV of 1912 for Civil Lunatics and for Military Lunatics, or to the "Rules" for management and superintendence of Lunatic Asylums, for information as to the mode of seeking admission for persons afflicted with insanity into the Lunatic Asylum.

Rules relating to the admission of Private patients into the Government Lunatic Asylums of the Madras Presidency.

I.—Private patients are of two classes:—

(a) Voluntary boarders.

(b) Patients admitted under sections 7 and 10, Indian Lunacy Act, 1912, after application for a reception order has been made to a first-class Magistrate by a relative of the patient.

(a) A voluntary boarder is a patient who suffers from some mental disorder and wishes to enter the asylum for treatment. Such a patient must apply to the Superintendent for a form, which he (the patient) will fill up, sign and have countersigned by two official visitors. He then can enter the asylum as a voluntary patient.

Voluntary boarders may leave the asylum at any time, on giving the Superintendent 24 hours' notice in writing.

If in possession of means, voluntary boarders will pay at the rates laid down in the asylum rules. But if destitute such patients may be admitted free.

(b) To secure the admission of a relative under sections 7 and 10, Act IV of 1912, the following documents are necessary:—

(1) Form I, application for a reception order. This form must be filled up by the patient's nearest relative, (or if not by the nearest relative, the reason should be stated), and presented to a first-class magistrate of the district or division in which the patient resides, together with

(2) Two medical certificates (on Form III).

These medical certificates must be signed, one by a gazetted medical officer, and the other by a recognised medical practitioner who must have examined the patient separately within the previous seven days.

(3) This document is filled up and signed by the magistrate after he has enquired into the case, and is the authority for the admission of the patient to the Lunatic Asylum.

(4) An engagement in writing to the satisfaction of the magistrate by the petitioner or some other person, to pay the cost of the maintenance of the lunatics in the Asylum.

II.—The rates at which patients are admitted are graded according to income. In the case of poor patients with families dependent on them, a reduction of charge is made.

III.—All forms may be obtained free from Government medical officers and from the Superintendents of Lunatic Asylums.

IV.—Private patients admitted under reception orders can be removed from the Asylum at any time by the relative who petitioned for their admission, by making an application in writing to the Superintendent. But the Superintendent may refuse to discharge a patient admitted whom he considers dangerous and unfit to be at large.

V.—All classes of private patients may have private servants, if they pay for them. These private servants are, as a rule, engaged by the Superintendent, and work under his control.

VI.—Friends or relatives are permitted to visit patients on Saturdays, between the hours of 2 and 4 p.m., or by special arrangement, on other days, the Superintendent or Deputy Superintendent giving the necessary permission in suitable cases.

VII.—All letters to and from patients must pass through the hands of the Superintendent who is the sole judge as to the advisability of their being delivered to the parties concerned.

VIII.—Arrangements can always be made for reports on the health of the patients being sent to friends or relations and for notice being sent in cases of sudden or dangerous illness.

IX.—Before applying for the reception of a patient to an asylum enquiry should be made as to whether accommodation is available and, as far as possible, due notice should be given of the time of arrival, so that arrangements for diet, &c., may be made beforehand.

GOVERNMENT LEPER HOSPITAL

MONECAR CHOULTREY ROAD, RAYAPURAM.

Dr. G. O. Pothan, M.B., C.M.	Superintendent
S. Sarangasesha Naidu	Resident Sub-Assistant Surgeon.
Mrs. F. M. Tennent	Matron.
N. M. Thoymomasawmy Mudaliar	Steward and Clerk.
C. Venkatesaperumal Chetty	Storekeeper.

This Institution, which was opened in 1841, is situated at the northern end of Popham's Broadway, and is maintained solely by Government. Accommodation was originally provided for only 84 lepers, but subsequent additions at different dates now enable 274 of all classes,—Europeans, Eurasians and Indians—to be lodged, clothed and fed therein. There is a separate enclosure for female lepers with a large two-storeyed ward. The enlarged premises are, however, still inadequate for the numbers seeking admission, as lepers are numerous in Madras, whither they flock even from remote parts, to eke out a precarious livelihood by begging, or to share in the doles of grain or the public distribution of food to hordes of mendicants. Several of the lepers have been inmates for a number of years, and a few even from childhood to maturity, but a large proportion come and go as their inclination prompts, the monotony of the life as well as the regimen observed in the Hospital palling on them after a time and being uncongenial to the vagrant tastes and habits that most of them have acquired. Chaplains of the Anglican and Roman Catholic Churches minister to the spiritual and moral welfare of their respective followers, while Hindus and Mussalmans are permitted to practise their religious observances in places set apart for the purpose. There is a Reading Room supplied with all the local dailies gratis by their Managers and books and periodicals by the numerous friends of the institution. There is also a small school where juveniles are taught the three R's which is in charge of an elderly patient. Friends and sympathisers contribute towards treats on Hindu festival days and at Christmas time and to the Poor Fund which provides the articles required for school use, prizes rewards for the juveniles and any other necessaries not otherwise provided.

This Hospital was founded by the eminent philanthropist, whose name it bears, and who also provided an endowment of Rs. 50,000 from the interest on which it is maintained. A monthly allowance of Rs. 25 is paid by Government for baba to poor women awaiting their confinement. The number of patients is steadily increasing, a circumstance that bears testimony to the popularity of the institution, and is, moreover, an index of the public want which it fulfils; but its income is incapable of sustaining the increasing demands upon it. The Madras Corporation, however, has, from the 1st April 1907, taken over the financial responsibility of the Hospital. Students of the Royapuram Medical School receive their clinical instruction in Midwifery here. Indian midwives, a class now much in demand, are trained here for service under Local Boards and Municipalities in the mofussil, and during their one-year course they are stipended by Local Boards or Municipalities.

The objects of the Society are the relief of the deserving poor and the suppression of mendicancy amongst the European and Eurasian Christians of every denomination. The means employed for the attainment of these objects are—(1) The provision of an Asylum, called the Friend-in-Need Society's Home for the aged, infirm and destitute, in which they are lodged, clothed and supplied with the necessaries for health and comfort; (2) the allotment of pensions to aged and infirm persons in whose cases exceptional circumstances exist rendering them unfit subjects for out-door than for in-door relief; (3) the maintenance of Work-hops for women; (4) the establishment of a Labour-yard to which members of the Society can refer all male beggars whose profession of willingness to work they desire to test; (5) the investigation of all cases referred to the Society for relief and the grant of such assistance as may be considered necessary; (6) the detection and exposure of imposture; and (7) the doing of whatever else is necessary for the attainment of the above objects. To ensure proper relief in all cases, and the detection and exposure of imposture, Madras is divided into four districts, managed by Local Committees, who carefully investigate all applications. This is the oldest Charitable Institution in Madras, and by supporting it, the public obviate the necessity for a poor rate, which would prove far heavier tax. All subscribers are, ipse facto, Members of the Society. As such they are requested to exercise their right of referring to the Society all applicants for relief, and in the case of beggars, to make use of the Society's mendicity tickets. A Finance Sub-Committee has been appointed who meet regularly once a month to scrutinize the expenditure and receipts and to report generally to the Committee on any special subject. The General Committee meet once a month at 'The Home,' when the business of the current month is carefully gone into, every half-year the Pay Masters of Local Committees send in a return of the out-door pensioners as a check to prevent imposition. The Government have promised an Annual Grant of Rs. 15,000, provided the public will, by subscribing Rs. 22,500 per annum, place the Society in a position effectually to carry out the objects to which it was founded. Subscriptions and donations may be paid to the Bank of Madras, to the Honorary Secretary, or the Honorary Treasurer.

Memorandum of Information for the guidance of Patients proceeding to Coonor for Anti-rabic treatment at the Pasteur Institute.

Coonor is situated on the Nilgiri Hills about 6,000 feet above sea-level and can be reached by the Nilgiri Railway from Mettupalayam in about three hours.

2. Mettupalayam is on the south-west branch of the South Indian Railway and is easily accessible from all parts of Southern India. The Institute is about a mile from the Coonor Railway Station.

3. Climate.—The temperature of Coonor ranges between 60° F. and 75° F. from March to September and between 40° F. and 60° F. from October to February.

4. The rainfall is about 70 inches, the greater part being received during the north-east monsoon in October, November and December.

5. Persons coming from the plains require fairly warm, but not heavy clothing and bedding. Indigent Indian patients will be supplied with blankets.

6. Accommodation.—There are several hotels and boarding-houses which are open all the year round and also a residential club.

(a) Europeans and Eurasians are not accommodated at the Institute, but must make their own arrangements for board and lodging about which there is no difficulty. Persons who cannot afford hotel rates can find inexpensive lodgings in the town within three-quarters of a mile of the Institute.

(b) Well-to-do Indians can find houses in convenient situations and others can arrange for lodging and meals in the town. Indigent patients are accommodated in the free quarters in the Institute compound and will be provided with blankets and cooking pots.

(c) British soldiers and their families stay in the Sanitarium at Wellington and are sent daily to the Institute in a tonga.

(d) Soldiers of Indian regiments will be accommodated in tents in the Institute compound.

7. Patients who are sent by or at the expense of private employers, friends or other private persons or associations should be provided by them with the cost of their return journey and also with sufficient money to pay for their food during the course of treatment, which lasts 14 days. If desired, money for these purposes may be sent to the Director of the Institute, and this course is strongly recommended in the case of mental servants and illiterate or other irresponsible people.

8. Treatment.—Patients should proceed to Coonor as soon as possible after being bitten. All treatment at the Institute is free, but patients in a position to do so are expected to contribute something towards its upkeep. The course of treatment lasts 14 days and patients are not tied up, but can go about as usual, having regard to the rules of life recommended. Patients should always endeavour to bring with them the brain of the animal that bit them, one-half in pure glycerine and the other half in a mixture containing 3 per cent. of bichromate of potash and 5 per cent. of glacial acetic acid in distilled water.

Rules for the grant of concessions to Government servants and to indigent persons not employed in the Public Service to enable them, when bitten by rabid animals, to proceed to the Pasteur Institute at Coonor for treatment.

I.—Concessions to Government servants.

1. "Government servant" in these rules means a Government servant, whether temporary or permanent, paid from Imperial or Provincial funds or from Port and Marine funds administered by Government, but does not include a Government servant on foreign service or in Municipal or Local Fund service.

2. Any Government servant who has been bitten by a rabid animal, and who is too poor to proceed to Coonor at his own expense may, provided that he is drawing not more than Rs. 100 a month, be granted—

(i) his actual travelling expenses to Coonor and back, viz., (a) a single fare each way by railway of the class by which he is entitled to travel on duty, (b) for journeys by road or river, the actual cost of transit, not exceeding the amount admissible under rule. The expenses for the return journey should be paid to the patient at Coonor, after the treatment has been undergone, by the Treasury Officer at that station, on production of a discharge certificate from the Director of the Institute,

(ii) an advance of one month's pay;

(iii) one month's casual leave, any leave required in excess being treated as privilege or sick leave. Provided that if the absence of such Government servant makes it necessary for a substitute to be appointed, the period of absence up to one month may under orders of Government be treated as extra privilege leave instead of casual leave.

Note.—The words "not more than Rs. 100 a month" occurring in this rule and the word "pay" occurring in this and subsequent rules should be interpreted as referring to "monthly substantive pay" as defined in article 38, Civil Service Regulations.

3. Any Government servant who has a difficulty in finding at once the means to enable him to proceed to the Coonoor Institute, and whose pay exceeds Rs. 100 but does not exceed Rs. 500 a month, may be granted an advance not exceeding the amount admissible under Rule 2 (i), and may also be granted an advance of one month's pay and one month's casual leave, provided that if the absence of such Government servant makes it necessary for a substitute to be appointed, the period of absence up to one month may under orders of Government be treated as extra privilege leave and not as casual leave. Any further leave required should be sick leave.

4. Any Government servant drawing not more than Rs. 500 a month, a member of whose family is bitten by a rabid animal and who has difficulty in finding at once the means of sending him or her to the Pasteur Institute at Coonoor, may be granted an advance not exceeding the actual travelling expenses admissible under Rule 2 (i) plus one month's pay. If he does not draw more than Rs. 100 a month, an advance of the travelling expenses of an attendant, if necessary, may be given to a similar amount and subject to the same conditions of recovery (see below) as for the patient. In the case of Government servants whose pay does not exceed Rs. 50 (or in the case of those drawing over Rs. 50 but not more than Rs. 100 where special circumstances exist) the recovery of the amount advanced as travelling expenses of the attendant may be waived altogether or in part if the head of the department thinks fit.

5. Government servants drawing more than Rs. 25 per mensem proceeding to the Pasteur Institute for treatment should bear the cost of their maintenance both during the journey and while under treatment at the Institute. Those drawing not more than Rs. 25 per mensem are entitled to an maintenance allowance during treatment as well as during the journey to and from the Pasteur Institute at the rate of daily allowance admissible to officers of the third and fourth classes as the case may be under article 1063 of Civil Service Regulations.

6. The officers of the Madras Presidency mentioned in Appendix A are authorized to grant the above-mentioned concessions to Government servants employed under them or subject to their authority.

7. The despatch of every Government servant to the Coonoor Institute for treatment should at once be reported to the officer immediately superior to the officer by whom the patient is sent, and by that officer, if he is not the head of the department, to the head of the department. Where the head of the department himself sends the person, no further report will be required. A report should also at once be made direct to the Director of the Pasteur Institute, Coonoor, stating—

- (a) the class to which the patient has been treated as belonging for the purpose of travelling allowance;
- (b) the amount of travelling allowance (by rail, road or river) advanced; and
- (c) the number of days for which and the rate at which maintenance allowance has been advanced.

Note.—No amount can be drawn from the Coonoor Sub-Treasury until this information is received at the Pasteur Institute.

8. The Director's discharge certificate should be prepared in duplicate—one copy of it should be despatched by him to the Government servant responsible for the original advance, and the other copy should be attached to the bill for the travelling allowance for the return journey which will be presented for payment at the Coonoor treasury.

9. The bill for travelling allowance for the return journey should be at the same rates as were allowed for the journey to the Institute and should also be supported by the original intimation received from the officer who is responsible for the original advance. Maintenance charges for days spent at Coonoor and for the days of the return journey may be advanced on separate bills drawn by the Director, who will certify thereon the class to which the patient belongs and the number of days that he was under treatment or that will be occupied in the journey.

10. The travelling and maintenance allowances of Government servants who are paid from Imperial and Provincial funds should be debited to a special debited head, viz., "32, Miscellaneous—Miscellaneous and unforeseen charges—Charges for the treatment of patients at the Pasteur Institute." The travelling and maintenance allowances of servants of Port and Marine funds administered by Government should be debited to the funds from which their salaries are met. Any recoveries of overdrawals to be effected in consequence of a Government servant having been allowed travelling allowance in excess of that to which he was entitled will be made by the Accountant-General.

11. All advances made to Government servants under Rules 2, 3, and 4 should ordinarily be recovered in three equal monthly instalments as provided in Article 137 (h) of the Civil Account Code. But in special cases where it is considered that the enforcement of the rule would cause hardship, the Local Government or the Honourable the Judges of the High Court, the Board of Revenue, and the officers named in the margin, who have been specially empowered in that behalf, may sanction the repayment of an advance in more than three, but not more than twelve instalments.

Surgeon-General; Inspector-General of Prisons; Inspector-General of Police; Inspector-General of Registration; Right Reverend the Bishop of Madras, Presidency Port Officer; Director of Public Instruction, Chief Engr., P.W.D.; Sanitary Commr.

II.—Concessions to Indigent Persons not employed in the Public Service.

12. Any indigent person domiciled in British India not employed in the Public Service who has been bitten by a rabid animal, and who, in the opinion of any officer authorized to grant the concession, is unable to proceed to the Pasteur Institute, Coonoor, for treatment at his own expense, may be granted his actual travelling expenses to Coonoor and back, viz., (a) a single third-class fare each way by railway, (b) for journeys by road or river, the actual cost of transit, (c) maintenance allowance at the following daily rates:—

Europeans and Eurasians, one Rupee during the journey and Rs. 2-8-0 during treatment; natives four annas during the journey and six annas during treatment.

Provided that for the purpose of this rule no person or member of the family of a person who pays more than Rs. 50 as kist per annum or whose income from any other source than land exceeds Rs. 30 per mensem shall ordinarily be classed as indigent; nor shall any person be classed as indigent who has at the time or can obtain from relatives the means of paying his expenses.

A list of the officers in the Madras Presidency authorized to grant this concession is given in Appendix B.

13. A third class pass or ticket from the patient's station to Coonoor and back by the shortest and cheapest route on the terms allowed by the Railway Companies will be procured for the patient by the officer who despatches him to Coonoor. The Director, Pasteur Institute, Coonoor, will make similar arrangements for the patient's return journey after treatment.

15. The patient may be paid in advance the actual cost of transit for journeys by road or by river, when necessary, and maintenance allowance for the period of his journey to Coonoor. He should take with him to Coonoor and produce before the Director of the Institute a certificate signed by the officer despatching him that he has been sent to the Institute for treatment at the expense of Provincial revenues or by Local or Municipal funds.

16. The maintenance allowance of the patient while under treatment at Coonor and for the period of the return journey and also, if necessary, the cost of transit for journeys by road or by river, on the return journey, will be disbursed by the Director, Pasteur Institute, Coonor, in the first instance and subsequently recovered from the sub-treasury, Coonor, on production of a discharge certificate.

17. The Director's discharge certificate should be prepared in duplicate. One copy should be despatched by him to the Government servant responsible for the original advance, and the other should be attached to the bill for travelling allowance for the return journey when presented for payment at the Coonor treasury.

18. The bill for travelling allowance for the return journey should be at the same rates as were allowed for the journey to the Institute and should be supported by the intimation received from the officer responsible for the original advance.

19. Maintenance charges for days spent at Coonor and for the days of the return journey may be advanced on separate bills drawn by the Director who will certify thereon the days that the patient was under treatment or that will be occupied in the journey.

20. Women, children under 16 years of age, and men who are, by reason of age or other sufficient cause, incapable of travelling alone, may be allowed an attendant to accompany them to the Institute at Coonor. Any such attendant shall be granted—

- (i) travelling expenses and maintenance allowance at the rate sanctioned for patients; and
- (ii) wages, not exceeding four annas a day, in cases where the despatching officer is satisfied that the patient is unable to pay the daily expenses of the attendant.

(This concession is also admissible to Government servants drawing not more than Rs. 100 a month.)

The charges of the attendant will be borne by the fund to which the charges on account of the patient are debited. Only one attendant may be sent at the public expense with each patient or patients of the same family.

21. The despatch of each indigent person to Coonor for treatment at the public expense should at once be reported to the Director of the Institute; to the Chairman of the Municipal Council or the President of the Local Board concerned, if the area from which the patient is despatched is within the limits of a Municipal town or of a Local Board; and in every case a report should also at once be sent to the Accountant-General.

The report should state—

- (a) the amount of travelling allowance (by rail, road or river) advanced,

22. The expenses incurred in the treatment of indigent persons should be debited to—

 - (b) "Local funds" where the residence is outside a Municipality but in a tract where the Madras Local Boards Act, 1884, is in force.
 - (c) To "Provincial revenues" in all other cases.

The expenditure under Provincial revenues should be debited to a special detailed head, viz., "32. Miscellaneous—Miscellaneous and unforeseen charges—Charges for the treatment of patients in the Pasteur Institute."

23. The Director may make advances to indigent persons who come to Coonor at their own expense, but are unable to maintain themselves there or to pay for their return journey. The possibility of recovering these advances should then be investigated in the following manner:—The Director should correspond direct with the officers in charge of the districts to which the patients, to whom advances have been made, say they belong, and should ask them to take over for investigation claims in respect of the advances made. District Officers should take over these claims as soon as they are satisfied that the persons who received the advances actually belong to their districts, and should inform the Director that they have done so. The Director should then recover the amounts advanced from the Treasury, producing the district officer's 'acceptances' as vouchers, and the claims should then be passed on to the provinces concerned—to be adjusted as the amounts advanced are recovered or written off under the local rules. Any sum which is found to be irrecoverable after being passed on to a district officer will be debited to the province concerned as a provincial charge under the head "32—Miscellaneous—Miscellaneous charges for the treatment of patients at the Pasteur Institute, Coonor." Otherwise, i.e., if no district officer takes over the claim, it will be adjusted finally under the same head in the books of the Accountant-General, Madras.

24. With regard to indigent patients who are sent for treatment from the Pasteur Institute to the Municipal Hospital, Coonor, the Director may, in the first instance, defray the expenses connected with their diet and in case of death, of their burial or cremation, as the case may be, and recover the cost in accordance with the procedure laid down in Rules 19 and 23.

The King Institute of Preventive Medicine, which owes its inception to the representation to Government of Colonel W. G. King, C.I.E., I.M.S., late Sanitary Commissioner.

† In charge of the Refrigerating and the Electric Plants.

† In charge of the steam and diesel engines and the water plants.

after whom the Institute is named (G.O. No. 1379 L., dated 2nd November 1903), was formally opened by His Excellency Lord Ampthill in May 1905. The Vaccine and the Micro-Biological Section had commenced work as early as in March and August 1904, respectively. Prior to the foundation of the Institute, the vaccine required for the Presidency was manufactured at Local Depôts, an arrangement which had many drawbacks. The Institute did away with these local arrangements and in little more than a year had undertaken the entire supply for the Presidency, sending out lymph from approved strains prepared under the best hygienic conditions. The quantity of vaccine issued annually to District Boards, Municipalities, Military Authorities, Jails and Private Bodies, is sufficient for about two million cases.

The Micro-Biological Section constitutes the Provincial Laboratory for investigation of the etiology of disease. Prior to its institution there were no facilities for the examination of specimens or for micro-biological investigation. In this Section specimens are examined for plague, cholera, malaria, typhoid and other diseases. The examination also of water and other materials of hygienic importance to the Presidency is carried on. It also affords help to Provincial Medical Officers and others in the diagnosis of diseases by supplying strains, media, etc., when these are required.

Since July 1908 the examination of pathological material has been limited to micro-biological work, such examinations, as involve the cutting of sections, have been transferred to the Medical College, Madras. This change was introduced in order to leave more time for work more directly connected with the sanitation of the Province.

Micro-biological and chemical examinations of pathological material, water, etc., are carried on for private persons at moderate charges. Particulars as to these charges, which have been fixed as low as possible so as to bring the advantages of such examinations within the reach of every one, can be obtained from the Institute.

In this Section are also prepared bacterial vaccines for Prophylactic and Therapeutic use. These are supplied in the form of stock vaccines which in ordinary uncomplicated cases should be given a trial. Many cases, however, whether from their special nature, urgency or intractability, require autogenous vaccines, and such are prepared as expeditiously as possible. The following sera prepared at the Lister Institute, London, are also stocked at the Institute and are supplied on demand —

1. Anti-streptococcus serum.
2. Anti-diphtheritic serum.
3. Anti-dysenteric serum.
4. Tetanus Anti-toxin.
5. Coley's Fluid.

A principal feature of the work of the section consists of the systematic examination of the drinking water supplies. Every quarter is carried out a complete chemical and bacteriological analysis of the water of all the piped supplies in the Presidency and the reports on the results obtained are communicated to the authorities concerned. A similar examination is carried out in respect to the water of all well supplies twice a year.

The Institute, though its duties are not primarily educational, gives a certain course of instruction and training to Assistant Surgeons in the Sanitary Department, Plague Inspectors and Sanitary Inspectors. Candidates for Vaccination are required to undergo a course of instruction at this Institute in animal vaccination, the preservation and bacteriology of vaccine, the symptoms of the more common diseases of men and animals, and the instruction on official routine and law in vaccination matters. At the end of six weeks they are required to pass a competitive examination. The fee prescribed for the course and examination is Rs. 25.

The following is the arrangement now in force as regards the course of instruction:—

PEOPLE'S PARK.

General Hospital Road.

INSTITUTED IN 1859

Custodians—MUNICIPAL COMMISSIONERS FOR THE CITY OF MADRAS.

H. GABWOOD, Superintendent.

We owe the People's Park to Sir Charles Trevelyan. It is not at all improbable that the idea of some such place suggested itself to many a man in power before his day. It would be singular indeed if Europeans should, for a hundred years, have seen a large native town growing up on the site of a small village—a vast population massing together with lungs to be fed, with fresh air and limbs to be allured to exercise and health—without sometimes thinking it possible that the “village greens,” “commons,” and “parks” of his native land might perhaps be reproduced with advantage within reach of George Town. The monotony of Indian life, and the lack of sympathy between the classes of Indian society, may be regarded as the causes why such an idea, as suggested, was never carried into execution. While the "upper ten thousand" could have their drive along the Beach and round the Island, it mattered little to them that the "masses" (unfriendly phrase) who could not drive, or were to be stimulated to recreation, had no place convenient for health, exercise and amusement.

But then Sir Charles Trevelyan was a man, not given to routine, and somewhat wide in his sympathy. So the idea of the people's want suggesting itself to him, and he having the power as well as the will—the people got their Park. Thousands who know nothing of the step that cost him a Governorship will hold his name in memory by the People's Park.

But when Sir Charles was re-called, the scheme was in a most elementary stage. The plan was on paper; but never adopted. Little else was done, and little else would have been done if the inheritors of Sir Charles Trevelyan's dignity had not also inherited his sympathy with the people. We owe it to the various gentlemen who have been entrusted with the execution of the scheme, that the "plan" was not thrown into the official waste-paper basket and the idea recorded as one of Sir Charles' amiable faculty. It is in union with Sir William Denison's career, previous to his arrival in this country, that he should have shown a hearty approval of an undertaking so intimately connected with the health and pleasure of the people.

There can be no doubt that the Park has been a success. Any one may convince himself of that by a visit in the morning or evening. The place has already fixed its character as a popular resort, and it is pleasing to see that the natives appreciate the pleasure provided for them, and when the sternness of social life amongst them is relaxed, we may expect to see Lakshmes of George Town taking their ease in the fretted shades of well-grown trees.

A portion of the Park lying north of the Poonamallee Road has been taken up for the erection of the Victoria Public Hall, and the Moore Market, which are now completed, and the portion of land lying between the Victoria Public Hall and Sydenham Road on the west is now taken up for the new Corporation Office, which is now constructed; the portion of land lying north of the Moore Market and south-east of the Bandstand being enclosed with corrugated iron is intended for all kinds of sports held by the South Indian Athletic Association (Limited) and has a grand building erected, called the Moore Pavilion.

The Zoological collection in the Park consists of the following specimens:—

The Menagerie was extended on the northern and eastern sides and new cages were provided within. All the animals and birds that were outside were removed into the Menagerie. The inner ground was improved by laying out ornamental beds and walks.

The new Aviary on the island contains a great variety of ornithological specimens. The area of the Park is 88 awnies, or 116 English acres.

NAPIER PARK.

LAFOND STREET, CHINTADRIPET.

Madras owes so much to the administration of Lord Napier that it is very fitting that some permanent and palpable token of the public approbation of his labours should remain in our midst, whereas it is to stimulate succeeding Governors to walk in Lord Napier's steps, and to remind generations to come of how much the sick, the suffering and the poor must always owe to one who made so great improvements in public health that their effect must long continue a blessing for those who are too weak or poor to help themselves. The Napier Park is such a memorial. Its very position is in a very suitable place in the City of Madras. Standing midway between Government House and one of the principal localities of Madras, its beneficent restoration is due to both. Its site had been for scores of years a pestiferous swamp, covered for months in each year by silt and stagnant water by the overflow of the filthy Cooum. Within was a wretched parcherry, notorious for its liability to epidemic disease, thence spreading throughout the City. To remedy the evil, the Corporation made it a depot for street sweeping cars, so that its level was raised sufficiently to ensure its being free from water. Thus while amending one evil it created another—placing on the borders of a dense population masses of putrescent matter that were very injurious to both the water and air of the locality. This grew to be such an evil that the Sanitary Commissioner at last put a stop to the discharge of sweepings on the land. It was, however, impossible to build on such a spot and the whole remained a useless “dismal swamp.”

At present all is changed. The level has been raised by material dug from ornamental tanks. Trees of useful and beautiful kinds have been planted, and are rapidly growing to their full height. Parks are things of slow growth, in a City, but it will be for many days and this Park is worthy of the name it bears—a boon that will greatly influence for good the whole population of Chintadripet.

The Park contains an area of about 18 acres. A great part of this was formerly the property of Government, but was generously given to the town on condition that the Corporation should purchase the rest from the native owners. For this purpose the Corporation has expended several thousands of rupees, and the total cost, previous to the public opening is less than twenty thousand rupees. The design and laying-out the Park are the work of Mr. Standish Lee, a former Municipal Engineer, who deserves great credit not only for this, but also for the economical, but yet effectual manner in which the whole work was performed.

As a last gift, Lord Napier provided the whole of the funds required for erecting on the western side of the Park a handsome building for a girls' school in Indian fashion.

BRITISH AND FOREIGN BIBLE SOCIETY

MADRAS AUXILIARY

Memorial Hall Compound.

(Founded 1820)

The British and Foreign Bible Society (founded in 1804) exists for the single purpose of translating the Bible into every language and circulating it in every country. The Madras Auxiliary is responsible for carrying out this purpose within the limits of the Madras Presidency and the adjoining Native States.

The Society's principles are benevolent, not commercial. The circulation is mostly by sale, but the selling prices are determined not according to the cost of the books, but according to the capacity of the people to pay.

Out of every rupee spent, five annas are received back by the sale of the Scriptures, the rest being recovered by voluntary contributions.

The Scriptures are now being circulated in 500 languages through the medium of this Society. Nearly three hundred million copies have been sold since its foundation.

To assist in the work of circulation a large number of native colporteurs and Bible-women are employed. Bibles in embossed type for the blind are given away free.

During the war eight million testaments, Gospels and Psalters, in fifty languages, have been distributed among sick and wounded soldiers and sailors, prisoners of war and civilian refugees.

MADRAS GOVERNMENT MUSEUM.

PANTHEON ROAD, EGMORE.

Established on the 14th August 1851.

J. R. Henderson, M.B., C.M., F.L.S., Superintendent.

This Museum is intended chiefly to illustrate the natural history, natural resources and manufactures of Southern India, and the manners, customs and antiquities of its inhabitants. The exhibits are arranged in two separate buildings, viz, the Old Building and the New Building (added in 1896), with the Connemara Public Library situated between them. The Old Building contains the Natural History and Archaeological sections, in the first of which will be found collections of Mammals, Birds, Reptiles, Fish, Snails, Insects, Crustacea, Corals, etc. There are also Botanic, Economic and Geological sections, the last including an extensive series of South Indian minerals. In the Archaeological department, in addition to Hindu and Jain antiquities will be found a large and interesting collection of sculptures from the Buddhist stupa at Amaravati, which are more closely allied to specimens of ancient Greek art than to anything Dravidian. An attempt has been made to reconstruct a portion of the great rail which originally encircled the stupa. There is a valuable collection of coins which can be inspected by specialists on application to the Superintendent. The New Building contains the Art, Industrial and Ethnological sections, comprising artistic manufactures from various localities, arms from Tanjore Armoury and Madras Arsenal, and a large series of exhibits to illustrate the customs of prehistoric man in South India and of his descendants at the present day. Here will be found a very fine and extensive collection of South Indian bronzes, mostly from treasure trove finds, some of which reach a very high level of artistic excellence.

The Museum is open free to the public daily, Fridays excepted, from 7 A.M. to 5 P.M.

N.B.—On the first Saturday of every month, after 12 noon, male visitors are excluded and the Museum is placed in charge of female attendants to enable Goshas females to inspect the collections.

The Connemara Public Library to which considerable additions are made from time to time, contains an extensive series of works relating to South India and a fair supply of current periodical literature. Persons over seventeen years of age may consult books, etc., in the Reading Room daily (Fridays excepted) from 7 A.M. to 5-30 P.M. from October 1st to March 31st, and from 7 A.M. to 6 P.M. during the rest of the year. The Madras University Library is at present temporarily housed in the Connemara Library.

MOORE MARKET.

General Hospital Road

Superintendent.—A. BENNETT.

THE ceremony of laying the foundation stone of the new market was performed on 28th April 1898, in the People's Park, by Col. Sir George Moore, President, Madras Municipal Commission, in the presence of a large and distinguished audience. Colonel Sir George Moore, in the course of a speech giving some particulars of the evolution which brought about the construction of the above market said, inter alia, that in the year 1788, the building in Georgetown, known as the General Market, was erected by Mr. Popham out of a loan raised among the leading European residents of Madras for the purpose of a market. This market scheme proved a failure, and in 1794, the buildings were purchased by Government for the accommodation of native troops stationed in the Presidency City. Subsequently the buildings appear again to have been used as a market, for up to March 1857, the stalls in the market were occupied free of charge. On that date a recommendation was made to Government to have them put up to public competition, the rents to be collected by the Collector of Madras. This arrangement obtained till 1864, when the attention of the Government of India was drawn to an assignment of Rs. 1,000 made by the local Government for repairs to the market which they remarked seemed to be of a nature properly debitable to Local Funds. This resulted in the market being handed over to the Municipal Commissioners from 1st May 1865. From the date of this transfer began the era of its condemnation. The President of the Sanitary Commission, Madras, in August 1865, specially brought to the notice of His Excellency the Governor in Council that it was in a sanitary point of view, highly desirable that an early and entire transfer of the market should take place from Georgetown. Several proposals were made, and in January 1867, the then President brought the subject prominently to notice. Matters dragged along, and in January 1870, the Improvement Committee waited on the then Commander-in-Chief and obtained his sanction to erect a market on the Esplanade known as Pachaiyappa's. In the same month Government sanctioned the grant to the Municipality of the 4 acres of the ground alluded to. Designs with specifications were then called for by advertisement, and two prizes were awarded for the two best designs. In 1873, the then President resuscitated the subject which appears to have been dropped until 1878 when Government was applied to for a loan of Rs. 1,50,000. In 1879, the idea of building a new central market was abandoned. In 1886, the subject was again mooted. In 1897, it was proposed to erect a public market. Committee after Committee sat until in 1895, and after mature consideration this site was selected as being the most central one for all parts of Madras and in close contiguity to both lines of Railway. The market has a frontage of 350 ft. facing south and a depth of 242 ft. There are 200 stalls, and 10 gates lead into the verandah which runs all round the building, which is lighted throughout at night with brilliant electric lamps. The foundation stone bears the following inscription:—

THE NEW EVENING BAZAAR.

The new Evening Bazaar, east of the Moore Market, was opened by Mrs. P. L. Moore, wife of the then President of the Madras Corporation, on the 22nd of December 1910. Mr. Hensman, Assistant Engineer of the Corporation, gave a brief history of the new building, in the course of which he said, that in 1900 the Moore Market was opened, and at the start it was difficult to get a sufficient number of stall-holders, especially China Bazaar men, to come forward and occupy the place. Proposals were then made to remove the Evening Bazaar from its old habitation to the present place, but nothing came of the proposals, until the Military authorities had complained of the nuisance the old bazaar was causing to the residents of the Ordnance Lines, when it was definitely settled to remove it to the People's Park adjacent to the Moore Market. Some years after the removal of the bazaar to the present site, complaints were made from time to time by the stall-holders, that they had no shelter from sun and rain. In 1909, the present building was sanctioned at an estimated cost of Rs. 50,000, and the work was started in February of 1910. The following is the inscription on the foundation stone:—

Contractor.—Mr. P. Sessa Chari.

The Society commends itself to the support and hearty co-operation of the community on the following catholic grounds:—

I. The prevention of cruel and improper treatment of animals and the amelioration of their condition generally throughout the Presidency of Madras. The means employed to obtain this end are:

1. The agency of paid officers, whose duty it is, in the City, to watch, warn, threaten or prosecute all persons found guilty of cruelty to animals.
2. Inviting information and suggestions from all who are interested in the cause of civilization throughout this Presidency, respecting any barbarous practices, whether arising from cruelty or ignorance, over which this Society may be thought able to exercise any influence, towards the improvement in the treatment and condition of labouring and domestic animals.
3. Seeking the aid of the pulpit, the press, and all public instructors in advocating the principles and objects of this Society, having in view the promotion of humanity towards the animal creation.
4. Organizing a system for Prize Essay competitions, offering Medals for the best essay written by any student of the public schools in the Presidency.
5. Publishing tracts and Quarterly journals for instructive reading on the subject of kindness to animals for Native Schools and homes.
6. Offering prizes to the best conditioned hackney horses and bullocks and jukka ponies, etc., at the time of the Animal Show to induce kind treatment among the illiterate class.

II. Its important share and influence as an agent in the education of the people,—the cultivation of those merciful impulses which tend to the growth of humanity and prevention of cruelty. Towards these ends the moral support and co-operation of the community are not less sought than its pecuniary aid to meet the varied expenses incidental to the Society's operations, the extent and utility of which, in a field so wide, can be furthered only by the means at its command. The words of Her Most Gracious Majesty the late Queen Empress of India may well be borne in mind.—“No civilization is complete which does not include the dumb and defenceless of God's creatures within the sphere of charity and mercy.”

The Society established a Veterinary Hospital and a Dogs' Home, which are now managed by the officers of the Government Veterinary College and a Panjrapole or Refuge for old animals.

LOST NOTES, OBTAINMENT OF DUPLICATES.

RESOLUTION.—By the Government of India, Department of Finance and Commerce, Fort William, the 11th January 1882, No. 59.

Read the undermentioned papers relating to the issue of duplicates of Government Promissory Notes alleged to have been lost or destroyed.—

For the second time—

Proceedings in the Financial Department for the month of September 1878, Accounts Nos. 6—12, deciding that, as a general rule, duplicate notes should not be issued till after ten years from the last correct advertisement of loss; and then only under direct orders received from the Government of India.

Proceedings in the Financial Department for October 1878, Nos. 772 and 773, authorising the Comptroller-General to issue duplicates under the rules, taking orders of Government only in exceptional cases.

For the first time—

Letter from Comptroller-General, No. 738, dated the 23rd April 1880.

" to	"	664,	"	19th May	"
" from	"	2614,	"	28th June	"
" "	"	2241-D,	"	15th	"
" to	"	2370,	"	9th Sep.	"
" "	"	2468,	"	27th Aug.	"
" from	"	4478-D,	"	9th Sep.	"

OBSERVATIONS.—By existing practice, when the applicant for a duplicate note has given evidence of the loss of the original, and has established, by strong prima facie evidence, his title to the note, and has taken the prescribed measures preliminary to the application, a duplicate is issued after the lapse of ten years from the date of the last correct advertisement of the loss on a bond being executed by the claimant and two sureties, indemnifying Government against loss. Meanwhile, interest is allowed to be drawn also under a bond of indemnity.

2. It is found that, as the law at present stands, these measures do not give Government sufficient protection from loss, as the period of limitation against the possible holder of the original note runs only from the date on which the note becomes payable; and the date may be many years after the bond of indemnity under which the duplicates have been issued has ceased to be of any practical value.

RESOLUTION.—To protect the State from such double liability, the Governor-General in Council has resolved to modify the procedure as follows.—

- (1) Every claim to the issue of a duplicate note, in lieu of one alleged to be lost, will be submitted by the Public Debt Office to be provisionally decided by the Comptroller-General after at least two years have elapsed from the date of the last correct advertisement.
- (2) If there appears to be no objection to the issue of a duplicate note to the claimant, the Comptroller-General will record his opinion to that effect, and will direct that interest upon the note be paid to the claimant after execution of a bond of indemnity with two sufficient sureties.
- (3) If the note is payable after notice given in the Gazette, the Comptroller-General will give that notice, and will (unless any reason to the contrary appears) issue a duplicate note, on indemnity bond as above, six years after the date of payment fixed in such notice.
- (4) But if the note is of a loan of which such notice of payment cannot immediately be given, then no further step can be taken, until notice of payment can be given in accordance with the terms of the loan.
- (5) The Comptroller-General will publish these notices twice a year, about January and again about July, and will, to each such notice, append a list showing the numbers of notes already within the last six years advertised for payment under this Resolution.
